Council Accepts
LES CompromiseBy LYNN ZERSCHLING

The City Council Monday reached a compromise with Lincoln Electric System board members over how members to the semi-autonomous board should be appointed.

The lawmakers stuck to their hard-line attitude, however, in tightening their control over LES operations by requiring all major contracts to be endorsed by the council.

The lawmakers delayed action until next week approving electric rate increases for all customers.

The rates would go into effect Jan. 1.

That trio of LES items consumed most of the lawmakers' time Monday as the council discussed ways to make the LES board more accountable to the public.

Several council members denied that they are "trying to take over" LES, a fear voiced by members of the LES board.

Councilman Max Denney said LES is "too big" for the lawmakers to assume full responsibility for running the system.

More Control Wanted

But both Denney and councilman Bob Jeambey said they wanted more control over LES and proposed that one way to obtain that control is through the appointment of LES board members.

The current procedure calls for the council and mayor jointly to make those appointments. City Atty. Charles Humble said that procedure may be outmoded since the mayor no longer sits on the council.

Denney had proposed that the mayor appoint board members and the council confirm those appointments — a procedure followed in most other cases.

LES board member John Haessler urged the lawmakers not to delegate their appointment power to the mayor and to retain an active role in LES board appointments.

Intent Of Voters

Haessler asserted it was the intent of the voters who approved the administrative board setup in 1970 that appointments should be made jointly by the mayor and council.

After Humble and LES attorney Norm Krivosha huddled in the council office, the council adopted a proposal penned by the attorneys.

Under the new plan, the mayor will submit names to the council which then must be approved by a majority vote for the council, which is four votes.

If the council rejects a mayoral nominee, the council can appoint a board member if five votes are received.

Bailey Opposed

Only Councilwoman Sue Bailey opposed that appointment procedure. She said the amendment "didn't improve" the procedure significantly, and called for a uniform method of appointing people to serve on all city boards and committees. Mrs. Bailey also argued against the policy of having administrative boards at all.

The new procedure will be used to select four board members, probably within the next two weeks.

The terms of three board members, Vincent Goeres, Neal Tyner and Larry Connealy, expired last week.

On the fourth seat, the council is expected next week to declare the position held by James Bradley vacant because he is ineligible to serve on the board. A story in The Lincoln Star revealed that Bradley has served for four years even though he is not a resident of Lincoln, as required in the law.

LES board chairman Tom Allman urged the council to reappoint Goeres, Tyner and Connealy to keep the continuity of membership on the nine-member board and to show to investors that LES is a stable utility. LES plans to sell more than $50 million worth of bonds in March.

May Be Replaced

Several council members and Mayor Helen Boosalis have indicated they may replace several of the board members whose terms have expired.

In addition to keeping the same three people on the board, Allman said the second essential step the council must take is the approval of a rate increase. The rate hike would boost LES revenues by 25%. Those revenues are needed to help prove Lincoln's stability on the bond market, Allman said.

LES is proposing that residential users' bills be increased an average of 29.8%, commercial users' bills be increased an average of 19.8% and industrial users' bills be increased an average of 25.9%.

NPPD Hike Cited

LES power supply manager Phil Michaels reported that about 14% of the overall rate hike is due to the Nebraska Public Power District's decision to boost wholesale power costs by 70%.

Several people, including Jim Zeitlow from the City-County Commission on Aging, urged the council to freeze electric rates at a certain level. Zeitlow argued that many low income and elderly people won't be able to live on fixed incomes if electric rates keep rising.

Also testifying at the council meeting were members of the International Brotherhood of Electrical Workers, Local 1536. About 30 IBEW members who attended the meeting urged the council to keep the administrative powers in the hands of the LES board. Members voiced concern that a greater council involvement in running the system would turn the management of the utility into a "political football."

Terrorists Fly On To Libya

TRIPOLI, Libya (AP) — Terrorists who shot their way into the OPEC headquarters in Vienna released most of their hostages Monday in Vienna and Algiers, then flew to Tripoli in their Austrian-supplied jet still holding seven oil ministers and high officials.

Arab hostages released in Vienna said the six raiders, who backed the radical Arab line, included four Palestinians — one a woman — and a German, and were led by a man code-named Carlos whose nationality was uncertain. Austrian officials said he was probably not the widely-sought Latin terrorist known as Carlos.

The German terrorist, called Henry, was seriously wounded in Vienna and hospitalized in Algeria.

The Algerian foreign minister said the remaining five terrorists planned to use the Austrian Airlines DC9 to drop off each hostage in his own country. But Libyan state radio said Libyan officials were negotiating for the release of the hostages seized in Sunday's assault on a ministerial conference of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries in Vienna.

Libyan officials said no details would be released until Tuesday, indicating the plane might not take off until then.

The hostages included Saudi Arabian Oil Minister Ahmed Zaki Yamani, Iranian Interior Minister Jamshid Amouzegar, Iraqi Oil Minister Taieh Abdelkarim, Libya's Oil Minister Ezzedin Mabrouk and delegates from Kuwait, Qatar and the United Arab Emirates, officials in Algiers said.

The plane also carried Algerian Energy and Industry Minister Belaid Abdessalam, who although released earlier had volunteered to go along. Other countries with hostages aboard the plane had given their approval for the plan, Algerian sources said.

In Algiers, Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika told newsmen the plane would "make more than two stops" after leaving Algeria. He said the terrorists' plans "will be strictly respected. There is no reason to fear that there will be other victims."

The Libyan radio broadcast a statement issued by the terrorists denouncing Arab states friendly to the United States and calling for unlimited support by the Arab oil states for the Palestinian guerrilla movement.

The statements sounded the same theme the terrorists, who said they were members of the "Arm of Arab Revolution," ordered broadcast over Austrian radio on Sunday.

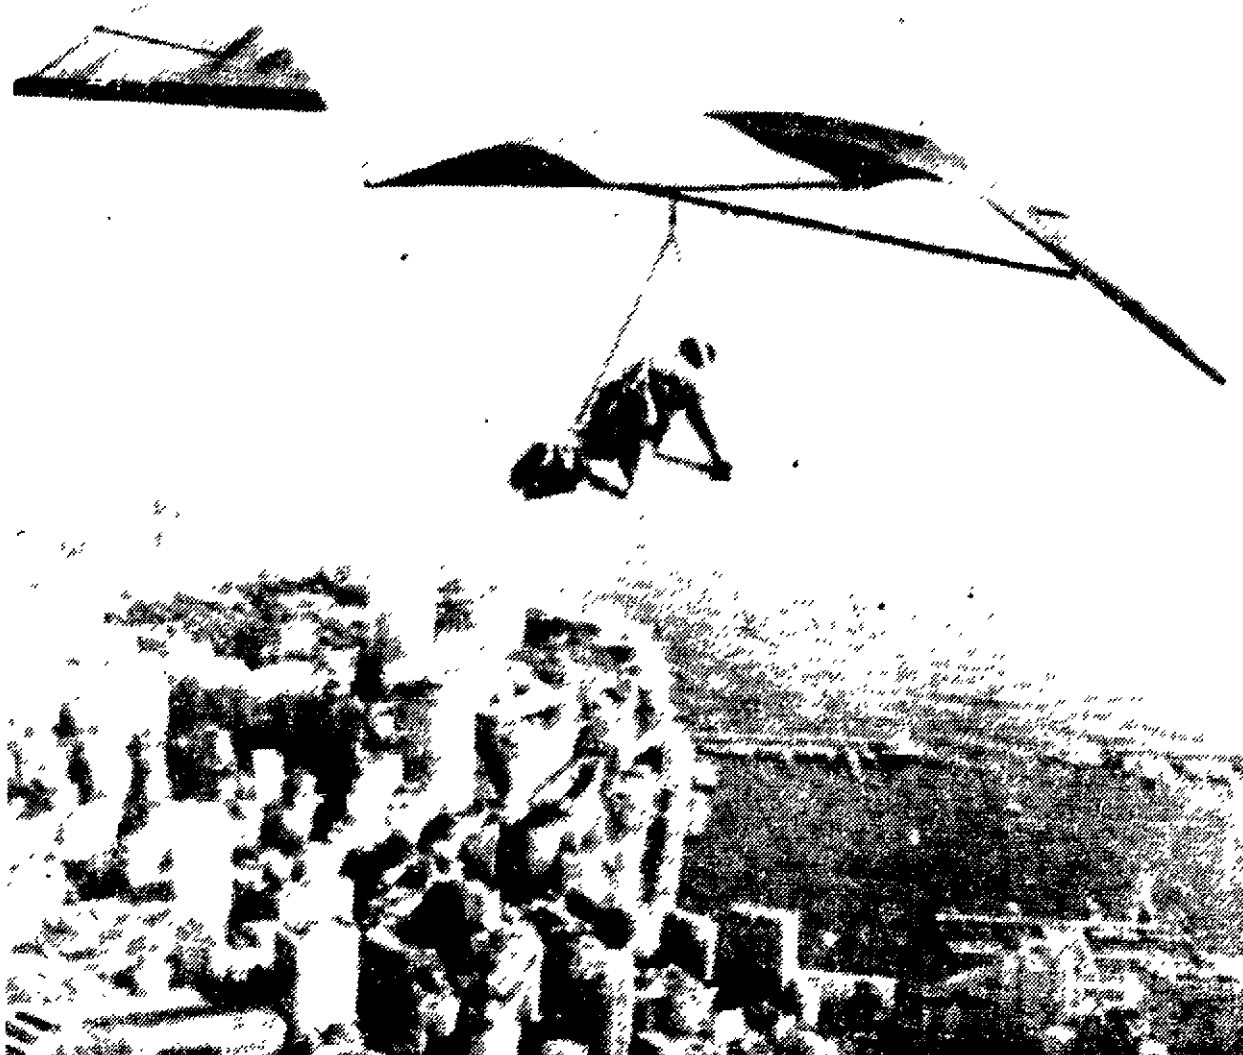

Freed hostages said two Palestinian gunmen were from Lebanon and a third was from Israel. The woman reportedly spoke English, French and German but her country of origin was unknown.

The gang stormed the OPEC headquarters shortly before noon Sunday, killing three persons, wounding at least two and seizing nearly 100 hostages.

After negotiations involving Austrian Chancellor Bruno Kreisky, the squad was allowed to leave Vienna with 41 hostages on Monday. Shortly after arrival in Algiers they released ministers and delegates from Ecuador, Nigeria, Venezuela, Indonesia and Gabon — all non-Arab states.

Wiriya Rawenduz, an Austrian physician of Kurdish descent who had accompanied the wounded gunman to Algiers, said on his return to Vienna the female terrorist had said "We fly to Baghdad." He said he was not sure whether she meant this literally.

Trucker Told To Raise Rates

By BOB GUENTHER

The Nebraska Public Service Commission Monday extended a temporary increase in truck rates to Feb. 1 and ordered a carrier operating at lower rates to charge the same rates as its competitors.

The increase, effective Nov. 1, was extended to give general commodity carriers additional time to submit their proposal for a complete restructuring of tariff schedules.

Although it was due Dec. 1, the commission has not yet received the proposal.

Mills Film Transfer of Lincoln, a non-union firm with low overhead costs, was operating at rates 5% below its competitors as authorized by the commission in 1973. Luther Riblett, Mills' head, had asked to be exempted from the latest increase, saying the increase would hurt his business volume.

The commission denied Mills' request for an exemption and ordered the firm to charge the same rates as its competitors beginning Jan. 12.

The increase is 6 1/2% on loads weighing less than 5,000 pounds and 4 1/2% on loads weighing more than 5,000 pounds.

The Mills situation had posed the commission with the problem of deciding whether low-overhead operators should be forced to charge the same rates as their competitors. Had the dual rate situation continued, some believed other carriers would seek the lower rates, triggering a rate war.

In denying Mills the lower class rates, the commission suggested that Mills consider seeking a set of commodity rates which the commission said would allow Mills to tailor rates to fit its own circumstances.

To allow Mills and other low-overhead carriers permission to avoid class rate increases "may promote intrastate rate wars," the commission said.

"Such a policy would open the door to the possibility of a large carrier applying for class rates 10, 15 or 20% below all others in an attempt to drive smaller carriers with access to less capital out of business before then adjusting rates upward," the commission said.

"The possibility of declining service to the sparsely populated areas of this state would also be heightened if we were to allow arbitrary flagging-out of class rates."

It added, "On the other hand, the current rate structure . . . is flexible enough to benefit smaller carriers like Mills, its shippers and yet not constitute an economic threat to other carriers. Not allowing carriers to flag-out of class rates would not preclude them from effectuating commodity rates and utilizing flag-outs to tailor compensatory rates to their particular type of operation."

Commodity rates are more detailed than class rates and are usually restricted in their routes, origin and destination and shippers. Commodity rates are usually cheaper than class rates for the same product.

The full commission agreed to the Mills order.

Four commissioners favored extending the higher class rates until Feb. 1. Eric Rasmussen of Fairmont was recorded as present but passing.

Ford Vetoes
Picketing Bill

Washington (UPI) — President Ford, risking the possible resignation of Labor Secretary John Dunlop, Monday vetoed a politically volatile bill that would have expanded the picketing power of union construction workers.

The veto meant Ford had reneged on his promise earlier this year to Dunlop and the AFL-CIO to sign it under certain conditions. Dunlop did nothing to dispel reports he would consider resigning if Ford vetoed the bill known as "common situs picketing." The AFL-CIO's building trades unions also threatened to "actively work against" Ford in the next election if he vetoed it.

A spokesman said Dunlop would take a couple of weeks to weigh his next move. Dunlop issued a statement saying the veto "comes as no great surprise, for the pressures on him to do so were substantial. I am naturally disappointed, for I maintain my conviction that on its merits, the enactment of this legislation could have done much to stabilize this nation's construction industry." The veto came under strong pressure from Republican politicians who warned the President his signature on the bill would cause many conservatives to turn to GOP challenger Ronald Reagan in the 1976 presidential election. Reagan opposed the bill.

Ford had been under tremendous pressure from builders to veto the bill and the White House was swamped with mail urging Ford not to sign the measure. Official spokesmen said Ford was the target of an organized mail campaign from foes of the legislation, but said they didn't know who was responsible for it.

The bill would have given labor something it sought for the past quarter-century — the right to shut down an entire construction site in a dispute with only one subcontractor. It also would have streamlined the chaotic system of local contract bargaining in the construction industry.

The measure would have circumvented a 1951 Supreme Court ruling that such picketing constituted an illegal secondary boycott. Opponents portrayed it as a bill fostering compulsory unionism and more strikes.

A Bicentennial Christmas:
Townpeople Rebel Against 'Utility Pole'

By BARBARA CRANG

A magnificent spruce, bedecked with strings of colored lights, silver tinsel and gay ornaments, dominates the town mall in Ashland, N.H., this Christmas season.

This mighty spruce is Ashland's official community Christmas tree. It serves another purpose too. The tree is a festive reminder to the 1,250 residents of the normally peaceful hamlet of the great Christmas tree rebellion that took place in the town a few years ago.

"Why was there a Christmas tree rebellion?" stated an Ashland philosopher who, for reasons that will become apparent, must remain anonymous. "It was a protest, I guess. Call it a protest against all the artificiality in our American way of life. I think that's why I helped to knock down that community Christmas tree that year."

To be exact, the great Christmas tree rebellion took place in Ashland on Dec. 6, 1968.

Actually, something happened a week earlier that made the rebellion a certainty. All of a sudden, the residents of the community lost their Yuletide good humor. This happened when town fathers had the audacity to plant a giant artificial Christmas tree on the mall.

Petitions were circulated protesting what was described as "nothing more than a utility pole with a lot of colored lights hanging from it." But the Board of Selectmen refused to take down the tree.

Thus it was that Police Chief Ernest Paquette received "an emergency call" on Friday evening, Dec. 6. There was "a bad accident on the highway outside of town."

While Paquette was investigating the accident, somebody with a chain saw tiptoed out on the town mall — and down came the community sponsored Christmas tree.

About 50 town residents were reportedly on hand when the artificial tree toppled over. Not one of the eye witnesses was able to give an accurate description of the culprits. It was alleged that these bystanders cheered, whistled and applauded as the "utility pole" came down.

"The next day, a 28-foot tree, fresh from the forest, arrived in town," revealed Mrs. Beverly LeBrique, town clerk. "It was a gift from a farmer in a neighboring town. The new tree replaced the artificial one on the mall."

Mrs. LeBrique said that "green garlands" had been ordered for the artificial tree, but never arrived.

"Those garlands might have saved the tree," she said. "They would have made quite a difference in the appearance of that pole-style tree. They were supposed to be attached to the lights, so the pole would look like a real Christmas tree."

However, it is doubtful if the green garlands would have made any difference.

"Green garlands or not," declared the anonymous Ashland man who helped chop down the pole, "it was still a fake tree. If you're going to have a town Christmas tree, it should be the real thing."

The great Christmas tree rebellion is over now. Mother Nature won out over the man-made variety.

No Evidence Unearthed

WASHINGTON (AP) — Defense Secretary Donald H. Rumsfeld said Monday the Pentagon has unearthed no evidence indicating that the Soviet Union is developing a powerful laser beam to blind U.S. spy satellites.

Speaking at his first news conference since being confirmed as the nation's defense chief, Rumsfeld was questioned closely about intelligence reports that a U.S. early warning satellite had been illuminated five times by strong infrared radiation directed from a source in western Russia.

The satellites are designed to guard the nation against a surprise missile attack. Any attempt to blind them would violate the SALT I nuclear arms limitation agreement between Moscow and Washington reached in 1972.

"It is clear to us there is not a violation in that connection," Rumsfeld said.

Rumsfeld refused to state what the Pentagon investigation learned.

Asked if possible laser beams had illuminated the U.S. satellite, Rumsfeld replied: "Our examination indicates that we do not have evidence to support that 'NO VIOLATION' . . . says Rumsfeld.

Pentagon sources said there have been some reports that infrared radiation may have been caused by a natural gas pipeline fire in the Soviet Union.

Asked if he agreed with former Secretary of Defense James R. Schlesinger that there have been indications of Soviet violations of the SALT agreements, Rumsfeld refused to reply directly.

He said he has not recounted every debate within the administration over possible Soviet violations. He said he was satisfied that any future violations can be dealt with.

On other matters, Rumsfeld said that President Ford and the National Security Council have decided to restore the presence of two U.S. aircraft carriers in the Mediterranean.

Rumsfeld indicated that it will be impossible to keep two U.S. carriers present in the Mediterranean all the time, but he said the Navy has been instructed to develop plans to maintain that traditional presence as closely as possible.

Rumsfeld also indicated that any future U.S. aid to Angola will be requested only after consultation with key congressional committees.

Asked if there were any American military personnel in Angola, Rumsfeld said, "There are certainly none to my knowledge."

Two Manson Followers Arrested

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (AP) — Lynette Fromme's former roommate, Sandra Good, 31, and one of Miss Fromme's close friends, Susan Murphy, 28, were arrested Monday by the FBI on charges of conspiring to threaten business and industry leaders. Like Miss Fromme, both are followers of convicted mass murder Charles Manson.

Paul C. Young, head of the FBI office in Sacramento, said the woman had been indicted by a federal grand jury in connection with "conspiracy to mail threatening communications."

Both women were arrested by FBI agents at the apartment when Miss Good formerly lived with Miss Fromme, who has been sentenced to life in prison for the attempted assassination of President Ford.

The women offered no resistance, Young said, and the apartment was being searched.

Last Sept. 12, a week after Miss Fromme's arrest, Miss

Good released a lengthy list of prominent figures throughout the country. She said they were marked for death by a so-called "International People's Court of Retribution" unless they halted alleged pollution of the environment.

Miss Good, daughter of a San Diego stock broker, was the last of the original Manson followers still free. Miss Murphy, a former nurse, joined the group more recently.

The women came to Sacramento to be near Manson, serving life in prison for masterminding the 1969 murders of actress Sharon Tate and six others in Los Angeles.

Miss Fromme was named as an undicted coconspirator in the alleged plot. The indictment said Miss Murphy and Miss Good "did knowingly and willfully conspire together" with Miss Fromme to mail the threatening letters.

Gulf Oil Employees To Be Withdrawn

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Gulf Oil Corp. said Monday it had withdrawn its employees from Angola and "temporarily" suspended operations in that war-torn African country.

"Border warfare and continued civil war in Angola have made it impossible for the movement of personnel, supplies and equipment necessary for the maintenance of operations there," Gulf said in a statement from its headquarters here.

"Furthermore, the U.S. State Department has requested Gulf to promptly evacuate its personnel and their dependents from Angola for reasons of safety," Gulf added.

Gulf said rival factions in Angola have made conflicting demands for payment of taxes and royalties totalling $125 million due the state of Angola.

"In view of these conflicting requests, payments made to any one faction would place Gulf in an impossible position," Gulf said.

"Therefore Gulf will maintain these funds in special interest-bearing accounts to be held for the benefit of the state of Angola.

"These amounts will become payable to the state of Angola when it has a government that is in control of the territory and population and this government has generally been recognized by the world community."

'Redeye Special' Launches United Airlines Back Into Sky

By United Press International

The "Redeye Special" launched United Airlines into the skies from Los Angeles early Monday morning, signaling the end of a two-week strike which had clogged the year's busiest travel season.

another strike against National Airlines, plus the annual Christmas holiday jam to get home, plus some bad weather on either coast, had led to long lines, jangled tempers and scratched travel plans at many of the nation's major airports.

At Chicago's O'Hare International Airport, many travelers had been stranded overnight during the United Strike. A snowstorm which caused Boston's Logan International Airport to close for a while over the weekend did not help matters.

The jams were easing Monday. But the Portland, Ore., international airport was still recovering from what was described as "a little bit of chaos" which started when airlines, barred from the Seattle-Tacoma airport by bad weather, dumped several hundred passengers on the Oregon terminal.

Despite the United settlement, an Amtrak spokesman in Washington said Monday calls for reservations still ran 26% over last year's rate.

The spokesman said Amtrak space was more available than many travelers might believe. The New York-Florida bookings were very heavy, he said, but routes such as New York-Chicago and Chicago-Los Angeles had plenty of space.

United said it hoped to have all flights back in operation by Christmas Eve, but a Chicago ticket agent warned, "The problems will begin on the 25th."

Estimate Of 1976 Winter Wheat Down 9% From Record Harvest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1976 winter wheat crop is estimated at slightly less than 15 billion bushels, down 9% from this year's record harvest but it still would be the second largest in U.S. history, the Agriculture Department said Monday.

Farmers planted 57.2 million acres of winter wheat, up 2% from a year ago for the 1975 harvest, and the most since 1949, the department's Crop Reporting Board said. The 1976 yield was estimated at 26.1 bushels per planted acre against 29.4 this year.

Winter wheat is planted in the fall and harvested the following summer. It accounts for about three-fourths of total U.S. wheat production, with the remainder planted in the spring for harvest the same year.

In a similar report a year ago, the department forecast the 1975 winter wheat crop at a record of 16 billion bushels. The actual harvest turned out to be 51.2 million bushels larger.

If the 1976 winter wheat crop turns out as USDA indicated, it will mean ample supplies for consumers and export markets, depending on how the latter develop through mid-1977. What prices will be next year, however, is unclear since much depends on the size of the spring crop and how well winter wheat develops over the next six months.

Also, while wheat is primarily a food grain in the United States, corn and other feed grains are more vital to the long-range consumer food situation, since they are the raw materials for the production of meat, milk, poultry and eggs.

The board said that based on Dec. 1 surveys, the 1976 crop prospects were "less than optimistic" in most of the Great Plains area.

"This major wheat-producing area was plagued during most of the early seeding by dry weather," the report said. "Seeding in the drier areas was delayed or the crop was planted in dry topsoil."

Officials said that rain and snow last month were some help but that the total effect will not be known until next spring. Winter wheat conditions in the remainder of the country "were generally bright" as of Dec. 1.

133 Survive Crash

MILAN, Italy (AP) — A Trans World Airlines jet flying many Italian-Americans to Italy for Christmas crashed Monday as it was making an instrument landing in thick fog, injuring 30 of the 133 persons aboard. There were no deaths.

Most of the victims were taken to local hospitals for treatment of cuts and bruises but the pilot and first officer suffered fractures.

Metropolitan Opera tenor Luciano Pavarotti was among the passengers who escaped unharm.

The Boeing 707 was on a flight from San Francisco and New York to Milan's Malpensa Airport with 122 passengers and a crew of 11, TWA announced.

It circled the airport for 1½ hours in pea-soup fog before making an unsuccessful attempt to land, airport officials said.

They added that after regaining altitude, the plane made a second approach 15 minutes later but hit the apron of the runway and skidded onto an asphalt strip used by helicopters.

Ford Signs Energy Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford signed on Monday an energy bill rolling back crude oil prices, but his top energy advisor said consumers probably would not notice any difference in the prices they pay for gasoline and fuel oil.

Federal Energy Administrator Frank G. Zarb told reporters the small potential price decreases probably would be neutralized by cost increases in oil production and the recent 10% price hike by foreign oil nations.

Ford had opposed the oil-price rollback and gradual, limited price increases spread out over 40 months, preferring to remove oil price controls rapidly and soften the impact with a windfall-profit tax, to be distributed to the public.

His debate with Congress on this issue lasted almost the entire year and ran through presidential vetoes of two earlier versions of the legislation.

But the bill signed Monday also includes a wide variety of other provisions, to stimulate energy production and conservation and to authorize an emergency oil stockpile and emergency presidential powers.

"The time has come," Ford said, "to end the long debate over national energy policy in the United States and to put ourselves solidly on the road to energy independence. We cannot afford continued delay."

With the signing of the bill, Ford also announced he was removing the $2-a-barrel fee he had placed on imported crude oil earlier this year. Zarb said the end of the fee would be effective as of midnight last Sunday, Dec. 21.

The energy bill requires a rollback of the average price of U.S. domestic crude oil to $7.66 per barrel, a decrease of about $1.09 from recent levels.

Zarb said this rollback, plus removal of the import fee, would theoretically allow price reductions of about 2.5 to 3 cents per gallon on consumer petroleum products.

But he said the price increases by the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) and current and postponed cost increases within the oil industry would probably wipe out those potential savings.

At most, Zarb said, petroleum prices might drop by about 1.5 cents per gallon.

Ford Signs Aid Authorization Bill

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford on Monday signed a bill authorizing $3.1 billion in foreign aid for a two-year period. The measure calls for distribution of funds to the poorest nations first and sets a target goal for the President of $10 million a year in U.S. food aid to poor nations.

'Redeye Special' Launches United Airlines Back Into Sky

By United Press International
The "Redeye Special" launched United Airlines into the skies from Los Angeles early Monday morning, signalling the end of a two-week strike which had clogged the year's busiest travel season.

Striking members of the International Association of Machinists ratified an agreement over the weekend and the country's biggest domestic airline got back into partial operation Monday.

One of the first flights out was United 118 from Los Angeles to Chicago, known as the "Redeye Special" because it takes off around midnight. It lifted off with 110 passengers aboard, far short of its 342 capacity.

The United Strike, plus

another strike against National Airlines, plus the annual Christmas holiday jam to get home, plus some bad weather on either coast, had led to long lines, jangled tempers and scratched travel plans at many of the nation's major airports.

Estimate Of 1976 Winter Wheat Down 9% From Record Harvest

WASHINGTON (AP) — The 1976 winter wheat crop is estimated at slightly less than 1.5 billion bushels, down 9% from this year's record harvest but it still would be the second largest in U.S. history, the Agriculture Department said Monday.

Farmers planted 57.2 million acres of winter wheat, up 2% from a year ago for the 1975 harvest, and the most since 1949, the department's Crop Reporting Board said. The 1976 yield was estimated at 26.1 bushels per planted acre against 29.4 this year.

Winter wheat is planted in the fall and harvested the following summer. It accounts for about three-fourths of total U.S. wheat production, with the remainder planted in the spring for harvest the same year.

In a similar report a year ago, the department forecast the 1975 winter wheat crop at a record of 1.6 billion bushels. The actual harvest turned out to be 51.2 million bushels larger.

'Fiddle, Faddle' Knew JFK, Magazine Writes

NEW YORK (AP) — At least two women who worked on the White House staff of the late President John F. Kennedy knew him intimately, Time magazine says, adding that the women were code-named "Fiddle" and "Faddle."

The Time report in its current issue followed a news conference last week by Judith Campbell Exner who said she and Kennedy had a relationship "of a 'close, personal nature.'" None of the women in the Time report is identified by name.

Newsweek magazine, in its latest issue, said Mrs. Exner "was the first of the supposed other women in his life to come forward out of the shadowland of gossip with documentation for her claim to his interest."

Newsweek also reported what it said were further details of Mrs. Exner's relationship with Kennedy and added that Kennedy's late brother Robert "set in train the events that disclosed her double life and finally ended whatever part JFK may have played in it."

The new reports and speculation began with the Senate Intelligence Committee report on CIA assassination plots. The report said that a "close friend" of the then president had testified concerning a plan to assassinate Fidel Castro. Later there was speculation that the friend may have known of Mafia talks with the CIA about Castro.

Mrs. Exner's identity was not made public until last week, when she denied that Mafia leader Sam Giancana, who was slain in Chicago last June, used her to transmit messages to the Kennedy White House in connection with a CIA plot against Castro.

According to Time, the two young women known as Fiddle and Faddle worked on his staff and "often turned up in the presidential entourage when Kennedy was traveling. . . . They were with Kennedy in Nassau when he met (British Prime Minister) Harold Macmillan, at Yosemite Park . . . at Palm Beach . . . They usually were assigned quarters near the President."

Time, citing sources close to the Kennedy White House, also tells of a young woman who had fallen in love with Kennedy when he was a senator, was later assigned a job on the National Security Council and was "always available."

Time says the two were interrupted one afternoon "by a knock on the Lincoln Bedroom door. Angered, Kennedy threw the door wide open. There stood two top foreign affairs advisers with a batch of secret cables and a clear view of the woman in bed. Never bothering to close the door, Kennedy cooled down, read the dispatches and made his decisions before he returned to his friend."

Newsweek said it had pieced together a picture of the Kennedy-Exner relationship which began in Las Vegas in 1960 when Kennedy, then campaigning for president, was visiting Frank Sinatra and others. "When JFK joined them, one reveler remembered, they simply assumed he would like female company," according to Newsweek. "Someone asked Giancana to put in a call to Los Angeles."

Mrs. Exner said she had not met Giancana until later, but, Newsweek said, "she turned up at the Sands (Hotel) . . . and found her way across the crowded room into the company of the junior senator from Massachusetts."

Newsweek said the relationship ended as a result of a drive by the late Robert Kennedy, then attorney general, against organized crime. Giancana's phone was tapped and his friends, including Mrs. Exner who was then Judith Campbell, were identified.

FBI Director J. Edgar Hoover learned of the information and sent a memo to the White House noting that a friend of Giancana's was telephoning the private number of JFK secretary Evelyn Lincoln. This, says Newsweek, was the beginning of the end of any relationship.

Campaign Payments Not Blocked

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Supreme Court refused by a 4 to 4 tie vote Monday to block payments of $1.85 million or more in government subsidies to political parties and presidential candidates in the next two weeks.

The court denied a request by challengers of the Federal Election Campaign Act of 1974 for an injunction against the subsidies pending a Supreme Court decision on the constitutionality of the act.

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger and Justices Potter Stewart, Harry A. Blackmun and William H. Rehnquist voted to grant the injunction.

Justice John Paul Stevens, who was sworn in as a member of the court only last Friday, did not take part in the decision.

Those voting to deny the injunction were Justices William J. Brennan Jr., Byron R. White, Thurgood Marshall and Lewis F. Powell Jr.

The court did not write an opinion explaining the reasons for its action.

The act provides for limits on federal campaign spending and contributions and for public identification of contributors as well as for use of tax money to pay for campaigns and nominating conventions.

The Federal Election Commission is scheduled to meet Tuesday to declare at least three presidential contenders eligible for money which will become payable after Jan. 1. President Ford was listed for $390,000, Sen. Lloyd Bentsen, D-Tex., for $500,000 and Terry Sanford, former Democratic governor of North Carolina for $250,000.

Provenzano Pleads Innocent

NEW YORK (AP) — Anthony "Tony Pro" Provenzano pleaded innocent Monday to charges that he took part in a loan-kickback scheme involving Teamsters Union pension funds.

Provenzano, 58, is former president and now secretary-treasurer of the Union City, N.J., Teamsters Union Local 560. His name has come up in the investigation of the disappearance of James R. Hoffa, onetime national leader of the Teamsters union.

One of two other men also indicted in the alleged scheme, Lawrence Paladino, 37, also pleaded innocent before U.S. District Court Judge Whitman Knapp.

The third defendant, Anthony "Tony Bontro" Bontroto, 54, was in a Miami, Fla., hospital after undergoing open-heart surgery, according to his attorney.

Provenzano, in a gray suit, blue shirt and red tie, refused to talk with reporters waiting outside the courthouse at Foley Square. He once served as a vice president of the international under Hoffa. Both men also served time in Lewisburg, Pa., federal prison, Hoffa for mail fraud and jury tampering and Provenzano for extortion. The convictions cost both men their leadership positions in the union.

The latest charge against Provenzano and the other two men alleges that Paladino told a garment center businessman, Herman Goldfarb, who was also working undercover for the government, that he could get loans from the Teamsters $1.34 billion pension fund for 12% interest plus a 13% kickback to be shared by the persons controlling the funds.

In 1974, according to the indictment, Paladino and Bontroto, both of whom served as go-betweens, talked with Goldfarb about a $2-million mortgage loan for the owners of the Woodstock Hotel on West 43rd Street in Manhattan.

The loan was never made, according to the court records.

Dump Warrant Extended

Jersey City, N.J. (UPI) — Federal authorities investigating the disappearance of former Teamsters President James R. Hoffa have received a second extension of a warrant to search a Jersey City dump.

In a brief statement, U.S. Atty. Jonathan L. Goldstein said the warrant was extended Friday for 10 days to search for a body believed buried at Brother Moscato's 47-acre dump.

FTC Accuses AMA Of Illegal Restraint

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Federal Trade Commission Monday accused the American Medical Association of illegally restraining competition by prohibiting its 170,000 members from advertising their services and prices.

The complaint also named as defendants the Connecticut State Medical Society and the New Haven, Conn., County Medical Association.

The agency complaint is not a determination of guilt but only a legal notice that the FTC has reason to believe the defendants have violated federal law. A final ruling will not come until the defendants have had a chance to defend their position.

The agency said it would open hearings before an administrative law judge on Feb. 9. The ruling by that judge can be appealed to the full commission and to the federal courts.

The FTC accusation is based on the AMA's principles of medical ethics, which prohibit member physicians from advertising or soliciting business or from engaging in price competition.

The complaint alleges that as a result of this code of ethics, and of similar codes adopted by state and local medical associations, the prices of physicians' services "have been stabilized, fixed or otherwise interfered with; competition between medical doctors in the provision of such services has been hindered, restrained, foreclosed and frustrated; and consumers have been deprived of information pertinent to the selection of a physician and of the benefits of competition."

The complaint, filed by the FTC Bureau of Competition, asked that relief be granted including, but not limited to, a prohibition of any agreement restricting competition "including agreements or ethical principles restricting a doctor's freedom to advertise, solicit patients, or to independently determine the fees at which services will be performed."

Alfred Dougherty Jr., director of the Bureau of Competition, told a news conference the FTC complaint was not aimed at requiring doctors to advertise but only aimed at allowing them to do so if they wished.

Judge Orders Release Of Agnew Documents

WASHINGTON (AP) — U.S. District Judge June L. Green directed the Justice Department on Monday to turn over for her private inspection documents from the 1973 investigation of Spiro T. Agnew.

The action by Judge Green came just before expiration of a deadline she set last week for federal officials to release materials gathered in the probe leading to Agnew's resignation in 1973 as vice president and no contest plea to a charge of evading 1967 federal income taxes.

Judge Green told Justice Department lawyers to provide her with all Agnew case materials except grand jury transcripts.

She did not set a deadline immediately for turning the documents over to her.

The judge said she would review the material before deciding which documents, if any, can be released to Bruce Fedder and Roy Baldwin, two George Washington University law students who sued for access to the records under the Freedom of Information Act.

Their suit sought release of any evidence that the government possesses to support allegations in a 40-page document made public by the U.S. attorney for Maryland after Agnew pleaded no contest to a tax evasion charge. Agnew was fined $10,000 and placed on unsupervised probation.

Chapin's Sentence Shortened

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal judge Monday cut short the prison sentence of Dwight L. Chapin, appointments secretary to former President Richard M. Nixon.

Chapin entered the minimum security institution at Lompoc, Calif., on Aug. 11 to serve a sentence of 10-to-30 months for lying to a federal grand jury.

U.S. District Judge Gerhard A. Geseil ordered the sentence reduced to six-to-18 months, which would make Chapin eligible for parole in mid-February next year.

The judge also said that on the basis of a report from the warden at Lompoc he was recommending that Chapin be paroled as soon as possible.

Brutality Begets Brutality

With no disrespect to victims intended, it is getting increasingly hard to tell the terrorists without a program.

The world is currently afflicted with an epidemic of insurrection and terrorism: rebels in Argentina, civil war partisans fighting and killing in Angola, fanatical South Moluccan nationalists terrorizing innocent civilians in the Netherlands, Christians and Muslims at each others' throats in Lebanon. Then there are the old stand-bys, the Irish Catholic and Protestant militants and their English sympathizers who are always good for a few bombings and random machine-gunnings and the Palestinian guerrillas and the Israelis who are always willing to respond under their eye-for-an-eye credo.

And now Arab extremists are victimizing, of all people, representatives of the world's oil exporting countries, most of them Arabs who are the bankrollers of the Arab cause.

That is a seeming contradiction, but not really. The Arab terrorists and their sympathizers held the OPEC ministers hostage and shed blood to draw attention to what they regard as unwarranted Arab concessions to Israel. "The Arm of Arab Revolution" wants a hard line and only a hard line followed in the blood feud with Israel. And if they have to kill a few oil sheiks among the hostages to drive the point home, so be it.

But to a world growing weary of the killing, it becomes a little confusing.

One of the many tragic consequences of terrorist activity is that brutality begets brutality. The question of how to respond to the increasing acts of terrorism is plaguing societies who have been trying to get away from the eye-for-an-eye principle in the belief that state-sanctioned murder is no better than any other kind of murder. Governments, too, are being driven to a policy of sacrificing hostages to discourage other terrorists from taking drastic steps which might not yield desired results. It is hard to say "go ahead and kill them, we will not meet your demands," but that is what is happening in many places around the world. And those who have argued that capital punishment is no deterrent to acts of passion and bloodshed are having second thoughts.

World conferences on terrorism seem to have had little effect because terrorism seems to be on the rise. Nations will react to it as they have to, and it does not bode well for the idea of a civilized response to uncivilized acts.

'Year Of The Recess' Ends

Congress called it quits and went home for the holidays very late last Friday. It was a somewhat ludicrous and fitting ending to what might be called the "Year of the Recess."

The Senate kissed off 1975 by voting a ban on the expenditure of money for aid to military operations in Angola and refusing a last-minute plea by President Ford to reconsider its action. It is hoped that when members of the Senate return from a month-long holiday vacation, they will feel compelled to give more than nodding attention to the subjects of Soviet aggression, the disintegrating detente policy and the future of the United States in world affairs, and be less inclined to a superficial comparison of Angola and Vietnam. Both houses will need to devote considerable attention to the consequences of a hands-off Angola policy when Congress comes back in January.

Full Of Christmas Sneer

NEW YORK — Encounters with Sales Clerks.

I. The Duchess.

She was standing behind a counter in one of those chic Madison Avenue shops which cater to transient millionaires with a few hours to kill between jets. Her manner told everything of the tragedy that had reduced her to commerce. Her cool refusal to pay the slightest heed to the clamoring millionaires bespoke a background among the ducal crests of Burke's Peerage. She, who was accustomed to the consort of princes of the royal blood, was not one to accept lucre from vulgar millionaires in exchange for cuff links and jade.

I approached her in abject terror. "I am looking," I said, "for the perfect gift."

She neither spoke nor looked at me, and no wonder.

Doubtless her brother had horsewhipped persons of my class for having the impudence to apply to Elton. She showed several pieces of colored cardboard and a plastic box across the counter and went back to ignoring millionaires.

I pursued her. "How much is this cardboard and plastic, if I may be so bold?"

"Eight dollars," she said.

"That seems a lot for a little cardboard in a plastic box."

She withered me with a glance of utter indifference, then turned her back and gazed at the ceiling, dreaming of the time she had sat with the Queen in the Royal Enclosure at Ascot.

I begged her to accept my $8, but she refused to hear me. I had been judged and found unworthy.

II. Mister Elegance.

He was busy upgrading a customer in one of those small Madison Avenue shops which cater to people who like to have their egos crushed. When he had finished with the poor wretch, I told him I wanted a pair of shoes precisely like those right there in the window.

"Your foot isn't fit to wear a shoe that good," he said. "What's more, your shabby overcoat is not the sort of thing we like to see in this shop. If you will wait in the cellar, I will come down and wait on you if nobody important comes in."

I waited several hours in the cellar and finally a stock boy came down and threw me out.

III. The Florentine Gang.

They were all standing around sneering at the customers in one of those Fifth Avenue shops of the sort that are called "boutiques" and traffic in expensive garments vulgarly emblazoned with advertising trade marks of the "boutique" owners.

I stood there a long time, and finally they noticed me and sneered at me, too. It made me feel good because this shop was so exclusive that its sales clerks sneered only at the most elite people.

Feeling that I had been accepted, I picked up an item on the counter and admired its fantastic markup.

"Would you be good enough to wait on me?" I asked.

"Of course not," he said.

"Can't you see I'm busy sneering at the customers?"

"But if you waited on me," I pleaded, "it would give you the opportunity to abuse me with some really insufferable insults."

"Don't get insolent with me, Crumb," he replied. "Around here the sales clerks dish it out, and the customers take it."

At that point the entire Gang went out to lunch and the customers were all thrown out on the street.

IV. Karla Marx.

The hatred of the materialistic bourgeoisie was etched in the scornful stare she gave me as, in response to my request for the perfect gift, she unfolded a rayon scarf of fuchsia and puce.

"Do you have something a bit more elegant?" I inquired.

"Go take a flying jump at the moon," she replied.

V. Size Twelve.

She was seated in one of those small East Side dress shops which do business with the kind of women who marry board chairmen.

"You poor guy," she said.

"And I mean poor."

"Does it show so clearly?"

"Rich guys never have Size 12 women," she said, "and we carry nothing bigger than a Size 8. Rich women are born skinny. It's not fair."

"There, there," I said, for she was about to weep.

"I was born Size 12," she said.

"I'm very fond of Size 12," I told her.

"Yes," she said. "That's why I didn't insult you. If the manager knew, he'd fire me, but I just couldn't do it."

"Are you under orders to insult all the customers?"

"Rich people expect it," she said. "If they don't get insulted, they think you're running the kind of shop that sells to just anybody, and they quit coming in."

"It's really nice not being insulted for a change," I said.

I felt so cheered by the spirit of Christmas that I went to a discount drugstore and bought a toothbrush and the checkout woman screamed at me for balking up the line.

The Need To Control

BOSTON — When the Vietnam war came to its inevitable end last spring, Henry Kissinger said that Congress's refusal to try to drag it on proved America's unreliability as an ally.

Now President Ford is doing the same on Angola. The Senate vote to stop covert intervention there, he said, "is a deep tragedy for all countries whose security depends on the United States."

Why do these men want to exaggerate the impact of distant events on their country's reputation? Why do they invite the world to judge American strength by our position in Angola, a land that has no historical tie to the United States and has never depended on us for its security?

One reason given by Mr. Ford for taking the Senate vote so seriously was that it "deprived us of our ability to help the people of Angola." He said the U.S. should be able to help any people "decide their own fate. We have over a period of time helped to maintain free governments."

Talk of helping countries to "decide their own fate" has rather a mocking sound these days. Does Mr. Ford think people have forgotten the massive and conspiratorial U.S. efforts to upset the democratic process in Chile? Can he use the word "free" without gagging, for such objects of U.S. support as the governments of Brazil, South Korea, Indonesia, the Philippines?

In fact, hardly any official pretends that our Angolan policy has anything to do with the people of Angola. It is justified, instead, as necessary to maintain our influence in Africa against that of the Soviet Union.

Recent history goes against the notion that Soviet military aid in Africa leads to permanent influence. In Egypt it was counter-productive. Experts think the USSR would reap more trouble than joy from neo-colonial activity in black Africa. The specter of a Soviet naval base in Angola, raised by Mr. Kissinger, does not alarm the Pentagon.

Nor is there good reason to believe that the United States will win respect for itself in Africa by intervening in Angola. The effective way to gain influence would have been to condemn the South African army's intervention. Instead, the U.S. is on the same side as South Africa — a coincidence, we say, but one that could hardly be more fatal to our reputation in most of the continent.

The ultimate political argument is that failure to act in Angola will hurt our image with the Russians, making them think us weak everywhere. To the contrary, after Vietnam a shrewd Soviet leader might want to see America involved in remote quarrels outside her experience. He might also care less about Angola than about continuing American willingness to be forthcoming on such matters as grain supplies for the USSR.

After Vietnam it was widely said that the United States had learned one basic lesson: It cannot be a global policeman. But the Angolan affair shows that Gerald Ford and Henry Kissinger have not learned that lesson. For them, "greatness" depends on the will to be involved anywhere and everywhere in the world — and to see that events follow the script we write.

In the magazine, Foreign Affairs, last January Prof. Richard R. Fagen of Stanford examined what was then known about Chile and said U.S. covert activities were "the symptoms and consequences of a foreign policy which attempts to manage conflict and change on a global scale." The activities would continue, he said, as long as American leaders thought our interests were "threatened by almost any Third World experiment in socio-economic transformation not directly under our control."

Control: That is the end so deeply, even irrationally, desired. The feeling stems in part from the personality of our dominant policy-maker, Kissinger. He is authoritarian by nature and finds it more congenial to deal with the predictability of authoritarian regimes than with the disorders of democracy. But there is more to it than that. For years now, the highest levels of American government have been fixed on the status quo, mortally fearing change in the world irresistibly changing.

It is the mark of the insecure to become hysterical at change. Great countries, like mature individuals, understand that life is complicated — and that they cannot make everyone else conform to their vision.

Scrooge Renaissance?

WASHINGTON — Perhaps Ebenezer Scrooge just lived before his time. His 19th Century Dickensian England slowly abandoned skintight politics for social assistance, and the rest of the English-speaking world followed suit. Scrooge's name became a fatal symbol of negativism.

Over a century later, though, as Anglo-America groans under what is increasingly perceived to be excess: welfareism, labor union power and consequent inflation, Scroogeian tenets are enjoying a belated renaissance of sorts. Even in the shadow of Christmas, with holiday shoppers thronging the streets of Sydney, Auckland and Vancouver, "Skintight politics" has just notched up an extraordinary and perhaps prophetic series of election victories in Australia, New Zealand and Canada.

By no means all of this political trend has its origins in economic policy. Growing local dissatisfaction with various liberal policy shibboleths like detente, military de-emphasis, Third World sympathy and sports boycotts of South Africa have also played a role. Unnerved by their shrinking world power, Anglo-American nations seem to be returning to a politics of toughness and leanness at home and abroad.

The election results deserve detailed emphasis. They are enormously important. Their message is simple, not complex. With a little bit of luck, they may even be trumpets of a new era.

NEW ZEALAND: On Nov. 28, the conservative National Party toppled the ruling labor government from power. Rejecting the Labor Party's expanding social programs and deficit finance — characterized as a "policy of borrow and hope" — New Zealanders gave the National Party a solid 19-member majority in Parliament. The new Conservative Prime Minister, Robert Muldoon, promised law-and-order politics and "a year of belt tightening."

AUSTRALIA: On Dec. 13, the conservative (Liberal-Country Party) coalition, led by tough, right-tilting Malcolm Fraser, unseated Prime Minister Gough Whitlam's Labor Party in a landslide that set a 44-year record. Most commentators have interpreted the election as a negative referendum on Whitlam's soaring welfare and social outlays, labor union ties, anti-Americanism and excessive friendliness toward neutralist Asia. Fraser has pledged to cut spending and "get the productive sector working."

CANADA: On Dec. 11, the voters of British Columbia turned out their Socialist provincial government, transforming a New Democratic Party parliamentary majority of 38-10 into a conservative alliance (Social Credit) majority of 36-17. Prime Minister Trudeau, whose Liberal government has been losing critical provincial and parliamentary by-elections to Conservatives this year, lamented the British Columbia defeat as "a swing to the right" and a desire to return to "the old virtues." Welfare programs are expected to be trimmed.

BRITAIN: Britain's Labor

government has also been feeling the sting of adverse by-elections, and a combination of public opinion and economic necessity has forced Prime Minister Harold Wilson into a striking new posture. The Washington Post reported that British government officials, in a December meeting, privately told business and labor leaders that the Wilson regime will be "giving priority to industrial development over consumption or even social objectives..."

Doubters will say: But what about the United States? In this country, the trend is confirmed by the inadequacy of the ailing Republican party as a vehicle for its expression. Yet where party is not a factor — in bond referenda and nonpartisan elections — a similar trend is omnipresent. On Dec. 11, in San Francisco, perhaps the most liberal city in America, a relatively colorless neo-Scroogeian mayoral candidate won a stunning 60 per cent of the vote.

Politics is an erratic business. The U.S. and world economies are weak and nervous. Deficits and welfareism may yet regain momentum. But the possibility of a reversal and a new sensibility is as cheery as an extra shot of brandy over a holiday helping of plum pudding. Anglo-America has watched a decade of naive liberalism at home and abroad, and the wise verdict is rising from a score of ballots: The public is saying — "bah, humbug."

Lincoln, Neb. Here at Tabitha Home, the staff sends out meals on wheels for people who are shut-ins and unable to do their own cooking. The meals are at a minimum cost and taken out and delivered by kind volunteers at noon-time.

Lincoln, Neb. I would like to comment on the recent controversy surrounding the performance of the city planning director, Douglas Brogden.

I have known Mr. Brogden since we both came to Lincoln nearly a quarter of a century ago and I have been and am impressed with his personal integrity and his professional competence. Lincoln was recently adjudged the third best city of its size in the United States as a place to live, and credit for much of this can be laid at his door. When I compare downtown Lincoln with its beauty and relative stability with other cities I know, I am impressed anew and remember all those hard-fought battles on zoning and land development that have kept the center city decay at bay.

Mr. Brogden is an administrator and by the very nature of the job with its commitment (essential) to the greatest good for the greatest number, he must at times make decisions that are unpopular.

I am not familiar with the details of this current situation but I would question whether as competent a civil servant as he is is greatly at fault as the attack on him would lead one to believe.

As a taxpayer and a voter in this community, I think we have a right to expect that issues will be fought on the basis of issues and not on the basis of personalities.

The occasional incident that surfaces leads me to believe that too much time is being devoted to politicking and to defending the status quo and not enough to the hard work necessary to deal with the problems of modern government.

Lincoln, Neb. Although I don't often agree with City Councilman Bob Sikyta, I believe his comments regarding City Planning Director Doug Brogden were right on target. It has been apparent to me over the last several years that our planning director lacks the qualities of leadership, sensitivity and appreciation for Lincoln's environment.

I have watched our neighborhoods become blighted by tasteless apartment architecture, while the city and county waste endless time and money struggling to adopt a new comprehensive plan.

In an effort to understand why no decisions are being made and no direction is being taken, I attended the Monday, Dec. 15 meeting of the City-County Common. This was a frightening experience. Several of the officials were clearly upset by his lack of answers and direction. However, when the meeting ended, it was apparent nothing had been accomplished. No direct answer, no positive solutions.

I thank Mr. Sikyta and the others for bringing this serious problem to the surface. I respectfully urge the mayor, the City Council and the County Board to demand immediate completion of a comprehensive plan.

Lincoln, Neb. It seems to me as if Nebraska's Marching Red's money distribution problems are becoming very disgusting.

I have followed the Big Red for over 40 very interesting years. I have contributed a lot of money over this many years by purchasing football and basketball season tickets. Extra Point Club memberships have been contributed so that Nebraska would have floats in the Orange Bowl parade and now, contributions have been made to send the band to the Fiesta Bowl.

In previous major bowls, the stadiums seated around 75,000 people. Nebraska's allotment money from these bowls was nearly large enough to pick up the band's tab, along with the team's expenses, while the Fiesta Bowl seats around 51,000, meaning a smaller money allotment for the Big Red. This, added to the inflated cost of the trip and the band members' needs, meant that $42,000 was needed to send the band. Some very fine Big Red fans were not long in making the band trip possible.

Considering all the football games we have attended these past years, imagine what these games would have been like without our fine band. Try to imagine all the time, work and expense put in by the band members and their leaders. Thinking of the football season just past, the new added leadership has given our fans one of the top bands in the nation. We have heard many such fine comments.

One needs only to attend a basketball game during the holidays when the band members are gone on vacation to find out how much they are missed. What would the Big Red breakfast before home games be like without band members who make up the pep band?

Now that the fund drive for $42,000 has gone over the top, let's forget this discussion of dividing up the money for charitable ideas, or for cities needing school funding for Vietnamese doctors. I for one contributed to and for the band fund, not for charity.

Other contributors whom I have talked to say, let's all boost one of the very top college marching bands, match them up with the nation's No. 10 ranked football team — and on to the Fiesta Bowl! Let's help Big Red win a record-breaking No. Seven straight bowl game.

Let's not forget to include plenty of those $11 steaks that someone mentioned. I hope they are from our best Nebraska-raised and fed beef.

Brutality Begets Brutality

With no disrespect to victims intended, it is getting increasingly hard to tell the terrorists without a program.

The world is currently afflicted with an epidemic of insurrection and terrorism: rebels in Argentina, civil war partisans fighting and killing in Angola, fanatical South Moluccan nationalists terrorizing innocent civilians in the Netherlands, Christians and Muslims at each others' throats in Lebanon. Then there are the old stand-bys, the Irish Catholic and Protestant militants and their English sympathizers who are always good for a few bombings and random machine-gunnings and the Palestinian guerrillas and the Israelis who are always willing to respond under their eye-for-an-eye credo.

And now Arab extremists are victimizing, of all people, representatives of the world's oil exporting countries, most of them Arabs who are the bankrollers of the Arab cause.

That is a seeming contradiction, but not really. The Arab terrorists and their sympathizers held the OPEC ministers hostage and shed blood to draw attention to what they regard as unwarranted Arab concessions to Israel. "The Arm of Arab Revolution" wants a hard line and only a hard line followed in the blood feud with Israel. And if they have to kill a few oil sheiks among the hostages to drive the point home, so be it.

But to a world growing weary of the killing, it becomes a little confusing.

One of the many tragic consequences of terrorist activity is that brutality begets brutality. The question of how to respond to the increasing acts of terrorism is plaguing societies who have been trying to get away from the eye-for-an-eye principle in the belief that state-sanctioned murder is no better than any other kind of murder. Governments, too, are being driven to a policy of sacrificing hostages to discourage other terrorists from taking drastic steps which might not yield desired results. It is hard to say "go ahead and kill them, we will not meet your demands," but that is what is happening in many places around the world. And those who have argued that capital punishment is no deterrent to acts of passion and bloodshed are having second thoughts.

World conferences on terrorism seem to have had little effect because terrorism seems to be on the rise. Nations will react to it as they have to, and it does not bode well for the idea of a civilized response to uncivilized acts.

'Year Of The Recess' Ends

Congress called it quits and went home for the holidays very late last Friday. It was a somewhat ludicrous and fitting ending to what might be called the "Year of the Recess."

The Senate kissed off 1975 by voting a ban on the expenditure of money for aid to military operations in Angola and refusing a last-minute plea by President Ford to reconsider its action. It is hoped that when members of the Senate return from a month-long holiday vacation, they will feel compelled to give more than nodding attention to the subjects of Soviet aggression, the disintegrating detente policy and the future of the United States in world affairs, and be less inclined to a superficial comparison of Angola and Vietnam. Both houses will need to devote considerable attention to the consequences of a hands-off Angola policy when Congress comes back in January.

Full Of Christmas Sneer

NEW YORK — Encounters with Sales Clerks.

I. The Duchess.

She was standing behind a counter in one of those chic Madison Avenue shops which cater to transient millionaires with a few hours to kill between jets. Her manner told everything of the tragedy that had reduced her to commerce. Her cool refusal to pay the slightest heed to the clamoring millionaires bespoke a background among the ducal crests of Burke's Peerage. She, who was accustomed to the consort of princes of the royal blood, was not one to accept lucre from vulgar millionaires in exchange for cuff links and jade.

I approached her in abject terror. "I am looking," I said, "for the perfect gift."

She neither spoke nor looked at me, and no wonder.

Doubtless her brother had horsewhipped persons of my class for having the impudence to apply to Elton. She shoved several pieces of colored cardboard and a plastic box across the counter and went back to ignoring millionaires.

I pursued her. "How much is this cardboard and plastic, if I may be so bold?"

"Eight dollars," she said.

"That seems a lot for a little cardboard in a plastic box."

She withered me with a glance of utter indifference, then turned her back and gazed at the ceiling, dreaming of the time she had sat with the Queen in the Royal Enclosure at Ascot.

I begged her to accept my $8, but she refused to hear me. I had been judged and found unworthy.

II. Mister Elegance.

He was busy upbraiding a customer in one of those small Madison Avenue shops which cater to people who like to have their egos crushed. When he had finished with the poor wretch, I told him I wanted a pair of shoes precisely like those right there in the window.

"Your foot isn't fit to wear a shoe that good," he said. "What's more, your shabby overcoat is not the sort of thing we like to see in this shop. If you will wait in the cellar, I will come down and wait on you if nobody important comes in."

I waited several hours in the cellar and finally a stock boy came down and threw me out.

III. The Florentine Gang.

They were all standing around sneering at the customers in one of those Fifth Avenue shops of the sort that are called "boutiques" and traffic in expensive garments vulgarly emblazoned with advertising trade marks of the "boutique" owners.

I stood there a long time, and finally they noticed me and sneered at me, too. It made me feel good because this shop was so exclusive that its sales clerks sneered only at the most elite people.

Feeling that I had been accepted, I picked up an item on the counter and admired its fantastic markup.

"Would you be good enough to wait on me?" I asked. "Of course not," he said. "Can't you see I'm busy sneering at the customers?"

"But if you waited on me," I pleaded, "it would give you the opportunity to abuse me with some really insufferable insults."

"Don't get insolent with me, Crumb," he replied. "Around here the sales clerks dish it out, and the customers take it."

At that point the entire Gang went out to lunch and the customers were all thrown out on the street.

IV. Karla Marx.

The hatred of the materialistic bourgeoisie was etched in the scornful stare she gave me as, in response to my request for the perfect gift, she unfolded a rayon scarf of fuchsia and puce.

"Do you have something a bit more elegant?" I inquired.

"Go take a flying jump at the moon," she replied.

V. Size Twelve.

She was seated in one of those small East Side dress shops which do business with the kind of women who marry boot chairmen.

"You poor guy," she said. "And I mean poor."

"Does it show so clearly?"

"Rich guys never have Size 12 women," she said, "and we carry nothing bigger than a Size 8. Rich women are born skinny. It's not fair."

"There, there," I said, for she was about to weep.

"I was born Size 12," she said.

"I'm very fond of Size 12," I told her.

"Yes," she said. "That's why I didn't insult you. If the manager knew, he'd fire me, but I just couldn't do it."

"Are you under orders to insult all the customers?"

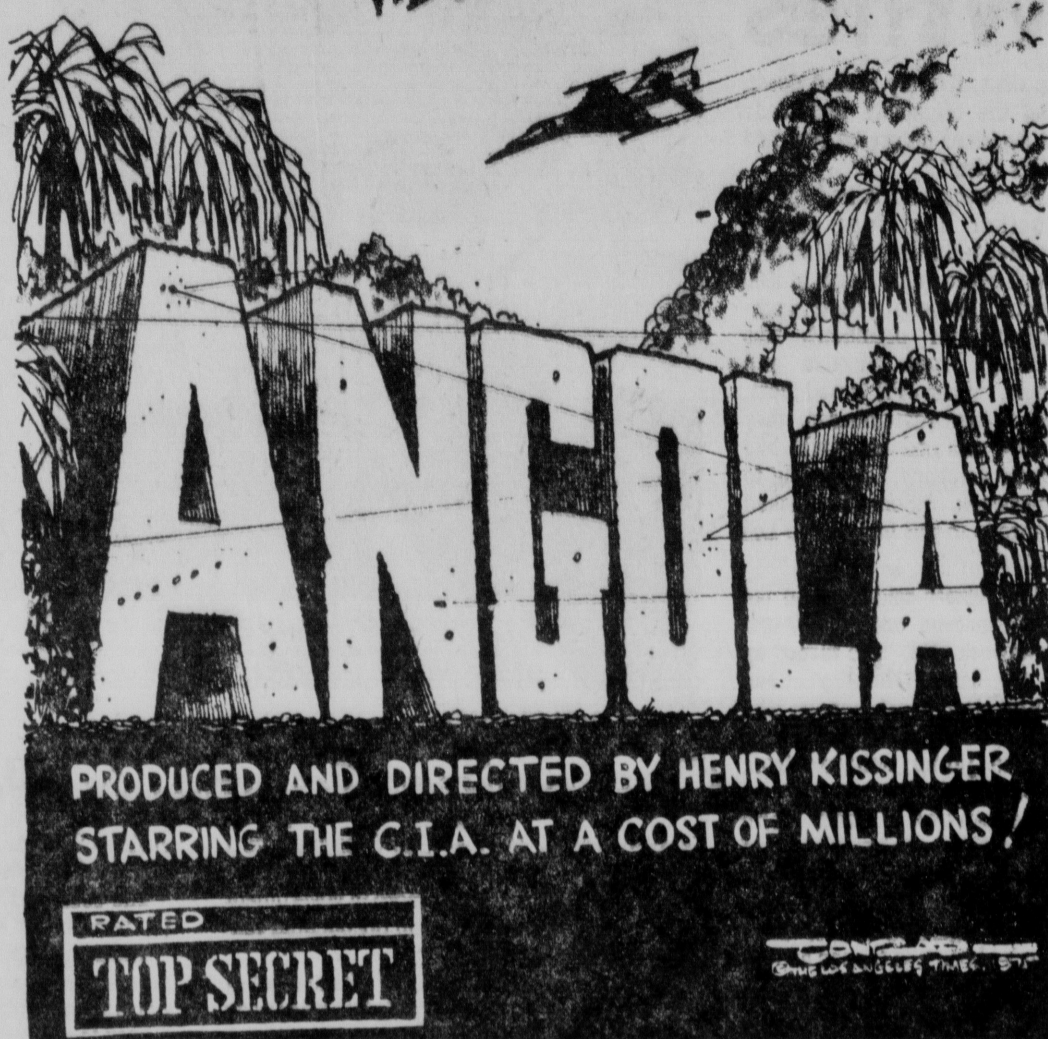

"Rich people expect it," she said. "If they don't get insulted, they think you're running the kind of shop that sells to just anybody, and they quit coming in."

"It's really nice not being insulted for a change," I said.

I felt so cheered by the spirit of Christmas that I went to a discount drugstore and bought a toothbrush and the checkout woman screamed at me for holding up the line.

The Need To Control

BOSTON — When the Vietnam war came to its inevitable end last spring, Henry Kissinger said that Congress's refusal to try to drag it on proved America's unreliability as an ally. Now President Ford is doing the same on Angola. The Senate vote to stop covert intervention there, he said, "is a deep tragedy for all countries whose security depends on the United States."

Why do these men want to exaggerate the impact of distant events on their country's reputation? Why do they invite the world to judge American strength by our position in Angola, a land that has no historical tie to the United States and has never depended on us for its security?

One reason given by Mr. Ford for taking the Senate vote so seriously was that it "deprived us of our ability to help the people of Angola." He said the U.S. should be able to help any people "decide their own fate. We have over a period of time helped to maintain free governments."

Talk of helping countries to "decide their own fate" has rather a mocking sound these days. Does Mr. Ford think people have forgotten the massive and conspiratorial U.S. efforts to upset the democratic process in Chile? Can he use the word "free" without gagging, for such objects of U.S. support as the governments of Brazil, South Korea, Indonesia, the Philippines?

In fact, hardly any official pretends that our Angolan policy has anything to do with the people of Angola. It is justified, instead, as necessary to maintain our influence in Africa against that of the Soviet Union.

Recent history goes against the notion that Soviet military aid in Africa leads to permanent influence. In Egypt it was counter-productive. Experts think the USSR would reap more trouble than joy from neo-colonial activity in black Africa. The specter of a Soviet naval base in Angola, raised by Mr. Kissinger, does not alarm the Pentagon.

Nor is there good reason to believe that the United States will win respect for itself in Africa by intervening in Angola. The effective way to gain influence would have been to condemn the South African army's intervention. Instead, the U.S. is on the same side as South Africa — a coincidence, we say, but one that could hardly be more fatal to our reputation in most of the continent.

The ultimate political argument is that failure to act in Angola will hurt our image with the Russians, making them think us weak everywhere. To the contrary, after Vietnam a shrewd Soviet leader might want to see America involved in remote quarrels outside her experience. He might also care less about Angola than about continuing American willingness to be forthcoming on such matters as grain supplies for the USSR.

After Vietnam it was widely said that the United States had learned one basic lesson: It cannot be a global policeman. But the Angolan affair shows that Gerald Ford and Henry Kissinger have not learned that lesson. For them, "greatness" depends on the will to be involved anywhere and everywhere in the world — and to see that events follow the script we write.

In the magazine, Foreign Affairs, last January Prof. Richard R. Fagen of Stanford examined what was then known about Chile and said U.S. covert activities were "the symptoms and consequences of a foreign policy which attempts to manage conflict and change on a global scale." The activities would continue, he said, as long as American leaders thought our interests were "threatened by almost any Third World experiment in socio-economic transformation not directly under our control."

Control: That is the end so deeply, even irrationally, desired. The feeling stems in part from the personality of our dominant policy-maker, Kissinger. Arson Suspected In Fire Which Guts Omaha Hall

Omaha (AP) — Arson is suspected in the Monday morning fire which destroyed South Omaha Sokol Hall.

"Arson is a prime consideration," said District Fire Chief Jack Conry as firemen battled flames which began shortly before 7 a.m..

At mid-morning, all that remained was a smoldering shell, but the three-alarm fire was declared under control.

Conry said the building has been the scene of previous arson attempts, including one Sunday night.

Robert Hunnicutt, 66, the building's caretaker, and his wife were awakened by a neighbor shortly before 7 a.m. Monday.

The neighbor, Mrs. Patricia Zdan, whose home faces the rear of Sokol Hall, said she saw flames coming out of the building's south windows.

Mrs. Zdan said she called firemen, "then remembered that the caretaker and his wife were in the building."

"When she rouses us, you could smell smoke real strong," Hunnicutt said.

The Hunnicutts escaped with only a few clothes but were unharmed.

Hunnicutt said the building was the target of an apparent arson attempt Sunday night.

"Somebody cut the screen and threw something through a basement window," he said.

"Then somebody apparently ignited the paper plates and cups that were in the garbage can just below the broken window."

He said that fire burned itself out.

Hunnicutt said he reported the Sunday incident to police and checked the building before going to bed.

The building has been the target of several other arson attempts this year, he said.

Last August, firemen answered a two-alarm blaze which caused an estimated $15,000 in damage. Fire officials said three separate fires had been set inside the building.

After a remodeling job on the bar in the building, someone apparently set a fire to curtains bordering the stage in September, members said.

Hunnicutt said fires have also been set in a haul-away garbage container outside the building "21 or 22 times since last August."

Hunnicutt said he has no idea why the fires were set.

"We've received no threats and there have been no arguments that I know of," said Hunnicutt.

Ed Pavoucek, president of the South Omaha Sokol Hall for 13 years until 1973, said the building was a recreational center for about 200 children and some 600 adults.

Sobbing as she watched the flames, Mrs. Pavoucek said, "There's no way you can measure the damage. It means so much to so many people. And we do not have replacement insurance."

The hall was built in 1902 and served as the Bohemian National Hall. It was later purchased by the Gymnastics Sokol Society, which renamed the building, according to Mrs. Pavoucek.

She said the basement was used primarily for social events and meetings. The first floor contained the gymnasium and the upper floor was used for storage.

It took firemen about 2½ hours to control the fire. A total of seven trucks, three aerials and one snorkel unit was on the scene.

Two rescue squads stood by, but only one injury, a fireman suffering a cut elbow, was reported.

Interior Dept. Says Work On Mid-State Should Stop

Washington (AP) — The Interior Department has agreed that work on the controversial Nebraska Mid-State irrigation project should be terminated, Rep. William S. Moorhead, D-Pa., said Monday.

Moorhead, chairman of a House government operations conservation subcommittee, said the department also informed the panel that it believes "consideration of legislation terminating our authority to proceed with the project would be in order."

The project was rejected by voters of the Mid-State Conservation District in a referendum Nov. 4.

Farm organizations and environmental groups had opposed it on grounds it would be uneconomic and would destroy a valuable wildlife refuge along the Platte River.

Moorhead had urged the department to comply with the referendum.

He quoted Assistant Secretary Royston C. Hughes as writing that "the department agrees that further work . . . should be terminated and we are planning to conclude our Nebraska Mid-State activity on an orderly basis."

Hughes wrote this would involve reduction of a $600 million appropriation to a level sufficient to wind up the operations and close the project office.

Moorhead said deauthorization of the project would save about $176 million.

Omaha Junior High School Will Get Humanities Grant

Omaha — An Omaha junior high school is one of 25 in the U.S. to receive part of a $234,398 National Endowment for the Humanities grant to support the first year of the two-year Humanities Enrichment Program.

Dr. Velda D. Stokke of Valley View Junior High will coordinate the project, designed to get assistance from the National Humanities Faculty (NHF) to strengthen teaching and learning in humanities disciplines.

The school will receive 15 days of resident assistance from NHF members and continuing supervision by one NHF adviser, who will work directly with classroom teachers.

Valley View will be linked to a collaborative network of past NHF projects, state education departments, state college and university systems and other agencies.

To extend the project beyond Valley View, the school will host a local symposium in the spring to share with other schools information and materials about program experiences.

Canadian Paper Firm Executives Take Salary Cut

VANCOUVER, B.C. (AP) — Top executives at MacMillan Bloedel Ltd. will have their salaries trimmed by 10% Dennis W. Timmis, MacMillan president, said.

Timmis has also written all other salaried employees not covered by union contracts that the usual salary review will be delayed by six months.

In the three months ended Sept. 30, the large paper and lumber company lost $32.6 million, bringing its nine-month financial position to a deficit of $12.8 million, Timmis said. He blamed shipping difficulties for losses of $19.5 million.

The salary cuts affect about the top 20 executives. Directors fees have been cut in half to $1,500 a year, Timmis said.

Arson Suspected In Fire Which Guts Omaha Hall

Omaha (AP) — Arson is suspected in the Monday morning fire which destroyed South Omaha Sokol Hall.

"Arson is a prime consideration," said District Fire Chief Jack Conry as firemen battled flames which began shortly before 7 a.m.

At mid-morning, all that remained was a smoldering shell, but the three-alarm fire was declared under control.

Conry said the building has been the scene of previous arson attempts, including one Sunday night.

Robert Hunnicutt, 66, the building's caretaker, and his wife were awakened by a neighbor shortly before 7 a.m. Monday.

The neighbor, Mrs. Patricia Zdan, whose home faces the rear of Sokol Hall, said she saw flames coming out of the building's south windows.

Mrs. Zdan said she called firemen, "then remembered that the caretaker and his wife were in the building."

"When she rouses us, you could smell smoke real strong," Hunnicutt said.

The Hunnicutts escaped with only a few clothes but were unharmed.

Hunnicutt said the building was the target of an apparent arson attempt Sunday night.

"Somebody cut the screen and threw something through a basement window," he said.

"Then somebody apparently ignited the paper plates and cups that were in the garbage can just below the broken window."

He said that fire burned itself out.

Hunnicutt said he reported the Sunday incident to police and checked the building before going to bed.

NU Range Specialist Conard Retires

After a 40-year association with the University of Nebraska, Dr. Elverne C. Conard will retire next week from his post as a teacher and researcher in range management.

Born in Illinois and reared in Wyoming, Conard came to Nebraska in 1935 when he was transferred from the Central Great Plains Horticulture Field Station in Cheyenne, Wyo., to the Soil Conservation Service (SCS) Nursery based at NU. At that time, he was given a courtesy appointment as assistant agronomist on the NU agronomy staff.

CONARD . . . ends 40 years of service.

From 1939 to 1945, he was a junior agronomist in the SCS Nursery Division and was nursery manager. In 1945, he stepped into his teaching and research role as an NU associate professor of agronomy, the title he has today.

As a teacher, his 1945 roster included students in the range and pasture management class. Later he initiated a class in advanced range management and in recent years has taught classes in range plant identification and range ecology.

"Most of the students were agronomy majors," Conard recalls. "Now we're seeing more horticulture students; and there have always been some animal science majors."

"I used to try to shock the animal science students in class by saying, 'Ranchers in the Sandhills don't raise cattle. They raise grass and market it by feeding it to cattle,'" Conard tells.

Since 1961, he has periodically surveyed the types and amounts of vegetation in prairie pastures grazed in rotation with cool-season pastures.

"It looks like there have been some undesirable and unexpected changes in the plant population," Conard says. "There's been a decline in the desirable grasses, especially big bluestem and indiangrass, and a large increase in the drop seeds — which are quite unpalatable."

He emphasizes that "these are just quick observations," and more surveys need to be done. He attributes the change in plant population to the low cattle stocking rate in the pastures: "The cattle knew what they liked and always went to the same spots to eat."

Mowing part of the pasture or fencing it into smaller areas and grazing it more intensively might be solutions, he says.

At Lincoln and later at the NU Field Laboratory near Mead, Conard headed studies from 1947-1975 comparing beef cattle performance while on different grasses with and without fertilization. The grasses were evaluated in terms of the carrying capacity of the pasture, the pounds of beef produced, and cattle's rate of gain, he says.

The effect of nitrogen fertilization on grass production was the subject of another Conard study, this one done in cooperation with the Lincoln, North Platte and Alliance experiment stations.

Does the increased production from added nitrogen pay for the extra cost of fertilizer? "Usually it's a toss-up," Conard says. "It depends on so many things: fertilizer costs, hay costs, location, etc."

"In Lincoln, the increased yield would pay for the fertilizer, especially when the hay produced is baled and sold. In other areas there's not enough rainfall to get the most benefit from the fertilizer."

"Our work also showed some increase in protein with nitrogen fertilization, so in some cases fertilization might reduce the amount of protein supplement needed," he notes.

Conard also helped in the development of a variety of crested wheatgrass released in 1974. "Ruff" crested wheatgrass is an improved, adapted variety for use in western Nebraska and other low rainfall areas of the central plains.

The range management specialist also spent two years in Turkey as part of NU's cooperative agreement to help build Ataturk University in eastern Turkey.

Carcass, Processing Units Hike IBP Net Worth

Dakota City (AP) — Iowa Beef Processors, Inc., Monday announced that its net worth increased nearly $30 million in fiscal 1975 from $77.6 million to more than $107.5 million.

Audited results for its fiscal year ending Nov. 1 showed net earnings of $23,237,000 on sales of more than $1.8 billion with earnings per share of $8.05 on 2,891,646 shares outstanding.

In fiscal 1974, IBP reported net earnings of $16,538,000, with sales of more than $1.5 billion, and earnings per share of $5.94 on 2,579,699 shares outstanding.

IBP president J. Fred Haigler credited the improved earnings to strong results posted by the company's carcass and processing divisions.

The processing division increased its sales level from a

1974 peak of 35,000 head per week to more than 52,000 head in 1975, he said.

This increase was made possible

IRA: For people who don't have a retirement plan but do have plans to retire.

Too many people retire every year with nothing to show for a lifetime of work. No company pension plan. No proceeds from corporate profit sharing. And very little savings. That's why the IRA plan from NBC is such an important new idea.

IRA: the Individual Retirement Account

IRA gives working men and women a special account in which to build a comfortable retirement fund on their own.

Federal law allows you to add to your account $1,500 a year or 15% of your annual wages, whichever is less.

Your IRA savings are fully deductible from your Federal tax return. And your tax-free earnings may be invested in a variety of ways. Including any current NBC savings plan paying annual interest as high as 7½% — a rate advantage up to 3% higher than many other IRA plans.

One more important point about the IRA plan from NBC: We charge no service fee — another advantage over other IRA plans. After all, when you've earned every penny of your retirement fund, you ought to be able to enjoy every penny.

Call or come in today for full details on IRA. It's the retirement plan for people without one.

grasses with and without fertilization. The grasses were evaluated in terms of the carrying capacity of the pasture, the pounds of beef produced, and cattle's rate of gain, he says.

The effect of nitrogen fertilization on grass production was the subject of another Conard study, this one done in cooperation with the Lincoln, North Platte and Alliance experiment stations.

Does the increased production from added nitrogen pay for the extra cost of fertilizer? "Usually it's a toss-up," Conard says. "It depends on so many things: fertilizer costs, hay costs, location, etc."

"In Lincoln, the increased yield would pay for the fertilizer, especially when the hay produced is baled and sold. In other areas there's not enough rainfall to get the most benefit from the fertilizer."

"Our work also showed some increase in protein with nitrogen fertilization, so in some cases fertilization might reduce the amount of protein supplement needed," he notes.

Conard also helped in the development of a variety of crested wheatgrass released in 1974. "Ruff" crested wheatgrass is an improved, adapted variety for use in western Nebraska and other low rainfall areas of the central plains.

The range management specialist also spent two years in Turkey as part of NU's cooperative agreement to help build Ataturk University in eastern Turkey.

Carcass, Processing Units Hike IBP Net Worth

Dakota City (AP) — Iowa Beef Processors, Inc., Monday announced that its net worth increased nearly $30 million in fiscal 1975 from $77.6 million to more than $107.5 million.

Audited results for its fiscal year ending Nov. 1 showed net earnings of $23,237,000 on sales of more than $1.8 billion with earnings per share of $8.05 on 2,891,646 shares outstanding.

In fiscal 1974, IBP reported net earnings of $16,538,000, with sales of more than $1.5 billion, and earnings per share of $5.94 on 2,579,699 shares outstanding.

IBP president J. Fred Haigler credited the improved earnings to strong results posted by the company's carcass and processing divisions.

The processing division increased its sales level from a

1974 peak of 35,000 head per week to more than 52,000 head in 1975, he said.

This increase was made possible by addition of a new Amarillo, Tex., plant in May, he said. The plant is not expected to be at full capacity until late in 1976.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Sondra Blake, wife of actor Robert

Blake, star of the TV series "Baretta," will play a featured role in "Bound for Glory." David Carradine stars in the film biography of legendary folk singer Woody Guthrie on location in Central California.

IRA: For people who don't have a retirement plan but do have plans to retire.

Too many people retire every year with nothing to show for a lifetime of work. No company pension plan. No proceeds from corporate profit sharing. And very little savings. That's why the IRA plan from NBC is such an important new idea.

IRA: the Individual Retirement Account

IRA gives working men and women a special account in which to build a comfortable retirement fund on their own.

Federal law allows you to add to your account $1500 a year or 15% of your annual wages, whichever is less.

Your IRA savings are fully deductible from your Federal tax return. And your tax-free earnings may be invested in a variety of ways. Including any current NBC savings plan paying annual interest as high as 7½% — a rate advantage up to 3% higher than many other IRA plans.

One more important point about the IRA plan from NBC: We charge no service fee — another advantage over other IRA plans. After all, when you've earned every penny of your retirement fund, you ought to be able to enjoy every penny.

Call or come in today for full details on IRA. It's the retirement plan for people without one.

Sculpture Report Will Be Lengthy

By The Associated Press
State Sen. Ralph Kelly of Grand Island will only guarantee one thing in advance of his report on those Interstate 80 bicentennial sculptures: "The report probably will be long."

Kelly headed the three-man subcommittee which was appointed by the executive board of the Legislative Council to gather public reaction concerning the 10 sculptures.

"We conducted hearings in North Platte, Scottsbluff, Grand Island, Lincoln and Omaha," Kelly said. "I would say a total of about 1,000 attended those hearings."

"In addition I have about 400 letters, but many of them are multi-signed — there are perhaps 1,200 signatures on those letters," Kelly said.

"Our report will summarize — without recommendations — the thrust of the letters and the testimony that came from the hearings," Kelly said.

Kelly and Legislative Council staff members began writing the report Monday.

He said he hoped it would be ready for distribution by Jan. 1.

"Regardless of what happens to the sculptures, this entire episode involved two key things," Kelly said in an interview.

"The first thing was the credibility of government."

"I think that was the main reason for the hearings. They gave people a chance to talk to their government, and the people talked plenty."

"If government had turned a deaf ear to the original controversy over this sculpture business, government would have won a black eye, and it would have been well-deserved," Kelly said.

"The second thing centers on state government accepting gifts," Kelly said.

"There are a couple of dozen agencies that can accept gifts and none of them have the same procedures."

"I'm glad this issue has been brought to the Legislature's attention," Kelly said.

The sculptures have been the center of an on-going controversy since their unveiling last July.

Kelly peered over a mound of letters stacked on his office desk.

"You know I just went to that (executive board) meeting to ask a simple question — what was going on with this sculpture business?" Kelly said.

"It's amazing what asking a simple question can get you into," he said.

Kelly said that while his report will not contain recommendations, some suggestion could come from a motion he might decide to make concerning the sculptures.

Kelly did not say what that motion might be.

Guard Is Hospitalized In Attempted Robbery

Grand Island (AP) — A security guard was hospitalized here Monday following an attempted holdup of a Wells Fargo truck at a Skagway store.

A lone gunman struck the guard, identified as Louie Cook, 62, of Grand Island, in the head.

He was taken to a local hospital and treated for head cuts. Cook was listed in fair condition, hospital officials said.

After striking Cook, the gunman made off with an empty money bag.

Authorities described the bandit as a black male about 35 years old. They said he may have been with a woman, but a description of her was not provided.

The gunman was believed armed with a .38-caliber revolver, and authorities were looking for a 1968 or 1969 blue Ford auto.

Columbus Industrialist Fred Behlen, 97, Dies

Columbus (UPI) — Pioneer Columbus industrialist Fred Behlen, 97, died Monday at his home.

A native of Platte County, Behlen farmed and later operated the Lakeside Dairy. Then, in association with a son, Walter, he launched a small manufacturing operation in his garage.

That was the forerunner of today's Behlen Manufacturing Co., a firm best known for its steel buildings.

Two other sons, Gilbert and Herbert, were later associated in the business.

It was in 1928 when Behlen and his son bought a home and started making clamp-ons, steel toes for wooden shoes and rollers for husking machines.

Behlen is survived by his widow, Ella Sarah, a brother, Harry, of Fresno, Calif.; four sons, Adolph of Shawnee, Okla., Walter, Gilbert and Herbert, all of Columbus; daughters, Mrs. Selma Burns of Tucson, Ariz., Mrs. B.F. Tiesing of Sequim, Wash., Mrs. Frank Brakel of Evansville, Ind., Mrs. C.V. Jones of Columbus, Mrs. W.L. Wilken of Council Bluffs, Iowa; 19 grandchildren; 18 great-grandchildren.

Californian Dies In Car Accident Near Randolph

Randolph (AP) — A California man was killed in a one-car accident on U.S. 30 about two miles east of here Sunday night.

Investigators identified the victim as Joseph C. Hines, 57, of Gardena.

Authorities said Hines, who was alone at the time, apparently lost control of his car on a curve and it left the road and struck a power pole.

Spending Top Worry Of Citizens

WASHINGTON (AP)—Rep. John Y. McCollister of Omaha, a candidate for the 1976 Republican nomination for the Senate, says government spending tops the list of crises drawing public concern.

In a weekly column for newspapers in the state's 2nd District, McCollister said citizen interest is centering more and more on "the big picture," and less on local and parochial concerns.

McCollister said he is "encouraged" by the development.

"Our people are realizing the overriding importance of putting aside local and parochial interests for the general good."

McCollister identified the 10 biggest crises facing the nation in 1976 as: — $1. government spending, 2. productivity, 3. national defense, 4. government regulation, 5. confidence in government and our national purpose, 6. energy, 7. environment, 8. public safety, 9. foreign policy, 10. economic policy."

"Until the general public gets involved in thinking these big issues are important, it is difficult to develop an informed consensus," said McCollister.

The "Spokesman for Agriculture" program is sponsored by Elanco Products Co., a division of Eli Lilly and Co.

25 Outsiders Register At Midland

Fremont — Twenty-five students from other colleges, some as far away as Washington and Minnesota, have registered for interim classes at Midland Lutheran College. More than 500 students have registered for the January classes, according to Registrar L.P. Mitchell. Only three Midland students are taking interim courses at other colleges. "It seems we are offering what the students want," Mitchell said. One professor will take 12 students to Washington, D.C., for a theatre class.

Veterinarians To Meet In Lincoln

Hastings — The 79th annual Nebraska Veterinary Medical Association convention will be held at the Ramada Inn in Lincoln Jan. 10-12, association spokesmen here announced. In addition to electing officers and naming the veterinarian of the year, convention participants will discuss professional education for large- and small-animal practitioners. Feature speaker Dr. Beverly Mead of Creighton University, has titled her speech "Psychiatric Views on How to Keep a Horse in the Living Room."

Land Use Seminars Scheduled

Wayne — Wayne State College will host the first of six land use planning seminars Jan. 24. The seminars — also scheduled for Kearney, Seward, Scottsbluff, North Platte and Bellevue — feature a slide-tape presentation and a panel discussion with representatives of higher education, state planning, wildlife and irrigation organizations and financial development groups.

Omaha To Host Sewage Meeting

Omaha — The first Midwest conference on methods of treating sewage, sludge, garbage and other wastes for use on farmland will be held in Omaha Feb. 11, 12, and 13. The conference will provide farmers with research findings on the agricultural uses of composted sludge and other treated municipal wastes.

Case Of Goats Goes To Court

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

There was much ado about goats, three in particular, in Lincoln Municipal Court Monday afternoon.

Dr. David Hibler, arrested on a charge of allowing three goats to run at large in Wilderness Park, protested his innocence during a more than hour-long trial before Judge Thomas McManus.

Delilah, the mother goat, and her two kids, who all strayed off the Hibler property Nov. 2, are owned by Mrs. Bonnie Hibler, the testimony showed.

Dr. Hibler's wife testified that she purchased the mother goat last January as a pet for her children, and said she assumes full responsibility for the goat and kids.

But goat control not goat ownership is the key to the city ordinance, said city prosecutor Stan Wilson.

Hibler, who acted as his own attorney, was unable to introduce evidence during the trial about an alleged dispute between himself and Park Ranger Don Jenkins who issued the citation.

After a series of objections about questions relating to the Jenkins dispute, Hibler started to ask another question, stopped, turned to the prosecuting attorney and said, "I can't ask that; you'll be up in two minutes."

And protesting his ignorance of court room procedure, Hibler said he understood that in cross examination he could be contentious and ask leading questions.

"Leading questions, yes; contentious, no," answered Judge McManus.

The roving goats and Hibler have received much newspaper coverage. The University of Nebraska English professor at first refused to accept the citation and instead of appearing in court when the charges were first filed, sent a note to the judge.

Hibler will have to wait about a month for a decision on his case.

The judge will first rule on Hibler's motion to dismiss the charges, supported by a seven-page brief. Hibler, who lives in the county but adjacent to the city-controlled Wilderness Park, contends that there is a jurisdictional problem.

The goats may have been on city controlled land, but he was on county-controlled land and, therefore, was not under the city laws.

Exon, Senators Want Details Before Taking Money

Legislature and Gov. J.J. Exon are asking the federal government what it wants in return for $200,000 to plan a new juvenile delinquency prevention program for Nebraska.

Instead of having their hand out for the federal funds, the governor and the Appropriations Committee appear to have put their hands back in their pockets.

Utica Sen. Douglas Bereuter said the scrutiny being given the grant may be the beginning of a policy shift away from looking for every available federal dollar.

In a letter, Exon said he was taking steps to assure the allocation of funds to the state while making no commitment to use them.

Bereuter said he isn't sure the Exon approach will work, and questions whether mere acceptance of the money commits the state to an expensive program that may not be high on any list of priorities.

The federal regulations accompanying the grant would mandate changes in state and local handling of juvenile delinquency problems.

Among the stipulations are requirements that juveniles could not be placed in detention centers for acts that are not criminal for adults, and prohibition against placing detained juveniles with adult offenders.

The second requirement would place financial burdens on many counties that do not have separate facilities, Bereuter said.

Bereuter said eight or nine states had already rejected the particular program in question.

Former NU Gridder Boosts ASU Now

By RANDY YORK
Phoenix, Ariz. — He still wears his watch from playing in the 1965 Orange Bowl Classic for Nebraska, but it's mostly an individual sentimental attachment.

Ken Kunes, county assessor for Arizona's largest county the past seven years, has transplanted his football loyalties.

He says he cherishes having been a Cornhusker, but his heart now belongs to the Sun Devils.

Consequently, the 43-year-old former Nebraska linebacker and offensive guard is hoping Arizona State upsets Nebraska Friday in the fifth annual Fiesta Bowl.

"ASU really needs this game — much more than Nebraska," Kunes says. "If they could beat Nebraska or lose by one or two points, it will show Arizona State has arrived."

Kunes, owner of 14 season tickets to Arizona State football games the past 11 years, doesn't want his Sun Devil loyalties misconstrued, however.

Emphasizing he's no traitor, Kunes is chiefly responsible for Phoenix area fans being able to list to Nebraska football broadcasts on KXDC-FM. His Phoenix American Insurance Agency is the primary sponsor for the weekly broadcasts.

"I follow Nebraska every Saturday afternoon," Kunes points out. "It's just that all my current friends are associated with Arizona State."

Each fall, Kunes takes his two boys — Ken, a high school sophomore, and 7-year-old Jeff — to Mount Tatum, the Sun Devils' pre-season training camp.

"I know most of the coaching staff. They're stern disciplinarians, but super coaches," Kunes says. "We play some golf with them, do some fishing and get closer to the team. We're definitely ASU fans. We have season basketball tickets, too."

Still, Kunes wouldn't trade his Nebraska football memories for anything. "This Orange Bowl watch," he said, pointing to his wrist, "has been everywhere — at the bottom of a swimming pool and in a golf cart, which sank in a pond — and it's still ticking."

Even though his favorite two college teams are meeting in the Fiesta Bowl, Kunes claims he preferred Nebraska not even be in Phoenix this week.

"I wanted them to go to the Orange Bowl, kick the heck out of Michigan and win the national championship," he says of the Huskers.

Taking a Monday afternoon break from the daily hassle of his Maricopa County office which employs 400 persons and has a $35 million annual checking account, Kunes enjoyed his two-decade football flashback.

He was so enthused he called Lincoln to talk to former teammate Leo Scherer, former administrative assistant to ex-Lincoln Mayor Sam Schwartzkopf and to Nebraska Gov. J. J. Exon.

"People around here are tremendously excited about this game," noted Kunes, who offered Scherer 50-yard line seats and free lodging if he'd fly to Phoenix for the game.

"ASU has reached another level. It's a wonderful opportunity for them," he added. "I think it'll be a super game — something like 23-21."

"I hope ASU ends up on top," Kunes said. "They won't get blown out like some people think. They're big, fast and aggressive as heck."

"Nebraska might be surprised," he predicted. "ASU will be floating high. If Nebraska figures it's playing Kansas State on some mid-October Saturday, look out. Someone's going to turn their hat the other way around."

Case Of Goats Goes To Court

By NANCY HICKS
Star Staff Writer

There was much ado about goats, three in particular, in Lincoln Municipal Court Monday afternoon.

Dr. David Hibler, arrested on a charge of allowing three goats to run at large in Wilderness Park, protested his innocence during a more than hour-long trial before Judge Thomas McManus.

Delilah, the mother goat, and her two kids, who all strayed off the Hibler property Nov. 2, are owned by Mrs. Bonnie Hibler, the testimony showed.

Dr. Hibler's wife testified that she purchased the mother goat last January as a pet for her children, and said she assumes full responsibility for the goat and kids.

But goat control not goat ownership is the key to the city ordinance, said city prosecutor Stan Wilson.

Hibler, who acted as his own attorney, was unable to introduce evidence during the trial about an alleged dispute between himself and Park Ranger Don Jenkins who issued the citation.

After a series of objections about questions relating to the Jenkins dispute, Hibler started to ask another question, stopped, turned to the prosecuting attorney and said, "I can't ask that; you'll be up in two minutes."

And protesting his ignorance of court room procedure, Hibler said he understood that in cross examination he could be contentious and ask leading questions. "Leading questions, yes; contentious, no," answered Judge McManus.

The roving goats and Hibler have received much newspaper coverage. The University of Nebraska English professor at first refused to accept the citation and instead of appearing in court when the charges were first filed, sent a note to the judge.

Hibler will have to wait about a month for a decision on his case.

The judge will first rule on Hibler's motion to dismiss the charges, supported by a seven-page brief. Hibler, who lives in the county but adjacent to the city-controlled Wilderness Park, contends that there is a jurisdictional problem.

The goats may have been on city controlled land, but he was on county-controlled land and, therefore, was not under the city laws.

Former NU Gridder Boosts ASU Now

By RANDY YORK
Phoenix, Ariz. — He still wears his watch from playing in the 1955 Orange Bowl Classic for Nebraska, but it's mostly an individual sentimental attachment.

Ken Kunes, county assessor for Arizona's largest county the past seven years, has transplanted his football loyalties.

He says he cherishes having been a Cornhusker, but his heart now belongs to the Sun Devils.

Consequently, the 43-year-old former Nebraska linebacker and offensive guard is hoping Arizona State upsets Nebraska Friday in the fifth annual Fiesta Bowl.

"ASU really needs this game — much more than Nebraska," Kunes says. "If they could beat Nebraska or lose by one or two points, it will show Arizona State has arrived."

Kunes, owner of 14 season tickets to Arizona State football games the past 11 years, doesn't want his Sun Devil loyalties misconstrued, however.

Emphasizing he's no traitor, Kunes is chiefly responsible for Phoenix area fans being able to list to Nebraska football broadcasts on KXDC-FM. His Phoenix American Insurance Agency is the primary sponsor for the weekly broadcasts.

"I follow Nebraska every Saturday afternoon," Kunes points out. "It's just that all my current friends are associated with Arizona State."

Each fall, Kunes takes his two boys — Ken, a high school sophomore, and 7-year-old Jeff — to Mount Tantaoma, the Sun Devils' pre-season training camp.

"I know most of the coaching staff. They're stern disciplinarians, but super coaches," Kunes says. "We play some golf with them, do some fishing and get closer to the team. We're definitely ASU fans. We have season basketball tickets, too."

Exon, Senators Want Details Before Taking Money

Legislature and Gov. J.J. Exon are asking the federal government what it wants in return for $200,000 to plan a new juvenile delinquency prevention program for Nebraska.

Instead of having their hand out for the federal funds, the governor and the Appropriations Committee appear to have put their hands back in their pockets.

Utica Sen. Douglas Bereuter said the scrutiny being given the grant may be the beginning of a policy shift away from looking for every available federal dollar.

In a letter, Exon said he was taking steps to assure the allocation of funds to the state while making no commitment to use them.

Bereuter said he isn't sure the Exon approach will work, and questions whether mere acceptance of the money commits the state to an expensive program that may not be high on any list of priorities.

The federal regulations accompanying the grant would mandate changes in state and local handling of juvenile delinquency problems.

Among the stipulations are requirements that juveniles could not be placed in detention centers for acts that are not criminal for adults, and prohibition against placing detained juveniles with adult offenders.

The second requirement would place financial burdens on many counties that do not have separate facilities, Bereuter said.

Bereuter said eight or nine states had already rejected the particular program in question.

To gain the State Crime Commission's attention on the matter, the Appropriations Committee approved a $1 budget for two of the three commission programs. "We want to make them come in and explain their procedures," Bereuter said.

The major committee concern is that bureaucratic agencies are committing the state to spending programs and bypassing the governor and the Legislature.

Exon said a closer look at federal grants is under way because Washington is increasingly trying to cut its budget by shifting programs to the state.

The Appropriations Committee is making a thorough study of federal programs. Such projects have drawn the ire of state senators in recent years because the Legislature has been called on in many cases to replace federal money with state tax dollars.

Task Force Promotes Security For Elders

By JOANNE FARRIS

Does your county have a task force on security for the elderly? This is one more way that communities are trying to zero in on serious problems of senior citizens. In earlier times old persons seemed to derive some protection from their age and gray hair.

Unfortunately today more often than not the would-be criminal sees a gray haired person as an easy target and thus a suitable victim.

The Task Force on Security for the Elderly includes representatives of public safety, public housing and public transportation departments in the county senior citizens organizations, service-to-seniors organizations, as well as participants from the state Attorney's Office and local educational institutions.

By focusing their attention on every aspect of the senior safety problem they have pin-pointed special areas of concern and have come up with concrete suggestions to improve matters.

Bus stops turned out to be one simple matter for each task force to deal with. In response to complaints that bus stops are poorly lit, the transportation people have decided to move the poorly lit stops just far enough to get them under a good light close by their original location.

In the matter of safety in the home, whether it is a house or an apartment, the area public safety departments have teams of police officers who visit homes and senior centers to give useful instruction about ways to discourage intruders by such things as good locks, suitable exterior lighting, trimming shrubs to eliminate hiding places for miscreants, and removal of evidence of your absence from the house by such means as leaving interior lights on when you will be coming home late, as well as cancelling milk and newspaper deliveries and having the post office or a neighbor hold the mail if you are to be away overnight or longer.

Too often the public considers that the police are our protectors. This leads many persons to neglect self-protection. The public safety teams find that their visits to dwellings and group meetings do not achieve as much as they would like, largely because people do not carry through with the protective measures they learn about.

One simple rule for everyone is: Never open your door unless you know who is on the other side of it. There is no law that says you have to open your door because someone rings your bell.

If you feel you must open the door, keep the chain fastened unless you want the visitor to enter. Another thing that is easy to do is to report any suspicious persons you see in your neighborhood or in your building.

Do those of you who live in apartments know that most tenants' associations can get special rates for locks and other kinds of security hardware from the manufacturers?

If you live in a building where every tenant has a key to the lobby door, are you aware that you can have keys which no reputable locksmith will duplicate? This is another easy way to cut down on the number of unwanted persons who have access to your premises.

Everyone on the task force agrees that persons of any age who go out at night or who must walk through high-crime areas should travel in pairs. The "buddy" system is important for safety as well as for fellowship.

Manufacturing Expands Faster In Nebraska

Manufacturing expanded slightly more in Nebraska between 1963 and 1972 than in six surrounding states, but the state's relative position among them remained the same.

According to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Business Administration bulletin, Nebraska continued to trail Missouri, Minnesota, Iowa and Kansas in employment by manufacturers and value added by manufacturers.

But Nebraska remained "well above" North and South Dakota in those areas.

To catch Kansas in employment by manufacturers, Nebraska's manufacturer-related employment would have had to rise 60%, according to the bulletin. "Business in Nebraska."

Nebraska's share of employment by manufacturers and value added by manufacturers did increase, however, during the nine-year period.

Manufacturer-related employment rose from 65,000 to 85,000, an 11% gain in share, the report said. The state's share of value added by manufacturing rose 17%, from $747 million to $1,738 million.

This development "attests to the success of the public and private efforts aimed at increasing economic diversification, in general, and manufacturing, in particular," wrote the article's author, Asso. Prof. Edward Hauswald.

Douglas and Lancaster Counties continued to dominate manufacturing during the 1963-1972 period, but other counties, particularly Hall and Platte, showed gains.

In Douglas and Lancaster Counties, the combined share of manufacturing employment dropped from 64% in 1963 to 54% in 1972, according to the article. Their combined share of value added by manufacturing dropped from 64% to 58% in the same period.

The number of manufacturers increased 7%, from 1,611 to 1,723, but manufacturing continued to concentrate in the larger companies.

The share of total employment provided by large companies (those with 100 or more employees) rose from 7% to 10%, while the percentage provided by small companies (those with one to 19 employees) dropped from 71% to 65%, according to the article.

Medium-sized companies increased their employment share from 22% to 25%.

Platte County Election Chief's Services Slated

Columbus (UPI) — Funeral services will be held Wednesday for Mrs. Shirley M. Wilken, Platte County election commissioner, who died Saturday at the age of 57.

Mrs. Wilken was also chairman of the Nebraska Governor's Commission on the Status of Women and was the first president of the Columbus Mayor's Commission on the Status of Women.

She was the first to hold the Platte County post and was appointed in March 1974.

Services will be at 10 a.m. at Emmanuel Lutheran Church.

Survivors include her husband, Clarence; a son, Jack; daughter, Mrs. Fred Monnich of Lincoln; mother, Mrs. Maye Rector of Columbus; a sister, Mrs. Ray Krumland of Concord, Calif.

State Examiners Get More Time To Check Out Problem Banks

State Banking Director Bill Riley has instituted an abbreviated version of bank exams to allow state examiners added time at problem banks.

The system, modeled after Indiana's, allows Riley's 25-member bank examination staff to check all 329 banks within one year.

Riley said the system has met with a "good reception" from the banks.

The shortened form of the standard Federal Depository Insurance Corp. (FDIC) exam allows examiners to spend half the time they might otherwise have to take to check the better-managed banks' standing.

For instance, a bank with $5 million in assets, which historically has had no problem with the Banking Department, might require only two one-half days of staff time under the new system rather than the normal five days.

The time savings allows the staff to concentrate on problem banks, he said. The system was instituted last March.

Riley said he leaves the decision regarding which banks get an abbreviated checkup to the senior examiner in charge.

Manufacturing Expands Faster In Nebraska

Manufacturing expanded slightly more in Nebraska between 1963 and 1972 than in six surrounding states, but the state's relative position among them remained the same.

According to a University of Nebraska-Lincoln College of Business Administration bulletin, Nebraska continued to trail Missouri, Minnesota, Iowa and Kansas in employment by manufacturers and value added by manufacturers.

But Nebraska remained "well above" North and South Dakota in those areas.

To catch Kansas in employment by manufacturers, Nebraska's manufacturer-related employment would have had to rise 60%, according to the bulletin, "Business in Nebraska."

Nebraska's share of employment by manufacturers and value added by manufacturers did increase, however, during the nine-year period.

Manufacturer-related employment rose from 65,000 to 85,000, an 11% gain in share, the report said. The state's share of value added by manufacturing rose 17%, from $747 million to $1,738 million.

This development "attests to the success of the public and private efforts aimed at increasing economic diversification, in general, and manufacturing, in particular," wrote the article's author, Asso. Prof. Edward Hauswald.

Douglas and Lancaster Counties continued to dominate manufacturing during the 1963-1972 period, but other counties, particularly Hall and Platte, showed gains.

In Douglas and Lancaster Counties, the combined share of manufacturing employment dropped from 64% in 1963 to 54% in 1972, according to the article. Their combined share of value added by manufacturing dropped from 64% to 58% in the same period.

The number of manufacturers increased 7%, from 1,611 to 1,723, but manufacturing continued to concentrate in the larger companies.

The share of total employment provided by large companies (those with 100 or more employees) rose from 7% to 10%, while the percentage provided by small companies (those with one to 19 employees) dropped from 71% to 65%, according to the article.

Medium-sized companies increased their employment share from 22% to 25%.

The time savings allows the staff to concentrate on problem banks, he said. The system was instituted last March.

Riley said he leaves the decision regarding which banks get an abbreviated checkup to the senior examiner in charge.

However, he said he has instructed examiners that no bank will receive an abbreviated check two years in a row.

Bank examinations are unannounced, and the state charges the bank at the rate of $14 per hour for the exams.

Omaha (AP) — Ronald A. Henningsen, 31, managing editor of The Daily Record, Omaha's legal newspaper, was fined $500 Monday for a federal firearms violation.

Federal Judge Albert Schatz said the penalty was "entirely adequate" for the offense committed.

Henningsen, who pleaded no contest Nov. 1, was charged by U.S. Atty. Daniel Wherry with illegally possessing a fully automatic rifle without paying the federal transfer tax.

The offense is a felony and Henningsen could have been imprisoned for up to 10 years, fined up to $10,000 or both.

However, Wherry recommended probation for Henningsen and Judge Schatz said a presentence report compiled by the federal probation of-

Man Is Charged With Assaulting Officer In G.I.

Grand Island (UPI) — A Grand Island man was charged Monday with assaulting a police officer in an incident which occurred Sunday.

The charge was filed against Ivan Jackson, 46. Bond was set at $2,000, and a preliminary hearing is scheduled for Jan. 14.

The incident from which the charges resulted left Officer Darryl Watson hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

According to reports, Watson stopped Jackson on suspicion of drunk driving when the incident occurred.

Watson once held the state weight-lifting title. He won it while serving a previous term in the State Penitentiary.

Several Injured In Mass Crash On Foggy Road

Luedenscheid, West Germany (UPI) — More than a dozen persons suffered critical injuries in a mass collision involving 42 automobiles in the Dortmund to Giessen autobahn in dense fog, police said.

A police spokesman said that "numerous" other persons escaped with minor injuries. The spokesman estimated material damage at about $115,000.

The spokesman said rescue squads used acetylene torches to cut their way to some of the injured trapped in wrecked cars.

Omaha Daily Record Editor Is Fined $500

Omaha (AP) — Ronald A. Henningsen, 31, managing editor of The Daily Record, Omaha's legal newspaper, was fined $500 Monday for a federal firearms violation.

Federal Judge Albert Schatz said the penalty was "entirely adequate" for the offense committed.

Henningsen, who pleaded no contest Nov. 1, was charged by U.S. Atty. Daniel Wherry with illegally possessing a fully automatic rifle without paying the federal transfer tax.

The offense is a felony and Henningsen could have been imprisoned for up to 10 years, fined up to $10,000 or both.

However, Wherry recommended probation for Henningsen and Judge Schatz said a presentence report compiled by the federal probation of-ice indicated Henningsen had an "excellent record."

The rifle was seized by State Game and Parks Commission officers near Fremont on Labor Day. Wherry did not charge three other Omahans involved in the incident because, he said, there was no evidence they committed an illegal act.

Authorities subsequently learned the weapon was one of five which disappeared from the Police Department's property room. Officers had seized it during a 1973 drug raid.

Police said then Deputy County Atty. Thomas Ryder checked the gun out of the property room and gave it to Henningsen.

Wherry said he decided not to prosecute Ryder because his actions occurred several years ago.

Henningsen also is part owner of the Douglas County Gazette in Waterloo.

Man Is Charged With Assaulting Officer In G.I.

Grand Island (UPI) — A Grand Island man was charged Monday with assaulting a police officer in an incident which occurred Sunday.

The charge was filed against Ivan Jackson, 46. Bond was set at $2,000, and a preliminary hearing is scheduled for Jan. 14.

The incident from which the charges resulted left Officer Darryl Watson hospitalized in satisfactory condition.

According to reports, Watson stopped Jackson on suspicion of drunk driving when the incident occurred.

Watson once held the state weight-lifting title. He won it while serving a previous term in the State Penitentiary.

Several Injured In Mass Crash On Foggy Road

Luedenscheid, West Germany (UPI) — More than a dozen persons suffered critical injuries in a mass collision involving 42 automobiles in the Dortmund to Giessen autobahn in dense fog, police said.

A police spokesman said that "numerous" other persons escaped with minor injuries. The spokesman estimated material damage at about $115,000.

The spokesman said rescue squads used acetylene torches to cut their way to some of the injured trapped in wrecked cars.

Indonesia Called On To Pull Out

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The U.N. Security Council called unanimously Monday for withdrawal of Indonesian forces from Portuguese East Timor.

Indonesia, which rules the western part of the island of Timor, sent troops into East Timor on Dec. 7 to support factions fighting a leftist group seeking independence for the Portuguese colony. The Indonesians occupied the capital city of Dili.

The Indonesians claimed at the time that the troops were volunteers who entered East Timor to restore peace in the power struggle that had been going on since August. Portugal had promised independence for East Timor.

Spokesmen for the leftist group Fretilin — the Revolutionary Front for Independent East Timor — said their forces had withdrawn into the countryside to open guerrilla warfare.

Free Agents Test Reserve Clause

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally are expected to be declared free agents within the next 24 hours, handing baseball a blow shaking the structure of the game.

The decision, if upheld in subsequent court tests, would virtually destroy the reserve clause, which makes a player property of one team until traded or sold—a rule twice upheld by the Supreme Court.

Peter Seitz, a New York arbitrator, said Monday that a ruling on the Messersmith and McNally cases would be made probably Tuesday, at the latest Wednesday.

Los Angeles newspaper, the Herald-Examiner, reported that it had learned the arbitrator's verdict would render Messersmith, a 19-game winner for the Los Angeles Dodgers, a free agent, permitting him to dicker with other teams for his services.

The case of McNally, who belongs to the Montreal Expos, was slightly different than that of Messersmith, although both started the 1975 season without contracts. McNally, a $100,000-a-year left-hander formerly with the Baltimore Orioles, quit in mid-season, saying he didn't want to play any more. He is 32.

Marvin Miller, director of the Major League Baseball Players' Association, said free agent status for both players was applied for before the three-man arbitration panel, headed by Seitz. The other two members are Miller and John Gaherin, attorney for baseball.

It was Seitz who cast the deciding vote a year ago in favor of Catfish Hunter, a 25-game winner with the Oakland A's who argued that owner Charles Finley failed to pay him $50,000 of a $100,000 salary for 1974.

Hunter subsequently signed a $3.75 million, five-year contract with the New York Yankees last Dec. 31. Finley took the arbitration ruling to court and lost. He has appeals pending.

Such arbitration rulings are rarely overturned by the courts. To be reversed, there must be proof of bias on the part of the arbitrator or proof that the decision violated basic law.

Asked about the Los Angeles report, Seitz said in New York that he and other members of the panel were sworn to secrecy. "The report is being prepared," he added. "Another meeting is scheduled Tuesday. A decision will be made within 48 hours."

The other two members of the panel were equally close-mouthed on the matter as was baseball's Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and spokesmen for

Charles Feeney and Lee MacPhail, presidents of the National and American leagues, respectively.

None, however, sought to minimize the probable impact on the game. A pro-player ruling, following by less than 12 months the decision on Hunter, would go a long way toward eliminating what players have called a status of servitude.

Curt Flood challenged baseball's hallowed reserve clause after being traded by St. Louis to Philadelphia, contending he was a victim of a slave system. The Supreme Court ruled against him, citing baseball's immunity to anti-trust action in earlier rulings and passing the buck to Congress.

"This would be a monumental thing if it happens," Bob Fishel, assistant to the American League president, said. "It would be revolutionary. If players are allowed to play out their options, it would place the game in a desperate situation. It would be very tough on the have-not teams."

Another high-placed baseball official, who preferred anonymity, said such an action would end baseball's perpetuity.

"I can't imagine even the players allowing a situation to arise where they would be playing out their options promiscuously. I think, if Messersmith and McNally are upheld, management and players will get together on a new players' agreement."

Baseball already has made concessions to the reserve clause, allowing a player in the major leagues for 10 years and with one club five years to disapprove a trade.

Bonness Vs. DiBrell?

Scottsdale, Ariz. — One of the keys in Nebraska's offensive attack Friday afternoon against Arizona State in the Fiesta Bowl could boil down to whether Cornhusker center Rik Bonness is quick enough to handle super-quick Wildcat middle guard Zack DiBrell.

If he is, it could solve a lot of potential Husker problems with the undefeated Wildcats' stunting defense. It would free guards Greg Jorgensen and Dan Schmidt to pick up blitzing Arizona State linebackers and give quarterback Vince Ferragamo more time to throw his normally accurate passes.

"Their middle guard (DiBrell) is real quick," Jorgensen observed after studying ASU game movies. "Rik thrives on his quickness, but DiBrell doesn't take the guy straight ahead. He tries to run to one side or the other, so a lot of times it will be me or Dan who will be blocking him."

DiBrell doesn't have the size you think middle guards should have. He's a mere 6-1 and 202 pounds, but he has run the 100-yard dash in :09.6 seconds. He depends on his quickness and technique to offset his size. He's extremely strong for his size, he strikes a great initial blow and has great leverage.

If Bonness can handle him before he gets to either Jorgensen or Schmidt, it could help the Huskers' inside running game and break up the blitzing possibilities. Fullback Tony Davis could end up having a field day on quick blasts up the middle.

DiBrell's coach, incidentally, is ASU defensive line coach Jerry Thompson, who was an All-American middle guard at Oklahoma. Thompson played at 5-9 and 190 pounds, so he realizes the importance of techniques for middle guards who aren't physically endowed.

Big Play Possibilities

Fans are always wondering why Nebraska doesn't often use the various blitzes on defense, but the reason is simple: If a good offensive team can catch you in a blitz, the play might go all the way.

"We've really gotten most defensive teams away from doing much of that the last few years because our quarterbacks have been able to read blitzes pretty well," Husker coach Tom Osborne said.

What happens when a team blitzes is that they have to go to man-to-man pass coverage. They eliminate their underneath coverage by sending the linebackers after the quarterback. "They can't play a zone pass defense then," Osborne said. "So, they're more vulnerable to the big play when they stunt."

Most stunts teams run are on obvious passing situations. "If they stunt and we have a running play called, they'll stop it cold or we'll break it for a long gain," Jorgensen said.

Arizona State teams began stunting several years ago to help neutralize the size disadvantages they frequently encountered. Now they are as big as the opponents most of the time, but they've found it an effective weapon.

ASU's Best Defensive Team?

Osborne believes Arizona State may have its best defensive team, at least best among the teams the Husker coach has observed over the years.

"They may have had better ones, but I don't recall it," he said. "We've kinda watched them off and on for several years now."

Offensively, when they had Woody Green and Danny White, they were a tremendous football team. Yet, I think they're a better balanced football team than I've seen them have. For that reason, they might be a little tougher overall. If you don't have a strong defense, the other team can control the ball, but their defense is strong enough that it really gives us some concern."

Osborne repeated what he has said previously that he can't understand what the gamblers are talking about in making the Huskers 14-point favorites in the bowl game.

"What you're looking at primarily is people and they've got people," he said. "Defensively they have as good personnel as we've played except possibly Oklahoma, and there you're talking about three All-Americans, the Seminoles (Leroy and Dewey) and Jumbo Elrod, plus a very fine supporting cast."

He mentioned ASU's defensive end Willie Scroggins and defensive back Mike Hayden and called them "great" players. "They've got several others who can run and hit you, so they've got a real excellent group of people on defense," he added.

McKay Denies Emotion

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Coach John McKay said he wasn't getting emotional just because his Trojans defeated Texas A&M in Monday night's Liberty Bowl, closing his collegiate career on a winning note.

But McKay, speaking softly as his victorious Trojans whooped it up in the dressing room at Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium, admitted the victory felt good.

Barely heard above the tumult, McKay refused to divulge what he told his team just before newsmen were admitted.

"That's a private thing," he said.

McKay has resigned as Southern Cal coach to direct the National Football League's Tampa Bucs, an expansion team.

Then after lighting up a borrowed cigar with fingers that displayed a slight quiver, McKay said, "Thank you, gentlemen." And he turned away.

In the main dressing room, tailback Ricky Bell, the game's outstanding player, held court.

Bell said the Trojans were up for the game, particularly because of the four-game losing streak that ended their regular season.

"We dropped four in a row, and everyone thought we could win again—and we did," Bell said.

The junior running sensation who scored one touchdown himself on a 76-yard screen pass and run said the fact that it was McKay's last game at the Trojan helm played a role in the team's attitude.

"But it's not McKay's last game, it's the seniors last game too," Bell said. "And we wanted to win it for all of them, too."

Bell said his long scoring run appeared to take the sting out of the favored Aggies.

He said the Aggies' tactics appeared to be based on a go-for-broke game plan.

"They slanted at us a lot, and when you slant a lot, you can make the big play or you're going to get hurt," Bell said. "They didn't make the big play when they needed it and they got hurt."

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Special To The Star
Nashville, Tenn. — Remember the usual adage about Nebraska's basketball team always losing on the road? That has not been the case this season — especially here Monday night at Vanderbilt's Memorial Gymnasium as coach Joe Cipriano's Huskers defeated Vanderbilt, 68-57, before 12,732 patrons.

It was the Huskers' third straight road victory and fourth straight triumph. Nebraska earlier defeated St. Mary's (Calif.) at the NU Coliseum and then won twice at the Roadrunner Invitational at Las Cruces, N.M., downing the University of Pacific, 85-50, and host New Mexico State, 79-75.

The third consecutive road victory marked the first time a Nebraska basketball squad won three straight road games since the 1967-68 campaign when the Huskers captured all three games at the Big Eight Tournament in Kansas City, Mo.

The Huskers jumped to their biggest lead of the first half at 10-4 when senior guard Steve Willis hit a 25-foot jump shot.

Vandy Rabbits

Vanderbilt rallied for a 10-10 tie with 11:12 before intermission when senior forward Jeff Fosnes scored on a 20-foot jump shot.

Nebraska, however, took a 24-23 halftime lead when freshman guard Brian Banks hit from 20 feet with 1:05 to play.

The game was tied four times during the first half and the lead changed hands eight times.

Coach Roy Skinner's Commodores opened the second half impressively. They assumed a 36-30 advantage when senior guard Butch Fehrer stole the ball and scored on a layup.

But don't think the Huskers were finished.

Coach Joe Cipriano's crew deadlocked the contest at 40-all when Banks hit a basket from 12 feet with 12:34 to play.

Huskers Rally To Trip Vanderbilt, 68-57

With the score tied at 49-all with 7:43 to play, Nebraska took charge and outscored the Commodores, 19-8 in the final seven minutes.

Banks Hits Key Play

The key play occurred with 3:13 to play and Nebraska leading, 57-52. Banks scored on a layup and was fouled by sophomore guard Dickey Keffer.

Banks hit the free throw and

Nebraska held an insurmountable 60-52 margin.

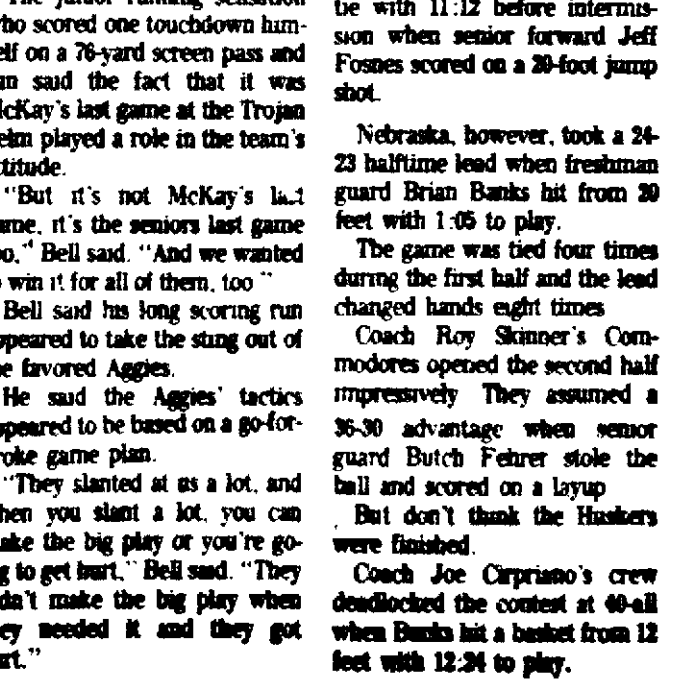

Vanderbilt used a zone defense for the first 30 minutes then switched to a man-to-man when they tried to steal the basketball. Nebraska employed its usual man-to-man defense.

Nebraska hit 41.9 per cent of its field goal attempts, connecting on 26 of 62 efforts. The Commodores were slightly more accurate, hitting on 23 of 53 for 43.4 per cent.

The real advantage was at the free throw line. Nebraska scored on 16 of 18 tries for 88.9 per cent while the hosts scored on just 11 of 18 for 61.1 per cent.

The Huskers committed just seven turnovers while Vanderbilt had 14 turnovers.

The victory advanced Nebraska to 5-3 while Vanderbilt, of the Southeastern Conference, fell to 3-4.

Cornhuskers May Determine Fiesta Bowl Outcome Early

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Scottsdale, Ariz. — Nebraska's chances of winning its seventh consecutive football bowl game may be determined early in Friday afternoon's Fiesta Bowl contest against Arizona State.

The key will be how the Cornhuskers' offensive line handles Arizona State's "stunting" defense, which has been effective enough this season that the Wildcats posted an 11-0 record and won the Western Athletic Conference championship.

"In view of the fact that some teams have had a certain amount of success stunting against us this season, plus the fact Arizona State appears to be a stunting football team, we have to believe we're apt to see quite a bit of it," Coach Tom Osborne said before Monday's practice.

"If they blitz a couple of times early and are able to get to us, we may be letting ourselves in for more of it," Osborne explained. "But if we pick it up and do a good job of hurting them, we may eliminate it. A lot will depend on how effective we are early in the game."

Stunting is a general football term describing many techniques defenses use that are out of the ordinary. It could mean a linebacker blitz, a safety blitz, a monster blitz. And blitz means sending a guy through the line dead set on throwing the quarterback for a loss or forcing him to throw poorly and hurriedly.

"Picking Up"

The offensive jargon for turning the stunt into an asset is "picking up" the man doing the blitzing. In other words, blocking him so he can't get to the quarterback.

One of the Huskers who'll be responsible for "picking up" the blitz will be right guard Greg Jorgensen, 6-2, 246-pound sophomore from Minden.

"They come at you with just about everybody," Jorgensen said Monday morning. "They just try to get to the quarterback before he can throw it or put enough pressure on him to make him throw a bad pass."

Jorgensen said he prefers to be able to just come off the ball when it is snapped and knock the player across from him off the line, but he might not be able to do that against Arizona State.

"We will have to do a lot more reading," he said. That means waiting until the ball is snapped and watching for clues on what the defense has planned by observing what the lineman across from his does and watching the linebackers.

"Adjust Blocking"

"We have to adjust our

THE LINCOLN STAR

Sports

Tuesday, December 23, 1975 13

blocking to where they go," Jorgensen said. "Their moves change our rule on blocking. We have to sit and read their moves and then just react to them."

Early in the season, Jorgensen said, teams tried to blitz on the Huskers, but the linemen picked it up pretty good. "After that, it seemed like nobody stunted on us at all until we got to Oklahoma," he said. "It seemed like people thought the best way they could handle us was to play one-on-one."

Then along came Oklahoma and showed the Huskers a stunt they hadn't seen. And it was so effective that the Huskers could rush for only a net of 70 yards and quarterback Vince Ferragamo had by far his worst day as Nebraska's signal-caller.

Ferragamo was thrown for 35 yards in losses and was hurried enough that he threw two pass interceptions. He had gone seven consecutive games without an interception.

"They had more men on the line than we had guys to block," Jorgensen said of the Oklahoma blitz. "When we blocked our men, that opened up a path and they had one more guy to come in. You have to block the guys closest to the quarterback and just hope."

Usually, this leaves the defensive end to put on pressure, but since he has to come the farthest to get the quarterback, that gives the quarterback the best percentage chance of getting the pass away."

"I've seen a lot of teams playing Arizona State where the plunger (blitzer) goes in and nobody touches him," Osborne said. That isn't likely to happen against Nebraska.

Osborne said the Huskers haven't had to change many things because of their past successes in handling blitzes. "We've just had to make little adjustments here and there to make sure people know what they're doing. We've worked at it, but we still need more work. I don't think we're ready to play yet."

The Huskers, hopefully, will be ready by Friday's 2 p.m. (Lincoln time) kickoff.

Evans Propels Trojans To Win Over Aggies

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Southern California quarterback Vince Evans shredded Texas A&M's head-hunting defense with two long bombs, lifting the underdog Trojans to a 20-0 Liberty Bowl victory Monday night in John McKay's last game as a college coach.

Evans set up Mosi Tatupu's one-yard touchdown plunge early in the second quarter with a 65-yard pass play to Randy Simmrin and then hooked up with All-American tailback Ricky Bell on a screen pass covering 76 yards for a touchdown later in the period.

The 52-year-old McKay, who will coach the Tampa Bay Buccaneers in the National Football League next year, ended his 16-year career at Southern Cal with a record of 127-40-8.

Southern Cal, which had lost its last four regular-season games and was unranked in the final Associated Press regular-season poll, ended the season 8-4. The Aggies, knocked out of the Cotton Bowl by losing to Arkansas in their regular-season finale two weeks ago, finished 10-2 after a 10-0 start.

A record Liberty Bowl crowd of 52,129 and a national television audience witnessed the game, which was played in chilly mid-30 temperatures.

After Evans' first long pass put the ball at the A&M one-yard line, Tatupu dove across to make the score 10-0. Glen Walker, who kicked a 45-yard field goal in the opening period, added a 40-yarder on the Trojans' next possession after Clint Storzler intercepted a pass at the A&M 19.

Evans' screen pass to Bell wound up the scoring with 5:14 still remaining in the second period. Evans had completed only 29 of 99 passes during the regular season for a meager 29 per cent, 521 yards and only two touchdowns.

The Aggies, who led the country in total defense and rushing defense, allowing just 80 yards a game on the ground, stopped the Trojans in the second half but by then it was far too late.

Texas A&M drove 66 yards to the Southern Cal three-yard line on its second possession of the game but the march stalled when quarterback Mike Jay fumbled and linebacker Dave Lewis recovered for USC. The Aggies, a seven-point favorite, put together another good drive late in the second quarter, moving to the Trojans' 26 before Storzler intercepted another Jay pass at the 13.

The shutout was the first suffered by the Aggies in 52 games dating back to early in the 1971 campaign.

Evans completed six of 13 passes for 174 yards while Bell, the nation's leading rusher, carried 28 times for 82 yards and was named the game's Most Valuable Player. During the regular season, Bell gained 1,875 yards, six short of Ed Marinaro's all-time one-season record.

Bell also broke O. J. Simpson's school single-season rushing record of 1,880 yards in 1968. The big junior finished the season with 1,957 yards in 12 games.

The halftime bulge could have been even higher, but Southern Cal blew an excellent scoring opportunity in the second period when the Aggies' Eddie Hardin fumbled a kickoff and the Trojans' Vinny Van Dyke recovered at the 27.

Ford Paces NU

NU Senior guard Jerry Ford had 16 points, junior forward Bob Siegel had 14 points and junior forward Ruckey Harris contributed 10 points.

Senior 6-6 center Larry Cox took team-rebounding honors with 12 caroms. He scored all his eight points in the second half.

Vanderbilt was paced by Fosnes with 20 points and 14 from Fehrer. Freshman 6-10 center Carl Crain tied Cox for game rebounding laurels with 12 caroms in his first start as a Commodore.

The hosts took rebounding honors, 39-35.

The win was the second straight Nebraska victory over Vanderbilt. The Huskers stopped the Commodores last season, 81-66, in Lincoln behind Jerry Fort's 19-point performance.

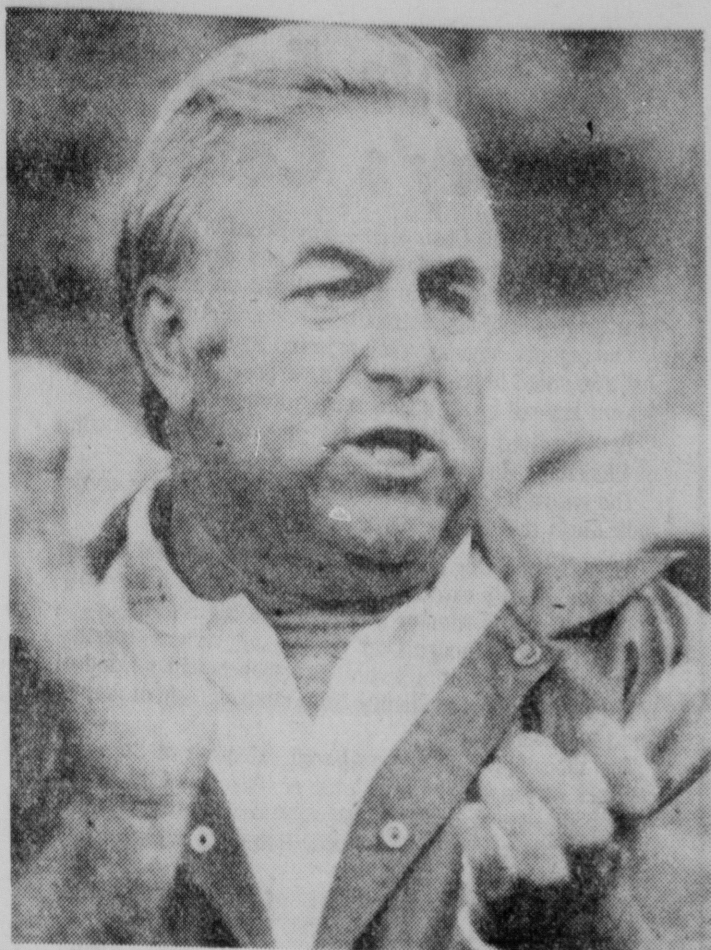

It narrowed the Vanderbilt lead in the five-game series to three-to-two.

Nebraska meets Kansas Saturday night in Kemper Arena at Kansas City, Mo., in the opening round of the annual Big Eight Pre-season Tournament.

NU dropped a 63-62 match to the Jayhawks in last year's semifinals in the league tournament.

Free Agents Test Reserve Clause

By WILL GRIMSLEY
AP Special Correspondent
NEW YORK (AP) — Pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally are expected to be declared free agents within the next 24 hours, handing baseball a blow shaking the structure of the game.

The decision, if upheld in subsequent court tests, would virtually destroy the reserve clause, which makes a player property of one team until traded or sold—a rule twice upheld by the Supreme Court.

Peter Seitz, a New York arbitrator, said Monday that a ruling on the Messersmith and McNally cases would be made probably Tuesday, at the latest Wednesday.

The Los Angeles newspaper, the Herald-Examiner, reported that it had learned the arbitrator's verdict would render Messersmith, a 19-game winner for the Los Angeles Dodgers, a free agent, permitting him to dicker with other teams for his services.

The case of McNally, who belongs to the Montreal Expos, was slightly different than that of Messersmith, although both started the 1975 season without contracts. McNally, a $100,000-a-year left-hander formerly with the Baltimore Orioles, quit in mid-season, saying he didn't want to play any more. He is 32.

Marvin Miller, director of the Major League Baseball Players' Association, said free agent status for both players was applied for before the three-man arbitration panel, headed by Seitz. The other two members are Miller and John Gaherin, attorney for baseball.

It was Seitz who cast the deciding vote a year ago in favor of Catfish Hunter, a 25-game winner with the Oakland A's who argued that owner Charles Finley failed to pay him $50,000 of a $100,000 salary for 1974.

Hunter subsequently signed a $3.75 million, five-year contract with the New York Yankees last Dec. 31. Finley took the arbitration ruling to court and lost. He has appeals pending.

Such arbitration rulings are rarely overturned by the courts. To be reversed, there must be proof of bias on the part of the arbitrator or proof that the decision violated basic law.

Asked about the Los Angeles report, Seitz said in New York that he and other members of the panel were sworn to secrecy. "The report is being prepared," he added. "Another meeting is scheduled Tuesday. A decision will be made within 48 hours."

The other two members of the panel were equally close-mouthed on the matter as was baseball's Commissioner Bowie Kuhn and spokesmen for

Charles Feeney and Lee MacPhail, presidents of the National and American leagues, respectively.

None, however, sought to minimize the probable impact on the game. A pro-player ruling, following by less than 12 months the decision on Hunter, would go a long way toward eliminating what players have called a status of servitude.

Curt Flood challenged baseball's hallowed reserve clause after being traded by St. Louis to Philadelphia, contending he was a victim of a slave system. The Supreme Court ruled against him, citing baseball's immunity to anti-trust action in earlier rulings and passing the buck to Congress.

"This would be a monumental thing if it happens," Bob Fishel, assistant to the American League president, said. "It would be revolutionary. If players are allowed to play out their options, it would place the game in a desperate situation. It would be very tough on the have-not teams."

Another high-placed baseball official, who preferred anonymity, said such an action would end baseball's perpetuity.

"I can't imagine even the players allowing a situation to arise where they would be playing out their options promiscuously. I think, if Messersmith and McNally are upheld, management and players will get together on a new players' agreement."

Baseball already has made concessions to the reserve clause, allowing a player in the major leagues for 10 years and with one club five years to disapprove a trade.

McKay Denies Emotion

MEMPHIS, Tenn. (AP) — Coach John McKay said he wasn't getting emotional just because his Trojans defeated Texas A&M in Monday night's Liberty Bowl, closing his collegiate career on a winning note.

But McKay, speaking softly as his victorious Trojans whooped it up in the dressing room at Liberty Bowl Memorial Stadium, admitted the victory felt good.

Barely heard above the tumult, McKay refused to divulge what he told his team just before newsmen were admitted.

"That's a private thing," he said.

McKay has resigned as Southern Cal coach to direct the National Football League's Tampa Bucs, an expansion team.

Then after lighting up a borrowed cigar with fingers that displayed a slight quiver, McKay said, "Thank you, gentlemen." And he turned away.

In the main dressing room, tailback Ricky Bell, the game's outstanding player, held court.

Bell said the Trojans were up for the game, particularly because of the four-game losing streak that ended their regular season.

"We dropped four in a row, and everyone thought we could win again—and we did," Bell said.

The junior running sensation who scored one touchdown himself on a 76-yard screen pass and run said the fact that it was McKay's last game at the Trojan helm played a role in the team's attitude.

"But it's not McKay's last game, it's the seniors' last game too," Bell said. "And we wanted to win it for all of them, too."

Bell said his long scoring run appeared to take the sting out of the favored Aggies.

He said the Aggies' tactics appeared to be based on a go-for-broke game plan.

"They slanted at us a lot, and when you slant a lot, you can make the big play or you're going to get hurt," Bell said. "They didn't make the big play when they needed it and they got hurt."

Special To The Star
Nashville, Tenn. — Remember the usual adage about Nebraska's basketball team always losing on the road?

That has not been the case this season — especially here Monday night at Vanderbilt's Memorial Gymnasium as coach Joe Cipriano's Huskers defeated Vanderbilt, 68-57, before 12,732 patrons.

It was the Huskers' third straight road victory and fourth straight triumph. Nebraska earlier defeated St. Mary's (Calif.) at the NU Coliseum and then won twice at the Roadrunner Invitational at Las Cruces, N.M., downing the University of Pacific, 85-59, and host New Mexico State, 79-75.

The third consecutive road victory marked the first time a Nebraska basketball squad won three straight road games since the 1967-68 campaign when the Huskers captured all three games at the Big Eight Tournament in Kansas City, Mo.

The Huskers jumped to their biggest lead of the first half at 10-4 when senior guard Steve Willis hit a 25-foot jump shot.

Vandy rallies
Vanderbilt rallied for a 10-10 tie with 11:12 before intermission when senior forward Jeff Fosnes scored on a 20-foot jump shot.

Nebraska, however, took a 24-23 halftime lead when freshman guard Brian Banks hit from 20 feet with 1:05 to play.

The game was tied four times during the first half and the lead changed hands eight times.

Coach Roy Skinner's Commodores opened the second half impressively. They assumed a 36-30 advantage when senior guard Butch Fehrer stole the ball and scored on a layup.

But don't think the Huskers were finished.

Coach Joe Cipriano's crew deadlocked the contest at 40-40 when Banks hit a basket from 12 feet with 12:24 to play.

Cornhuskers May Determine Fiesta Bowl Outcome Early

By BOB OWENS
Star Sports Editor

Scottsdale, Ariz. — Nebraska's chances of winning its seventh consecutive football bowl game may be determined early in Friday afternoon's Fiesta Bowl contest against Arizona State.

The key will be how the Cornhuskers' offensive line handles Arizona State's "stunting" defense, which has been effective enough this season that the Wildcats posted an 11-0 record and won the Western Athletic Conference championship.

"In view of the fact that some teams have had a certain amount of success stunting against us this season, plus the fact Arizona State appears to be a stunting football team, we have to believe we're apt to see quite a bit of it," Coach Tom Osborne said before Monday's practice.

"If they blitz a couple of times early and are able to get to us, we may be letting ourselves in for more of it," Osborne explained. "But if we pick it up and do a good job of hurting them, we may eliminate it. A lot will depend on how effective we are early in the game."

Stunting is a general football term describing many techniques defenses use that are out of the ordinary. It could mean a linebacker blitz, a safety blitz, a monser blitz. And blitz means sending a guy through the line dead set on throwing the quarterback for a loss or forcing him to throw poorly and hurriedly.

'Picking Up'

The offensive jargon for turning the stunt into an asset is "picking up" the man doing the blitzing. In other words, blocking him so he can't get to the quarterback.

One of the Huskers who'll be responsible for "picking up" the blitz will be right guard Greg Jorgensen, 6-2, 246-pound sophomore from Minden.

"They come at you with just about everybody," Jorgensen said Monday morning. "They just try to get to the quarterback before he can throw it or put enough pressure on him to make him throw a bad pass."

Jorgensen said he prefers to be able to just come off the ball when it is snapped and knock the player across from him off the line, but he might not be able to do that against Arizona State.

"We will have to do a lot more reading," he said. That means waiting until the ball is snapped and watching for clues on what the defense has planned by observing what the linemen across from his does and watching the linebackers.

'Adjust Blocking'

"We have to adjust our

blocking to where they go," Jorgensen said. "Their moves change our rule on blocking. We have to sit and read their moves and then just react to them."

Early in the season, Jorgensen said, teams tried to blitz on the Huskers, but the linemen picked it up pretty good. "After that, it seemed like nobody stunted on us at all until we got to Oklahoma," he said. "It seemed like people thought the best way they could handle us was to play one-on-one."

Then along came Oklahoma and showed the Huskers a stunt they hadn't seen. And it was so effective that the Huskers could rush for only a net of 70 yards and quarterback Vince Ferragamo had by far his worst day as Nebraska's signal-caller.

Ferragamo was thrown for 35 yards in losses and was hurried enough that he threw two pass interceptions. He had gone seven consecutive games without an interception.

"They had more men on the line than we had guys to block," Jorgensen said of the Oklahoma blitz. "When we blocked our men, that opened up a path and they had one more guy to come in. You have to block the guys closest to the quarterback and just hope."

Usually, this leaves the defensive end to put on pressure, but since he has to come the farthest to get the quarterback, that gives the quarterback the best percentage chance of getting the pass away."

"I've seen a lot of teams playing Arizona State where the plugger (blitzer) goes in and nobody touches him," Osborne said. That isn't likely to happen against Nebraska.

Huskers Rally To Trip Vanderbilt, 68-57

With the score tied at 49-49 with 7:43 to play, Nebraska took charge and outscored the Commodores, 19-8 in the final seven minutes.

Banks Hits Key Play

The key play occurred with 3:13 to play and Nebraska leading, 57-52. Banks scored on a layup and was fouled by sophomore guard Dickey Kefler.

Banks hit the free throw and

Nebraska held an insurmountable 60-52 margin.

Vanderbilt used a zone defense for the first 30 minutes then switched to a man-to-man when they tried to steal the basketball. Nebraska employed its usual man-to-man defense.

Nebraska hit 41.9 per cent of its field goal attempts, connecting on 26 of 62 efforts. The Commodores were slightly more accurate, hitting on 23 of 53 for 43.4 per cent.

The real advantage was at the free throw line. Nebraska scored on 16 of 18 tries for 88.9 per cent while the hosts scored on just 11 of 18 for 61.1 per cent.

The Huskers committed just seven turnovers while Vanderbilt had 14 turnovers.

The victory advanced Nebraska to 5-3 while Vanderbilt, of the Southeastern Conference, fell to 3-4.

Nebraska landed three players in double scoring figures while Vanderbilt had just two.

Ford Paces NU

NU Senior guard Jerry Ford had 16 points, junior forward Bob Siegel had 14 points and junior forward Rickey Harris contributed 10 points.

Senior 6-6 center Larry Cox took team-rebounding honors with 12 caroms. He scored all his eight points in the second half.

Vanderbilt was paced by Fosnes with 20 points and 14 from Fehrer. Freshman 6-10 center Carl Crain tied Cox for game rebounding laurels with 12 caroms in his first start as a Commodore.

The hosts took rebounding honors, 39-35.

The win was the second straight Nebraska victory over Vanderbilt. The Huskers stopped the Commodores last season, 81-66, in Lincoln behind Jerry Ford's 19-point performance.

It narrowed the Vanderbilt lead in the five-game series to three-to-two.

Nebraska meets Kansas Saturday night in Kemper Arena at Kansas City, Mo., in the opening round of the annual Big Eight Pre-season Tournament.

A Sports Roundup

Mike McCormack was fired as head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles because he didn't produce a National Football League winner after three years on the job.

Owner Leonard Tose, with general manager Jim Murray at his side, read a brief statement saying the change was made with "personal regret."

M McCormack's Eagles compiled a 16-25-1 record, including this season's 4-10 showing ending with a 26-3 upset victory over Washington.

"I had real hope of being retained, especially after beating Washington. But Leonard said to me, 'I just don't feel we are where we should be at this stage and I just want to make a change.'"

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers and Seattle Seahawks, the two incoming franchises of the NFL, will engage in a special drawing Dec. 27 to determine the order the two clubs will select in the college and veteran player allocation drafts. One of the teams will get first choice in the Jan. 23 veteran draft and the other will pick first in the Feb. 3 college draft.

Jim Otis, the St. Louis fullback once worth only a fifth-round draft choice on the trading block, says he's not surprised he won the National Football Conference's rushing title this season.

Coach Rick Forzano of the Detroit Lions said he has mailed St. Louis Cardinals' tight end Jackie Smith a letter of apology for a sideline incident during Sunday's game. As Smith ran out of bounds on a pass pattern, he was whacked by Lion defensive lineman Jim Mitchell, who was watching from the sidelines.

The Pittsburgh Steelers were listed by Harrah's Reno-Tahoe Racebook as 11-point favorites in the NFL playoff.

Influenza had Pittsburgh and Kansas more worried than the opposing offenses as both teams went through contact drills preparing for Friday's Sun Bowl. Pitt's Tony Dorsett lost 15 pounds after a bout with the flu. Kansas had three players out.

Coach Ken Cooper, who revived the University of Mississippi's football fortunes this year, was named major college coach of the South by his peers.

The Rev. C.H. Gerald, father of Ohio State freshman quarterback Rodger Gerald, said he was misquoted in a Dallas newspaper which said his son had accepted a $500 loan from a University of Tennessee alumnus and that Buckeye Coach Woody Hayes dropped $100 into a collection plate.

NBA commissioner Larry O'Brien said that the supplementary draft of five players presently playing in the ABA would be Dec. 30. The players are Moses Malone of St. Louis, Mel Bennett of Virginia, Charlie Jordan of Indiana and Mark Olberding and Skip Wise of San Antonio.

Pete Maravich will return to action Christmas Night against the Houston Rockets. He has been missing from the New Orleans' lineup for six weeks from a partial left shoulder separation.

The St. Louis baseball Cardinals traded infielder Mike Kefauver to the Chicago Cubs for infielder Vic Harris.

The world's top four women tennis players will be invited to compete in a two-day tournament for $200,000 in Tucson, Ariz., next May.

Prize money in the grand national division of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing totaled more than $3.5 million in 1975, with Richard Petty grabbing a record $378,865 in winnings.

Royals Acquire Minor Leaguers

Kansas City (AP) — The Kansas City Royals today announced the acquisition of a catcher, an infielder and a left-handed pitcher in a series of minor league deals.

Steve Patchin, 25, catcher, was obtained from the Los Angeles Dodgers for infielder Ron Washington, 23. Pat Osburn, 26, pitcher, was obtained from the Milwaukee Brewers for outfielder Kenzie Davis, 24. Richard Ingalls, 24, infielder, was brought from Oakland in exchange from infielder Mark Williams, 22.

Patchin and Osburn were assigned to the Royals' Triple A Omaha, Neb., club and Ingalls to the Double A club at Jacksonville, Fla.

Ali Ready To Fight Coopman

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali will defend his world heavyweight boxing title Feb. 20 against Jean-Pierre Coopman, a Belgian who is nicknamed the Lion of Flanders and who is little known outside of Europe.

That is the plan promoter Don King disclosed Monday in a telephone interview from Puerto Rico.

Coopman's plan is to make a good showing against Ali.

He said in an interview in Brussels that he realizes he is "beat from the start. But I promise to do all I can to be in good condition so that the match will not be a mere formality for Ali. It's a great honor, not only for me but also for Belgian boxing."

However, the Belgian press was not so impressed, and the boxing writer of Le Peuple wrote, "It is time Belgian managers came back to earth or showed they have a bit more scruples instead of sending their boxers to the slaughterhouse."

"We will hold a major press conference in New York Jan. 6 or 7. Ali and Coopman will be there," said King, who added that a site for the bout has not been determined.

San Juan appeared to have the inside track for the bout which King said would be televised live in the United States by CBS. He also mentioned Las Vegas and Paris as possible sites.

King said last month that he thought Ali's next fight would be against Henry Clark of San Francisco in the Dominican Republic in February, but Monday he said, "He'll probably fight Clark in the Dominican Republic in April."

There were reports in Puerto Rico that negotiations were underway for an Ali-George Foreman fight, but King denied that and said Ken Norton, not Foreman, is the frontrunner as Ali's opponent for the next big-money, closed-circuit television fight, which he hopes to promote in the United States July 4.

The 29-year-old Coopman, a pro only since 1972, has a 24-30 record. One of his losses was a second-round knockout by Ireno Werleman in 1973, and another was a 10-round decision to Rudi Lubbers last year.

Two of the victories in his 6-0 record this year were over American veterans—an eighth-round knockout of Charlie "Devil" Green and a seventh-round disqualification of Terry Daniels.

Coopman is not ranked by the World Boxing Association or the World Boxing Council, but neither was Chuck Wepner.

Allen Sparks Aggies

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Bill Allen popped in 22 points to power New Mexico State past Brigham Young University 90-79 in a nonconference college basketball game Monday.

The Aggies rode Allen's shooting and 13 BYU turnovers to a 49-45 halftime lead, then broke the game open midway through the second half when they reeled off 16 straight points.

Richard Robinson pitched in 18 points for the Aggies while Dexter Hawkins added 16 and Bob Dvorak scored 11.

BYU's 6-10 center, Jay Cheesman, captured game scoring honors with 25 points. Mark Handy and Reed Noble each chipped in 12 for the Cougars.

The victory leaves New Mexico State 7-3 on the season. Brigham Young stands at 4-4.

Both teams netted 57 per cent of their field goal attempts for the game. The Aggies out-rebounded the taller Cougars 35-35.

Tarkenton, Blanda Set NFL Records

By The Associated Press
Fran Tarkenton broke four of Johnny Unitas' all-time National Football League records during the 1975 season and tied a fifth, while ageless George Blanda extended the many records he already owns.

And, in a year when the offensive stars of the NFL virtually rewrote the standards, running backs Terry Metcalf of St. Louis, O. J. Simpson of Buffalo and Chuck Foreman of Minnesota joined the elite.

Also earning a spot among the sport's greats was Washington's Charley Taylor, whose 635 career receptions are two more than the record which had been held by Don Maynard.

The year belonged more to Tarkenton than any other single player.

In his 15th season, the Vikings quarterback now owns records for career passes attempted, 5,225; passes completed, 2,931; touchdown passes, 291, and most seasons with 2,000 or more yards passing, 14.

All of those records had been held by Unitas. In addition, Tarkenton tied Unitas' record of 15 seasons with 1,000 or more yards passing and he moved within 1,400 yards of breaking Unitas' all-time yardage record.

Simpson's 23 touchdowns broke the record of 22 which was held by Gale Sayers. And his feat of scoring a touchdown in all 14 games tied a record set by Baltimore's Lenny Moore in 1964.

Foreman, who had 22 touchdowns, set an all-time record for pass receptions by a running back, breaking by 20 yards the all-purpose record set last year by Mack Herron.

And Metcalf had 2,462 yards on runs, receptions and kick run-backs, breaking by 20 yards the all-purpose record set last year by Mack Herron.

Daniel Sparks Cowboys

COLUMBIA, S. C. (AP)—Guard Ronnie Daniel scored 25 points Monday night to lead Oklahoma State to a 72-49 victory over Virginia, joining South Carolina in the finals of the Carolina Classic basketball tournament.

South Carolina used 21 points in the first half by Alex English in the opening game of the tournament to defeat Yale, 100-66.

Virginia took a 33-32 halftime lead over the Cowboys behind Mark Iavaroni's 13 points, but Oklahoma State scored four quick points at the start of the second half to lead 36-33.

Iavaroni was called for his fourth personal foul and left the game with 17:32 left. After that, Oklahoma State built an 11-point lead, 57-46, until the sophomore forward re-entered the game to continue his strong inside play.

Senior forward Wally Walker, who was averaging 17.5 points entering the game, then took charge of the Cavalier scoring and reeled off nine unanswered points to bring his team within three, at 64-61.

Walker, with 21 points, led the scoring for Virginia, which saw its record drop to 3-2. Oklahoma State upped its mark to 4-3.

Following the opener at St. Petersburg, the circuit will move on to Ft. Myers, Fla. (Jan. 19), McAllen, Tex. (Jan. 26), Midland, Tex. (Feb. 9), Austin, Tex. (Feb. 16), San Antonio, Tex. (Feb. 23).

Conservation officers also reported little quail, squirrel, or rabbit hunting, and low ice fishing pressure because of uncertainty on the strength of the ice. Outdoor activity across the state includes:

PANHANDLE: Hunters are having fair success on mallards along the North and South Platte Rivers in Keith County, and have also taken a few birds at Lake Ogallala and the Keystone Division. Fishermen at Lake Ogallala and the Keystone Division have taken a few rainbow trout to 2 pounds lately on artificial and marshmallows.

SOUTHWEST: Goose hunters had fair success on Sunday at Johnson Lake, being a few big Bonkers. Duck hunters did well on mallards, taking the greenheads on cornfields between Paxton and Sutherland. Quail hunters did poorly.

SOUTHEAST: Ice fishermen are stepping cautiously on Salt Valley lakes, where ice thickness ranges from a sturdy five inches in some places down to a shaky two inches in others. A bit more freezing weather is needed before the lakes will be completely safe. Quail hunters in the extreme southeast have had fair success, especially those using dogs. Rabbit and squirrel hunters have also done well in some localities.

NORTHEAST: Fishermen near Davis Point Dam have been taking some limits of walleye and sauger, averaging 1 1/2 pounds, on minnow-and-ig combinations. Snappers have taken a few paddlefish up to 40 pounds.

FOOTBALL

Mike McCormack was fired as head coach of the Philadelphia Eagles because he didn't produce a National Football League winner after three years on the job.

Owner Leonard Tose, with general manager Jim Murray at his side, read a brief statement saying the change was made with "personal regret."

M McCormack's Eagles compiled a 16-25-1 record, including this season's 4-10 showing ending with a 26-3 upset victory over Washington.

"I had real hope of being retained, especially after beating Washington. But Leonard said to me, 'I just don't feel we are where we should be at this stage and I just want to make a change.'"

The Tampa Bay Buccaneers and Seattle Seahawks, the two incoming franchises of the NFL, will engage in a special drawing Dec. 27 to determine the order the two clubs will select in the college and veteran player allocation drafts. One of the teams will get first choice in the Jan. 23 veteran draft and the other will pick first in the Feb. 3 college draft.

Jim Otis, the St. Louis fullback once worth only a fifth-round draft choice on the trading block, says he's not surprised he won the National Football Conference's rushing title this season.

Coach Rick Forzano of the Detroit Lions said he has mailed St. Louis Cardinals' tight end Jackie Smith a letter of apology for a sideline incident during Sunday's game. As Smith ran out of bounds on a pass pattern, he was whacked by Lion defensive lineman Jim Mitchell, who was watching from the sidelines.

The Pittsburgh Steelers were listed by Harrah's Reno-Tahoe Racebook as 11-point favorites in the NFL playoff.

Influenza had Pittsburgh and Kansas more worried than the opposing offenses as both teams went through contact drills preparing for Friday's Sun Bowl. Pitt's Tony Dorsett lost 15 pounds after a bout with the flu. Kansas has three players out.

Coach Ken Cooper, who revived the University of Mississippi's football fortunes this year, was named major college Coach of the South by his peers.

The Rev. C.H. Gerald, father of Ohio State freshman quarterback Roderic Gerald, said he was misquoted in a Dallas newspaper which said his son had accepted a $500 loan from a University of Tennessee alumnus and that Buckeye Coach Woody Hayes dropped $100 into a collection plate.

OTHER SPORTS

NBA commissioner Larry O'Brien said that the supplementary draft of five players presently playing in the ABA would be Dec. 30. The players are Moses Malone of St. Louis, Mel Bennett of Virginia, Charlie Jordan of Indiana and Mark Olberding and Skip Wise of San Antonio.

Pete Maravich will return to action Christmas Night against the Houston Rockets. He has been missing from the New Orleans' lineup for six weeks from a partial left shoulder separation.

The St. Louis baseball Cardinals traded infielder Mike Kellner to the Chicago Cubs for infielder Vic Harris.

The world's top four women tennis players will be invited to compete in a two-day tournament for $200,000 in Tucson, Ariz. next May.

Prize money in the grand national division of the National Association for Stock Car Auto Racing totaled more than $3.5 million in 1975, with Richard Petty grabbing a record $378,865 in winnings.

Royals Acquire Minor Leaguers

Kansas City (AP) — The Kansas City Royals today announced the acquisition of a catcher, an infielder and a left-handed pitcher in a series of minor league deals.

Steve Patchin, 25, catcher, was obtained from the Los Angeles Dodgers for infielder Ron Washington, 23. Pat Osburn, 26, pitcher, was obtained from the Milwaukee Brewers for outfielder Kenzie Davis, 24. Richard Ingalls, 24, infielder, was brought from Oakland in exchange from infielder Mark Williams, 22.

Patchin and Osburn were assigned to the Royals' Triple A Omaha, Neb., club and Ingalls to the Double A club at Jacksonville, Fla.

Ali Ready To Fight Coopman

NEW YORK (AP) — Muhammad Ali will defend his world heavyweight boxing title Feb. 20 against Jean-Pierre Coopman, a Belgian who is nicknamed the Lion of Flanders and who is little known outside of Europe.

That is the plan promoter Don King disclosed Monday in a telephone interview from Puerto Rico.

Coopman's plan is to make a good showing against Ali.

He said in an interview in Brussels that he realizes he is "beat from the start. But I promise to do all I can to be in good condition so that the match will not be a mere formality for Ali. It's a great honor, not only for me but also for Belgian boxing."

However, the Belgian press was not so impressed, and the boxing writer of Le Peuple wrote, "It is time Belgian managers came back to earth or showed they have a bit more scruples instead of sending their boxers to the slaughterhouse."

"We will hold a major press conference in New York Jan. 6 or 7. Ali and Coopman will be there," said King, who added that a site for the bout has not been determined.

San Juan appeared to have the inside track for the bout which King said would be televised live in the United States by CBS. He also mentioned Las Vegas and Paris as possible sites.

King said last month that he thought Ali's next fight would be against Henry Clark of San Francisco in the Dominican Republic in February, but Monday he said, "He'll probably fight Clark in the Dominican Republic in April."

There were reports in Puerto Rico that negotiations were underway for an Ali-George Foreman fight, but King denied that and said Ken Norton, not Foreman, is the frontrunner as Ali's opponent for the next big-money, closed-circuit television fight, which he hopes to promote in the United States July 4.

The 29-year-old Coopman, a pro only since 1972, has a 24-3-0 record. One of his losses was a second-round knockout by Ireno Werleman in 1973, and another was a 10-round decision to Rudi Lubbers last year.

Two of the victories in his 6-0 record this year were over American veterans—an eighth-round knockout of Charlie "Devil" Green and a seventh-round disqualification of Terry Daniels.

Coopman is not ranked by the World Boxing Association or the World Boxing Council, but neither was Chuck Weper.

Allen Sparks Aggies

LAS CRUCES, N.M. (AP) — Bill Allen popped in 22 points to power New Mexico State past Brigham Young University 90-79 in a nonconference college basketball game Monday.

The Aggies rode Allen's shooting and 13 BYU turnovers to a 49-45 halftime lead, then broke the game open midway through the second half when they reeled off 16 straight points.

Richard Robinson pitched in 18 points for the Aggies while Dexter Hawkins added 16 and Bob Dvorak scored 11.

BYU's 6-10 center, Jay Cheesman, captured game scoring honors with 25 points. Mark Handy and Reed Noble each chipped in 12 for the Cougars.

The victory leaves New Mexico State 7-3 on the season. Brigham Young stands at 4-4.

Both teams netted 57 per cent of their field goal attempts for the game. The Aggies out-rebounded the taller Cougars 36-35.

Tarkenton, Blanda Set NFL Records

By The Associated Press
Fran Tarkenton broke four of Johnny Unitas' all-time National Football League records during the 1975 season and tied a fifth, while ageless George Blanda extended the many records he already owns.

And, in a year when the offensive stars of the NFL virtually rewrote the standards, running backs Terry Metcalf of St. Louis, O. J. Simpson of Buffalo and Chuck Foreman of Minnesota joined the elite.

Also earning a spot among the sport's greats was Washington's Charley Taylor, whose 635 career receptions are two more than the record which had been held by Don Maynard.

The year belonged more to Tarkenton than any other single player.

In his 15th season, the Vikings quarterback now owns records for career passes attempted, 5,225; passes completed, 2,931; touchdown passes, 291, and most seasons with 2,000 or more yards passing, 14.

All of those records had been held by Unitas. In addition, Tarkenton tied Unitas' record of 15 seasons with 1,000 or more yards passing and he moved within 1,400 yards of breaking Unitas' all-time yardage record.

Simpson's 23 touchdowns broke the record of 22 which was held by Gale Sayers. And his feat of scoring a touchdown in all 14 games tied a record set by Baltimore's Lenny Moore in 1964.

Foreman, who had 22 touchdowns, set an all-time record for pass receptions by a running back, breaking by 20 yards the all-purpose record set last year by Mack Herron.

And Metcalf had 2,462 yards on runs, receptions and kick run-backs, breaking by 20 yards the all-purpose record set last year by Mack Herron.

Connors Drops Match

MEXICO CITY (AP) — Raul Ramirez completed a four-set victory over Jimmy Connors, the top-ranked tennis player in the world a year ago, and for the second time in less than a year led Mexico to victory over the United States in Davis Cup competition.

The score was 2-6, 6-3, 6-3, 6-4.

It was an embarrassing setback for the Americans, beaten for the third year in a row by a South American neighbor in preliminary rounds of the best-of-five match series. The Yanks lost to Colombia 4-1 in 1974 and to Mexico last February in Palm Springs, Calif., with Ramirez, as in the case this year, spearheading a 3-2 victory.

The series was a second-round match of the American Zone and qualified Mexico to meet South Africa, probably in Mexico City. South Africa was the 1974 champion when India defaulted in the last round because of South Africa's racial policies. Sweden won the 1975 title over Czechoslovakia last weekend in Stockholm.

Ramirez, who now has scored six points against the United States in the last two Davis Cup matches, emerged as a national hero.

Colts' Unforgettable Year May Be Ended Abruptly

By Associated Press

Others have traveled the same road. But not many. For the Baltimore Colts, this is a year they will never forget, the time when they became the first National Football League team to go from the bottom of their division to the top in a single jump.

The euphoria may soon wear off, however, now that the league has pared its 26 teams to eight for the playoffs.

Again, the Pittsburgh Steelers and Minnesota Vikings appear the strongest of the strong. And the Colts will likely have to beat both to make this a Cinderella year that would rank among the greatest achievements in the history of team sport.

The Los Angeles Rams and Oakland Raiders are back. So are the St. Louis Cardinals, with a year's experience from last year's storybook finish which nearly equalled this year's Colts' saga.

And the Dallas Cowboys, completing a rapid rebuilding program, have made it, as have the Cincinnati Bengals.

All eight, pointing to Super Bowl X on Jan. 18, begin play in this weekend's quarter-final

Blue-Gray Officials Allowed Tampering

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Officials of the Blue-Gray college football all-star game confirmed Monday that they permitted an independent television network to dictate that the first quarter of their game be cut from 15 minutes to 12.

And the officials said the network also insisted on lengthening the game in the fourth quarter, perhaps giving the North squad enough additional time to score the winning touchdown.

Timekeeper Jess Lanier, who juggled the clock in the controversial game, said, "I followed the instructions of the TV people. They had charge of the time."

Two officials of the Blue-Gray Association which sponsored the Friday night game conceded that the first period was cut short at the request of the independent network, Muzlou, which carried the game.

"It won't happen again," said Blue-Gray President Bill Chandler. The game's general manager, Allen McKeen, protested angrily that "I knew absolutely nothing about it. If I had known, I would have raised hell. It wouldn't have been allowed."

Vic Piano, executive director of Muzlou, told The Associated Press in New York:

"I was not there. The people who were there are on the road. I don't know all the facts. I was not there. Why don't you print the good things we do, the money we make for charity?"

McKeen, a former Mississippi State head coach who has masterminded the Blue-Gray game for 16 years, complained that after cutting the first period to 12 minutes, the network changed signals and put out the word to slow the game down late in the fourth quarter because "it was getting over too soon."

"The game was prolonged. I know it was," McKeen said. "How much I don't know. There's no way in the world to tell."

Jimmy Connors

shot of the match, halted by darkness Sunday with Connors leading 3-2 in the fourth set on service, the demonstrative crowd poured out onto the soft red clay courts of the Rafael Osune Stadium and mobbed the young Mexican ace.

They cheered wildly, threw pillows and programs into the air and carried their celebration into the streets.

Ramirez, who had crushed Brian Gottfried of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., in the first round, then teamed with Marcelo Lara for a victory over America's Dick Stockton and Eric van Dillen in doubles, played brilliant inspired tennis in the final five games.

Mixing speed with occasional slow shots, drop-shotting and lobbing with finesse, he broke the rhythm of Connors' incessant attacking game with a vital service break in the ninth game—the first of the set. A shaken Connors double-faulted at game point.

Then, with Connors playing doggedly, he held service in the 10th game for the match, after the score had reached deuce. The crowd erupted.

Tony Trabert, the new U. S. captain, had high praise for the dashing, mustachioed Mexican, saying:

"He played well. He mixed up his shots. Serving was by far his best strength. He definitely outplayed us in the last match. We were at full force and had our best player out there."

"We don't have any excuses. Mexico played well and deserved all the credit."

Both Connors and Gottfried beat the No. 2 Mexican player, Lara. Thus the outcome of the series hinged on Ramirez' individual effort and the doubles match.

A cartoon in a Mexican newspaper showed a dejected Uncle Sam making a list of nations which would not get preferred trade status with the United States. The list included "... those nations that beat us in tennis."

round of playoffs.

The Colts, 10-4, meet the Steelers, 12-2, in Pittsburgh on Saturday, and the Bengals, 11-3, travel to Oakland, 11-3, on Sunday. The winners meet in a Jan. 4 semifinal that will be played at Pittsburgh if the Steelers win. If the Steelers lose, the Raiders can host the semifinal by winning. In the unlikely event that both the Steelers and Raiders lose, the Colts would host the Bengals.

In the National Conference, St. Louis, 11-3, is at Los Angeles, 12-2, on Saturday, and Dallas, 10-4, is at Minnesota, 12-2, on Sunday. The Vikings can host the Jan. 4 semifinal by winning. Otherwise, the winner of the St. Louis-Los Angeles game would have the homefield advantage for the next round.

The Steelers, seeking to join the Miami Dolphins and Green Bay Packers as the only teams to win two Super Bowls, had their 11-game winning streak snapped by the Rams last Saturday. But Pittsburgh, its powerful offense led by Terry Bradshaw and Franco Harris and its Steel Curtain defense as strong as ever, seems ready.

"What this does is put everything back into perspective,"

defensive end Dwight White said following the 10-3 loss to Los Angeles. "Once in a while you need to relearn the fact that, if you don't play with 110 per cent effort, you can lose to a good team."

"And in the playoffs there won't be anything but good teams."

"We were reminded that we don't like the feeling that goes with losing," said Coach Chuck Noll. "It hasn't happened to us in a long time and maybe we needed a reminder."

Aligned against them are the Colts, riding a nine-game victory streak and an incredible success story built on the arm of Bert Jones, the legs of Lydell Mitchell, the ferocity of a front four called the Looney Tunes and the apparent coaching genius of Ted Marchibroda.

"He put everything together," said Mitchell of Marchibroda. "Without him, we wouldn't be here today. He said he believed in us. You looked at him like he was crazy, the way we had been down. He took us and put our house in order."

When the season opened, the Rams were as strong on paper as any team. But injuries have riddled the team and the club does not seem as strong as the Steelers despite last Saturday's victory. The Bengals, meanwhile, have played well except for two losses to the Steelers and may have pro football's best young quarterback in Ken Anderson.

In the National Conference, the Vikings and Raiders would appear to have an edge on the Cowboys and Cardinals. But both have lost big games before and the Cowboys and Cardinals have won consistently in the clutch.

Getting to the Super Bowl is getting to be a habit for Bud Grant's Vikings, whose three appearances there are matched only by Miami. But the Vikings are also the only team to have lost the Super Bowl more than once, and they've done that three times.

What it comes down to now is a series of one-week seasons.

From that standpoint, the Colts have experience. Every week since their 1-4 start has been a must situation, and each time Marchibroda's young club has responded.

All they have to do now is follow the same road three more times, and the long haul from the valley to the mountaintop will be complete.

Brandeis' Plans Are Confirmed

Brandeis department store officials confirmed Monday that a suburban store and parking garage will be built at Gateway Shopping Center in east Lincoln.

Construction of the store should begin in 30 days on the 100,000-square foot store. The branch operation will be located directly west of Miller and Paine's store at Gateway.

The new store should be completed by the spring of 1977, reported officials of J. L. Brandeis & Sons.

Two weeks ago The Lincoln Star reported that the company was negotiating with Bankers Life to build the store and parking ramp at Gateway Shopping Center.

The two-story parking garage will be built in the parking lot area directly north of Miller and Paine's. About 310 parking stalls will be provided. Brandeis will build the ramp because additional parking will be needed to replace the parking lost by the construction of Brandeis. Brandeis officials said parking in the garage will be free.

The two-story Brandeis store will be connected to the garage by walkways at both levels. The west wall of Miller and Paine's will be used as the east wall of the Brandeis store.

Brandeis Vice President John Dising estimated the store and garage will cost in excess of $4 million.

Brandeis will continue to run its store in downtown Lincoln, at 11th and O.

In 1974 Brandeis wanted to build a store in south Lincoln but was refused zoning by the City Council.

The store at Gateway is being designed by Leo A. Daly Co. of Omaha. The general contractor is Olson Construction Co. of Lincoln.

About 200 people will be employed in the new store.

UP Railroader Fatally Scalded

Omaha (AP) — An employee of the Union Pacific Railroad was scalded to death Monday night when he fell into a vat used to clean grease from equipment.

The name of the victim was withheld until relatives are notified.

Officials said the man fell from a crane into a steam-heated degreasing vat that contained a chemical similar to carbon tetrachloride. The incident occurred in the railroad's downtown yards.

Comprehensive Plan Deadline June

By LYNN ZERSCHLING

City lawmakers Monday unanimously set a June 30 deadline for completion of the Comprehensive Plan, originally to have been wrapped up in October.

The City Council appointed members Sue Bailey, Steve Cook and Bob Sikyta to monitor progress on the plan and recommend whether an outside person should be hired to get the plan completed.

Monday's decision was an outgrowth of last week's meeting with the City-County Planning Commission, the County Board and planning director Doug Brogden at which several councilmen blamed Brogden for the delay.

The council set its arbitrary time limit even though City Atty. Charles Humble and Mayor Helen Boosalis warned that the council's deadline might not be realistic. The biggest delay in the plan centers on the completion of the major street plan. Humble noted, Transportation planners have said their study wouldn't be done for another six or seven weeks.

Humble reported that consultants Barton-Aschman Associates said it would take them another six months to wind up the plan after the street plan was finished.

Council members weren't sympathetic to those time problems, and Councilmen Max Denney and Sikyta threatened to take over the job themselves.

Councilman Bob Jeamey said he was positive work on the transportation part of the Comprehensive Plan could be completed sooner, since citizens who worked on the Goals and Policies Committee report in 1972 had to finish their recommendations in a short time period.

"If citizens can do that without pay, I don't understand why the people whose jobs it is to do this can't get it done," stated Jeamey, former chairman of the Goals and Policies Committee.

The three-member committee is to report back next week on further recommendations for completing the Comprehensive Plan, the basic land use and transportation plan for the city and county.

In making its decision, the council agreed to ask Barton-Aschman to continue working on the plan. The original 18-month contract carried a $184,000 price tag.

Barton-Aschman officials argued they were not able to complete work on the plan as scheduled because local officials failed to complete the transportation study on time.

The council also agreed to take a more active role in updating the Comprehensive Plan, which by law is the job of the planning director and Planning Commission. The council agreed that the consultants should be directly accountable to the council, as well as to the Planning Commission.

Villages To Get Planning Assist

The City Council approved agreements with two Lancaster County villages Monday which will pave the way for the planning department to help prepare comprehensive plans for those two communities.

The council, which has approved agreements with other towns in the county, Monday signed agreements with the villages of Davey and Denton. The plans for those towns will be incorporated into the Comprehensive Plan being written for Lincoln and Lancaster County.

The council set a June 30 deadline for that plan Monday.

Colts' Unforgettable Year May Be Ended Abruptly

By Associated Press

Others have traveled the same road. But not many. For the Baltimore Colts, this is a year they will never forget, the time when they became the first National Football League team to go from the bottom of their division to the top in a single jump.

The euphoria may soon wear off, however, now that the league has pared its 26 teams to eight for the playoffs.

Again, the Pittsburgh Steelers and Minnesota Vikings appear the strongest of the strong. And the Colts will likely have to beat both to make this a Cinderella year that would rank among the greatest achievements in the history of team sport.

The Los Angeles Rams and Oakland Raiders are back. So are the St. Louis Cardinals, with a year's experience from last year's storybook finish which nearly equalled this year's Colts' saga.

And the Dallas Cowboys, completing a rapid rebuilding program, have made it, as have the Cincinnati Bengals.

All eight, pointing to Super Bowl X on Jan. 18, begin play in this weekend's quarter-final round of playoffs.

The Colts, 10-4, meet the Steelers, 12-2, in Pittsburgh on Saturday, and the Bengals, 11-3, travel to Oakland, 11-3, on Sunday. The winners meet in a Jan. 4 semifinal that will be played at Pittsburgh if the Steelers win. If the Steelers lose, the Raiders can host the semifinal by winning. In the unlikely event that both the Steelers and Raiders lose, the Colts would host the Bengals.

In the National Conference, St. Louis, 11-3, is at Los Angeles, 12-2, on Saturday, and Dallas, 10-4, is at Minnesota, 12-2, on Sunday. The Vikings can host the Jan. 4 semifinal by winning. Otherwise, the winner of the St. Louis-Los Angeles game would have the homefield advantage for the next round.

The Steelers, seeking to join the Miami Dolphins and Green Bay Packers as the only teams to win two Super Bowls, had their 11-game winning streak snapped by the Rams last Saturday. But Pittsburgh, its powerful offense led by Terry Bradshaw and Franco Harris and its Steel Curtain defense as strong as ever, seems ready.

"What this does is put everything back into perspective,"

defensive end Dwight White said following the 10-3 loss to Los Angeles. "Once in a while you need to relearn the fact that, if you don't play with 110 per cent effort, you can lose to a good team."

"And in the playoffs there won't be anything but good teams."

"We were reminded that we don't like the feeling that goes with losing," said Coach Chuck Noll. "It hasn't happened to us in a long time and maybe we needed a reminder."

Aligned against them are the Colts, riding a nine-game victory streak and an incredible success story built on the arm of Bert Jones, the legs of Lydell Mitchell, the ferocity of a front four called the Looney Tunes and the apparent coaching genius of Ted Marchibroda.

"He put everything together," said Mitchell of Marchibroda. "Without him, we wouldn't be here today. He said he believed in us. You looked at him like he was crazy, the way we had been down. He took us and put our house in order."

When the season opened, the Rams were as strong on paper as any team. But injuries have rattled the team and the club does not seem as strong as the Steelers despite last Saturday's victory. The Bengals, meanwhile, have played well except for two losses to the Steelers and may have pro football's best young quarterback in Ken Anderson.

In the National Conference, the Vikings and Raiders would appear to have an edge on the Cowboys and Cardinals. But both have lost big games before and the Cowboys and Cardinals have won consistently in the clutch.

Getting to the Super Bowl is getting to be a habit for Bud Grant's Vikings, whose three appearances there are matched only by Miami. But the Vikings are also the only team to have lost the Super Bowl more than once, and they've done that three times.

What it comes down to now is a series of one-week seasons.

From that standpoint, the Colts have experience. Every week since their 1-4 start has been a must situation, and each time Marchibroda's young club has responded.

All they have to do now is follow the same road three more times, and the long haul from the valley to the mountaintop will be complete.

Blue-Gray Officials Allowed Tampering

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — Officials of the Blue-Gray college football all-star game confirmed Monday that they permitted an independent television network to dictate that the first quarter of their game be cut from 15 minutes to 12.

And the officials said the network also insisted on lengthening the game in the fourth quarter, perhaps giving the North squad enough additional time to score the winning touchdown.

Timekeeper Jess Lanier, who juggled the clock in the controversial game, said, "I followed the instructions of the TV people. They had charge of the time."

Two officials of the Blue-Gray Association which sponsored the Friday night game conceded that the first period was cut short at the request of the independent network, Mizlou, which carried the game.

"It won't happen again," said Blue-Gray President Bill Chandler. The game's general manager, Allen McKeen, protested angrily that "I knew absolutely nothing about it. If I had known, I would have raised hell. It wouldn't have been allowed."

Vic Piano, executive director of Mizlou, told The Associated Press in New York:

"I was not there. The people who were there are on the road. I don't know all the facts. I was not there. Why don't you print the good things we do, the money we make for charity."

McKeen, a former Mississippi State head coach who has masterminded the Blue-Gray game for 16 years, complained that after cutting the first period to 12 minutes, the network changed signals and put out the word to slow the game down late in the fourth quarter because "it was getting over too soon."

"The game was prolonged. I know it was," McKeen said. "How much I don't know. There's no way in the world to tell."

WINTERIZE YOUR HOUSE

Make sure you have a minimum of 6 inches insulation in the attic and 3½ inches minimum in walls. Proper insulation saves 20% or more on annual fuel consumption.

Weather strip around doors and windows. An ¼" gap around a door is like a 6-inch hole in your house.

Set your thermostat at 68 degrees (or the lowest comfortable setting). Each degree lower can save 2 to 3% of your heating fuel.

Make sure your fireplace damper is closed when it's not in use. Chimneys can draw off 20% of household heat each hour they're open.

Don't heat a room you're not using

Have your heating system checked by a qualified specialist. On forced-air systems, change the filter several times during heating season. You'll get your money back in savings.

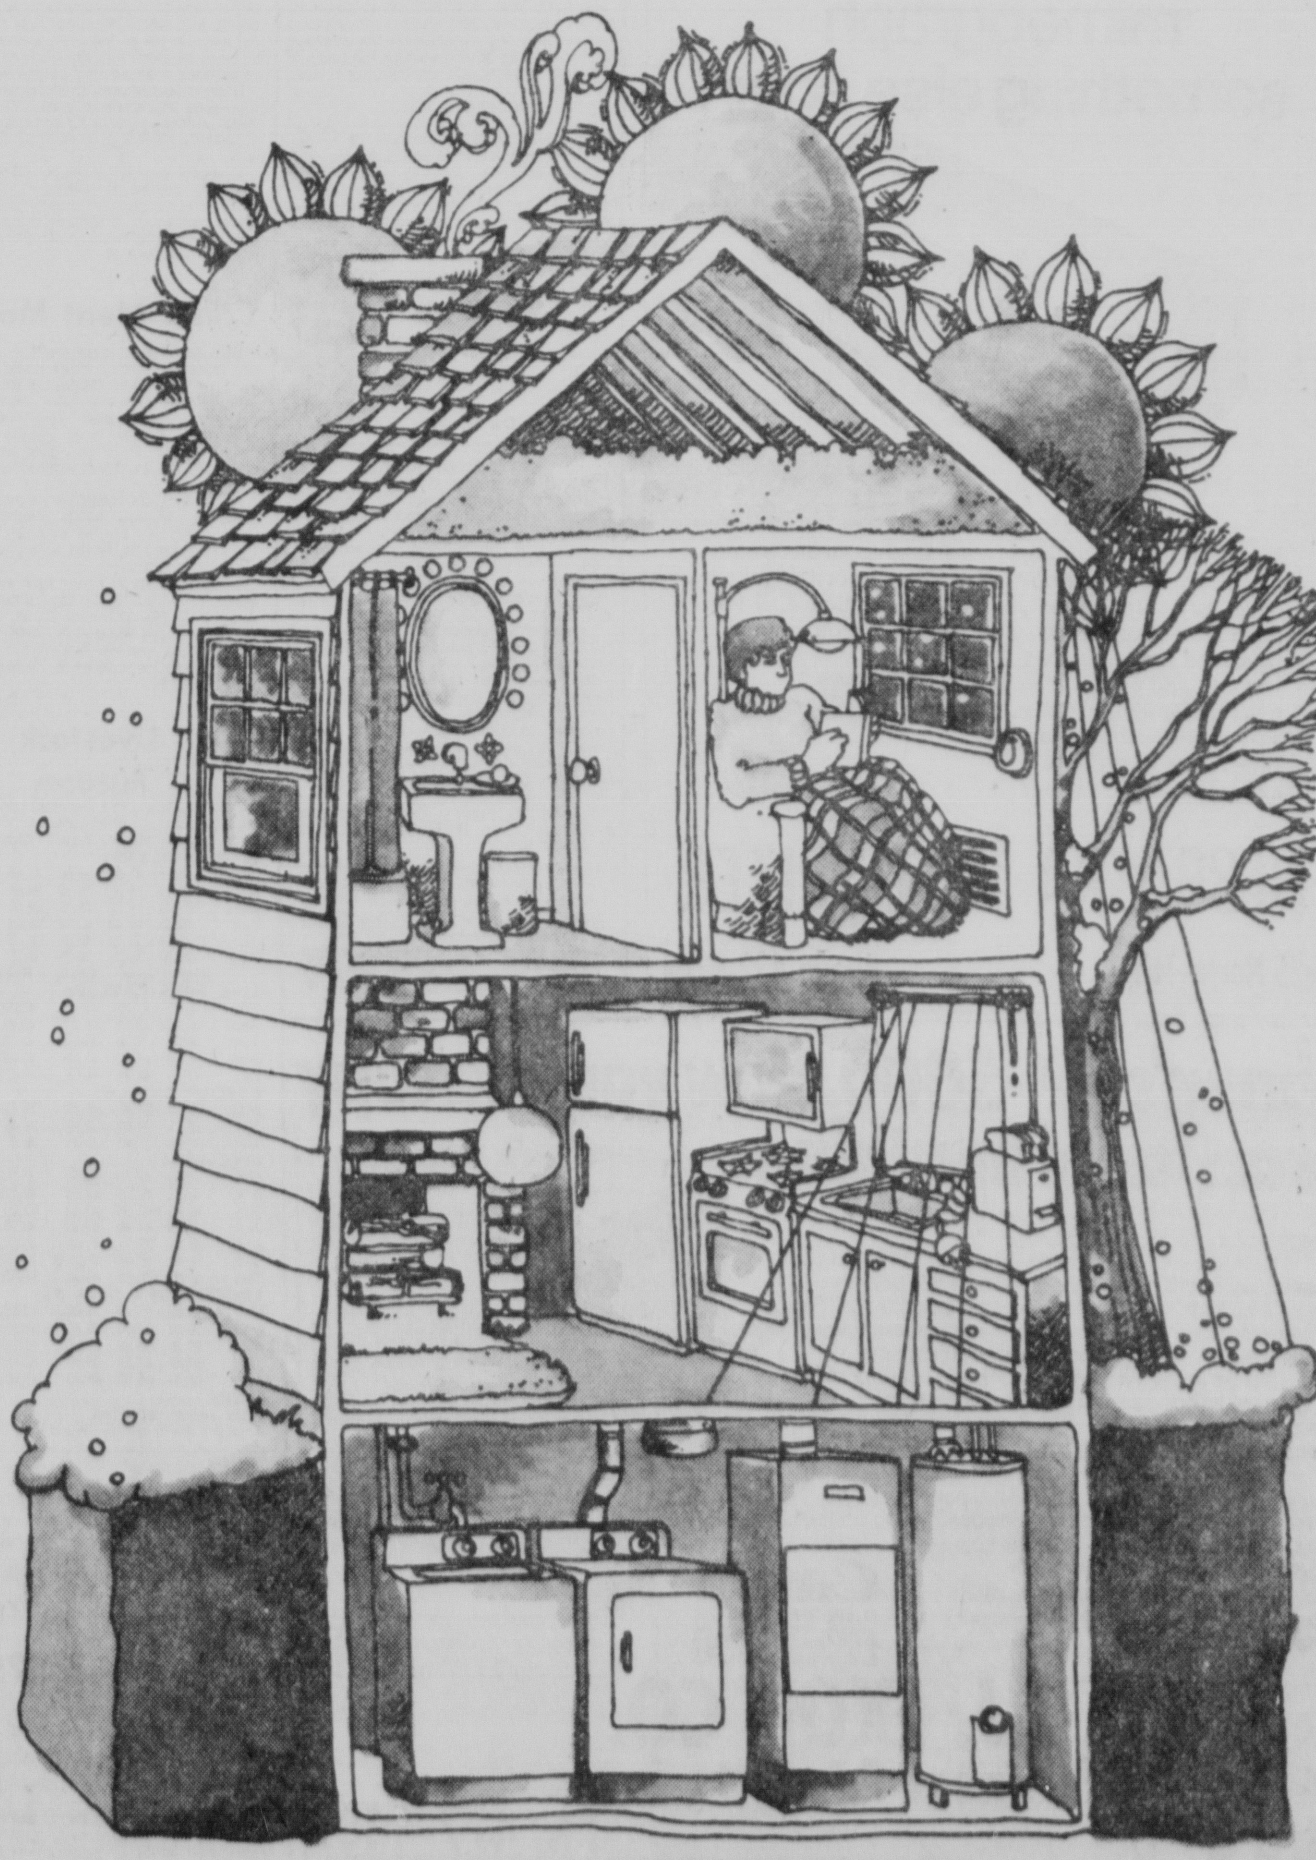

Keep the drapes open on the sunny side and you'll help your furnace do its job.

Make sure you have storm doors and windows everywhere. Without them, you'll lose as much as 10% of your heat each winter.

Caulk around door and window frames, especially if there are gaps you can see.

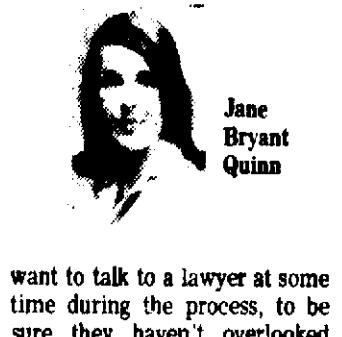

Gas appliances help you save energy right from the start. For the same amount of natural energy used by electrical appliances, natural gas appliances can:

- Cook almost twice as many meals.
- Heat over twice as many homes.
- Dry over three times as much laundry.
- And heat over twice as much water.

Staying Ahead Divorce Costs Curbed By Advance Planning

By JANE BRYANT QUINN
New York — Divorce is an extraordinary financial burden as well as an emotional one. Somehow, two households have to be maintained on an income that was probably barely enough for one. There are no magic formulas for getting around this. But you can at least do something to pare the cost of the divorce itself.

The price of divorce varies widely, depending on your resources and the amount of work involved. People of slender means usually turn to Legal Aid — but Legal Aid is now so short of money that most divorce cases have to wait. If your situation is not complicated, however, and your need is great, you might be able to find a lawyer who will draw up the papers for a minimal fee.

In a big city with classy lawyers, a couple might pay $5,000 for an uncontested divorce (much more if things get sticky). Elsewhere the fee might be closer to $2,500. If the couple does a lot of the spade work themselves, they might bring the cost down to $1,000. If you have the time, temperament and inclination to do the whole thing yourself, and state law is accommodating, you might get a divorce for as little as $100 in court and filing fees.

Do-it-yourself divorce manuals have been published in a few states. In general, these consist of worksheets showing what decisions you reach, what legal papers are needed and where to file them. It takes a good education, a grasp of procedure and a lot of faith in your own abilities to use a do-it-yourself guide successfully. Many couples will want to talk to a lawyer at some time during the process, to be sure they haven't overlooked anything.

Younger couples without children, who simply want to sever their connection and divide the property, are generally in a better position to do things themselves. It's more complicated for couples with children who have to hassle out questions of alimony and child support.

If you use a lawyer, you will save yourself money by being brief and businesslike, and avoiding vindictiveness. Divorce lawyers say they spend many hours listening to bitter complaints about the spouse, while the meter is running at perhaps $50 to $75 an hour. If possible, save your anger for a marriage counselor, a therapist or a generous friend. It's also cheaper to settle quietly than to pillory your spouse in court.

You can save yourself more money by agreeing on a fair property split with your spouse before seeing a lawyer. Much of his fee is for negotiating a settlement between warring parties; cut out the war and you cut the fee. But don't settle before discussing the following tax angles with an accountant or a lawyer experienced in financial planning.

—Alimony is tax-deductible to the husband and taxable to the wife; in most cases a lump-sum settlement is neither, unless it is paid in at least 10 equal annual installments. Alimony normally stops when the wife remarries.

—Child support is neither tax-deductible to the husband nor taxable to the wife. Normally, whichever parent provides more than half the child's support gets the $750 income tax deduction and the medical deductions. If the agreement doesn't specify what is child support, the Internal Revenue Service will normally treat the entire payment as alimony.

—A working wife will normally want to be in a position to claim at least one child as a dependent, in order to get the child-care deduction. But as long as the children are with her, she can file as head-of-household, even if the husband takes all the tax deductions.

—If a husband transfers ownership of the house (or his half of the house) or appreciated securities to his wife, he's liable for a capital gains tax on the difference between his cost and fair market value. The transfer of jointly held property may also give rise to tax traps, so be sure to ask an accountant about it.

—If the husband assigns the life insurance policy to his wife but continues to pay the premiums, the premiums are generally deductible to him, taxable to her. He loses all ownership rights in the policy, including the right to borrow the cash value. She gets the proceeds even if he remarries. There are other ways to handle insurance if this arrangement is not acceptable.

Market's Decline Is Broad

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market declined broadly Monday under the continuing influence of inflation worries and doubts about the progress of the economic recovery.

The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials, off 7.71 on Friday, lost another 5.75 to 838.63.

Losers outstripped gainers 925 to 478 among the 1,888 issues traded on the New York Stock Exchange.

Big Board volume eased off to 15.34 million shares from 17.72 million Friday.

Brokers said the market was feeling some lingering ill effects from the government's report Friday that its consumer price index climbed at an 8.4 per cent annual rate last month, matching the pace set in October.

There had been considerable hope on Wall Street that the latest data would show signs of a moderation of inflationary pressures.

Uncertainty over the outlook for the economic recovery seemed to have been heightened by word late last week that durable goods orders fell 1.2 per cent in November, for their biggest drop since last March.

Additionally, there was a congressional staff report issued over the weekend which maintained that the recovery was likely to falter by 1977 unless the government makes major changes in its policies on the economy.

Investors who had been looking for a year-end rally in the market evidently suffered a letdown with the downturn in stock prices Friday.

Robert Stovall at Reynolds Securities noted that investors showed little inclination to buy with the observance of Christmas expected to sharply curtail trading activity from mid-day Wednesday through the weekend.

Steel issues slipped with the industry posting a 1.7 per cent drop in production for last week. U.S. Steel was down 1/4 at 65 1/2; Bethlehem Steel eased 1/4 to 32 1/2; Republic Steel dipped 1/4 to 26 1/4; and Armco was off 1/4 to 26 1/4.

Utility issues provided one of the few bright spots, with the Dow Jones average of 15 utilities gaining .19 to 81.65.

Cattle, Hog Prices Up
Omaha (AP) — Despite fairly large runs, both cattle and hogs made small gains on the Omaha livestock market Monday.

The day's hog run was estimated at about 6,500 head.

The trade on barrows and gilts was called moderately active, and the butcher trend was steady to 25-cents higher, except on weights over 250-pounds, which were called strong to 25-cents higher, instances 30-cents to the upside.

Sows turned mostly steady, instances 50-cents lower in late trading.

There were about 8,000 cattle and calves in the pens.

The trade on slaughter steers and heifers was called moderately active and fully steady, instances strong to 25-cents higher.

Meanwhile, cows turned weak to 50-cents lower, instances 75-cents to $1.00 off in slow trade.

There were about 400 sheep on hand. The trade on the small supply of slaughter lambs was called steady to 50-cents higher.

TV Filming Of Boys Town Was 'Fair As Possible'

Boys Town (UPI) — A Boys Town official said the famed home for boys was as "fair as possible" towards a national television network crew which included a segment on Boys Town in a nationally televised special Monday night.

"We opened our doors, our books and our hearts to the NBC crew," said William Ramsey, Boys Town development director. "They interviewed anybody and everybody they wanted to."

During the special on "Giving and Getting — The Charity

Senning Fund Awards $1,000 To NU Student

John Christopher Wiltse, of Omaha a graduate student at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, has been awarded a $1,000 J. P. Senning Memorial Fellowship.

Wiltse is working toward a masters degree in political science.

The Senning Memorial Fund provides fellowships for graduate study in the fields of state legislation and public administration.

Burglary Reported

Stereo equipment, a clock and jewelry valued at about $1,700 were stolen in a burglary at an apartment rented by Charles T. Holmes at 837 S. 32nd, according to police. The burglar or burglars apparently pried open French doors to enter.

Omahan Shot; Lincoln Man Bradshaw Held

Twenty-five-year-old John E. Bradshaw, of 4227 Baldwin, was charged Monday in Lancaster County Court with shooting with intent to kill, wound or maim.

Virgil Ellingson, 28, of Omaha, remained in serious condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital with a 22-caliber wound to the neck sustained in the incident.

According to police reports, Ellingson was sitting near a bright lamp which was shining in Bradshaw's eyes. This prompted an argument during which Bradshaw allegedly fired a 22-caliber rifle at Ellingson, according to police.

Bradshaw was released on $5,000 bond. Two other men asleep in the house at the time were questioned by police and released. The shooting took place at late Saturday night.

Mace-Armed Robbers Hit Businesses

The new weapon was mace, the chemical spray often used by police to break up demonstrations, fights and riots.

Two establishments, a service station and a shoe store, were robbed by men armed with mace.

The Fisco Service Station, at 21st and J, was robbed about 8 p.m. by two men who took "under $100" from two station attendants, according to police at the scene. The robbers took all the cash that the attendants had, plus coin changers on the workers' belts and the money in the cash register.

The robbers forced the two attendants into a back room, sprayed them with mace and fled on foot.

Both robbers were described as black and about five feet 10 inches tall. One was heavy set with a half-moon scar on his left cheek, wore a black knee-length wool coat and a black stocking cap and was armed with a can of mace.

The other robber was described as weighing about 140 pounds with a dark coat and stocking cap. He was armed with a small caliber pistol.

The other robbery occurred at the Pay-Less Shoes store, at 1126 N. 27th, shortly after 9 a.m.

Police report a man took an undetermined amount of money from a salesclerk and threatened to kill her. Police said reports of the amount of money stolen ranged from $10 to $130.

The robber was described as a black man of about 20 years, five feet six inches tall, 175-185 pounds. He wore a maroon ski jacket, a navy blue stocking cap, dark pants and tan gloves.

Police are investigating the possibility that the two incidents are related.

Moscow To Aid Hanoi Industrial Building Plans

Tokyo (AP) — North Vietnam and the Soviet Union have signed a new five-year agreement under which Moscow will give Hanoi economic and technical aid to build industrial enterprises and other projects from 1976 to 1980, the Vietnam News Agency says.

The agency, in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo over the weekend, said the agreement was signed in Moscow.

"The new agreement provides for the two countries' cooperation in energy, chemical engineering, machine building, coal production, building materials, geology, agriculture and other economic activities," it said. No other details were given.

TV Filming Of Boys Town Was 'Fair As Possible'

Boys Town (UPI) — A Boys Town official said the famed home for boys was as "fair as possible" towards a national television network crew which included a segment on Boys Town in a nationally televised special Monday night.

"We opened our doors, our books and our hearts to the NBC crew," said William Ramsey, Boys Town development director. "They interviewed anybody and everybody they wanted to."

Senning Fund Awards $1,000 To NU Student

John Christopher Wiltse, of Omaha, a graduate student at the University of Nebraska-Lincoln, has been awarded a $1,000 J. P. Senning Memorial Fellowship.

Wiltse is working toward a masters degree in political science.

The Senning Memorial Fund provides fellowships for graduate study in the fields of state legislation and public administration.

Burglary Reported

Stereo equipment, a clock and jewelry valued at about $1,700 were stolen in a burglary at an apartment rented by Charles T. Holmes at 837 S. 32nd, according to police. The burglar or burglars apparently pried open French doors to enter.

Business: "on-camera reporter Betty Furness said the NBC crew wasn't allowed to film the inside of a downtown Omaha building owned by Boys Town and used for fund raising mechanics."

"It (Boys Town) was afraid the fund-raising operation would look too impersonal," Miss Furness said. "Last year, it collected $5 million in contributions. Boys Town says its fund-raising costs are 29%."

When the crew asked Ramsey if they could film the inside of the building, which was donated to Boys Town several years ago, Ramsey said, "I thought that was going too far. I just couldn't see filming 25 typewriters. I just couldn't see any sense in that at all."

Otherwise, Ramsey said, "They interviewed anybody and everybody they wanted to — from a staff member to any boy they wanted to talk with. That's been our open door policy and that will continue to be our policy."

"Judging from what the crew told us," Ramsey said, "we were a lot more cooperative than most of the other institutions included in the show."

Ramsey said to the best of his knowledge Miss Furness didn't come to Boys Town near Omaha for the film segment.

Ramsey joined Boys Town from an Omaha advertising-public relations agency shortly after the Rev. Robert Hupp was named director in 1973.

The majority of Ramsey's task at Boys Town has been to soothe the public relations wounds created by a 1972 account of the Sun Newspapers of Omaha that Boys Town was sitting on more than $200 million, but was still conducting annual fund raising operations. The Sun won a Pulitzer Prize for the story.

Miss Furness called the results of the Sun information a "public relations crisis."

However, she said Boys Town has a "successful fund-raising story" and has now committed $70 million to new programs, although it "was not always so industrious."

Miss Furness noted Boys Town development efforts in the Institute of Communications Disorders in Children and its planned research on all aspects of youth behavior.

"I must say we are pleased the program included what we are doing in these efforts," Ramsey said. "It could have been worse if they didn't."

Since the Sun disclosure, Miss Furness said "Boys Town continues its fund-raising, but there has been a change in tone. The emotionalism has been replaced by a more sophisticated forthright approach."

As to Boys Town's once keeping its wealth a secret, Father Hupp said, "I suppose I have to say that it was probably a case of having people in charge who were still living in the days of the depression back in the '30s when if you ever had a spare dime you would hide it and not tell anybody about it."

Omahan Shot; Lincoln Man

Bradshaw Held

Twenty-five-year-old John E. Bradshaw, of 4227 Baldwin, was charged Monday in Lancaster County Court with shooting with intent to kill, wound or maim.

Virgil Ellingson, 28, of Omaha, remained in serious condition at Bryan Memorial Hospital with a .22-caliber wound to the neck sustained in the incident.

According to police reports, Ellingson was sitting near a bright lamp which was shining in Bradshaw's eyes. This prompted an argument during which Bradshaw allegedly fired a .22-caliber rifle at Ellingson, according to police.

Bradshaw was released on $5,000 bond. Two other men asleep in the house at the time were questioned by police and released. The shooting took place at late Saturday night.

Mace-Armed Robbers Hit Businesses

Armed robbery, which is fast becoming Lincoln's favorite participant sport, took on a new twist Monday as robbers made use of a different weapon to force their demands.

The new weapon was mace, the chemical spray often used by police to break up demonstrations, fights and riots.

Two establishments, a service station and a shoe store, were robbed by men armed with mace.

The Fisco Service Station, at 21st and J, was robbed about 8 p.m. by two men who took "under $100" from two station attendants, according to police at the scene. The robbers took all the cash that the attendants had, plus coin changers on the workers' belts and the money in the cash register.

The robbers forced the two attendants into a back room, sprayed them with mace and fled on foot.

Both robbers were described as black and about five feet 10 inches tall. One was heavy set with a half-moon scar on his left cheek, wore a black knee-length wool coat and a black stocking cap and was armed with a can of mace.

The other robber was described as weighing about 140 pounds with a dark coat and stocking cap. He was armed with a small caliber pistol.

The other robbery occurred at the Pay-Less Shoes store, at 1126 N. 27th, shortly after 9 a.m. Police report a man took an undetermined amount of money from a salesclerk and threatened to kill her. Police said reports of the amount of money stolen ranged from $10 to $30.

The robber was described as a black man of about 20 years, five feet six inches tall, 175-185 pounds. He wore a maroon ski jacket, a navy blue stocking cap, dark pants and tan gloves.

Police are investigating the possibility that the two incidents are related.

Moscow To Aid Hanoi Industrial Building Plans

Tokyo (AP) — North Vietnam and the Soviet Union have signed a new five-year agreement under which Moscow will give Hanoi economic and technical aid to build industrial enterprises and other projects from 1976 to 1980, the Vietnam News Agency says.

The agency, in a broadcast monitored in Tokyo over the weekend, said the agreement was signed in Moscow.

"The new agreement provides for the two countries' cooperation in energy, chemical engineering, machine building, coal production, building materials, geology, agriculture and other economic activities," it said. No other details were given.

WOOD PIECES CARVED BY MARV . . . hang in front display area of The Wood Pile.

AT WORK ON KITCHEN CABINET . . . Sharleen and Marv.

Furniture Refinished With TLC

BY PATTY BEUTLER
Star Staff Writer

Some people get vibes from other people. Sharleen and Marv Reznicek, however, get them from furniture.

They save old pieces of furniture from the junk pile by reviving them at The Wood Pile.

With tender loving care they treat ailing ancestral pieces from grandma's attic or restore second-hand bargains from a thrift shop basement.

They strip, stain, lacquer, varnish, finish and repair furniture by hand until each faded piece breathes new life. But not without rubbing off a bit of its past first.

Warm Vibrations

Sharleen said she could feel the warmth exuding from an oversized walnut bedstead she was stripping. There was a lot of loving in that bed, she thought to herself.

And sure enough, when the bed was claimed, Sharleen learned it had belonged to the owner's grandmother, who gave birth to 13 children in it.

And then there was the wooden secretary that gave off bad vibes. It refused to be stripped, stained or finished without blemishes. "It got so no one wanted to work on it," Marv recalled.

Neither was surprised to learn from its owner that the secretary had spent years in a room with an invalid woman, facing the bed in which she eventually died.

"Furniture takes on the character of the people it belongs to," Marv firmly believes.

The couple has taken a 46-week mind orientation course on how to relate to objects and people. "We've been using it more with the furniture than with the people," Marv laughed.

But they've got to read people as well. "You know what to do with it," instruct half their customers, as they drop off their furniture to be fixed up or finished.

That leaves the pair to ponder whether the customer has walnut, oak, mahogany or walnut in the rest of her home.

Marv assumes that they do it right. "We've never had a piece brought back yet."

The Rezniceks began working with old furniture years ago because it was a nice, inexpensive way of furnishing their home.

Outgrew Garage

What began as a hobby in their garage soon outgrew both the limited space and the spare time they could eke out of their after-work hours.

Since both were finding their hobby more fun than their work, they thought it made sense to quit their jobs to work at their hobby.

And that's how The Wood Pile, 1541 N. Cotner, was born — named affectionately by their son after the piles of wood (Marv's collection of porch posts) that had filled their garage at home.

They've come a long way from that first trial and error attempt at stripping their own round oak table years ago.

Directions Wrong

"We followed the directions on the can," Marv remembered. "And they were wrong in the first place."

It took them three months to finish that first piece — "the hardest way possible."

They've since learned through experience and by incorporating much of the advice and expertise of several elderly tutors.

All they use now for stripping is a coffee can full of a benzene-methanol stripping mixture and a paint brush, plus some paper towels to dry off the finished product.

The key to success, Marv said, is to keep the piece wet; most people let it dry.

But there is no way to stay clean while getting the job done. Their sweatshirts and jeans bear permanent brownish stains.

Challenge Each Time

The Rezniceks work with furniture disguised by layers of stain and paint. "It's a challenge each time to find out what's under all that goo. You've got to have an imagination," said Marv.

Although the pair has never advertised, word of mouth has kept their shop overflowing with back orders.

"My biggest problem is that I care too much about the wood. I haven't run into anyone I can trust as much as myself," Marv said.

"You've got me, honey," Sharleen retorted, and Marv nodded with approval.

Though the team puts in long hours on the job, neither complains. "This has never been work to me," said Marv. "The day it becomes work, I'll quit."

Opening lead: ten of spades.

To play first and think later is effective in some games, but not in bridge.

Consider this deal where West led a spade against three notrump. Declarer could not afford to put up the queen, as he would be wide open in the suit if East had the king. So he played low from dummy and won the trick with the ace.

His best source for tricks was obviously in diamonds, and accordingly South led a diamond at trick two and finessed the nine after West followed low. East won with the jack, but it did not matter whether he returned a heart or a club; in either case, declarer would win the return and run with nine tricks.

Superficially the outcome seems normal, but actually the contract should have failed. West was responsible for the lapse in the defense.

West should have put up the queen when declarer led a diamond at trick two. Had he done that, South would have found it impossible to make the contract. If declarer ducked the queen, West would put a quick end to South's chances by playing a second round of spades, while if declarer won the queen he would be faced with an altogether hopeless task.

The queen play by West is not easy to think of in the heat of battle, but there is no doubt that with careful analysis it is the right play to make.

West can reason that, if declarer has the jack of diamonds, his queen is of no earthly use and no harm can come from playing it. At the same time West can reason that, if his partner has the jack, the play of the queen might do a lot of good. Accordingly, he should play it.

Wife Objects To Women Coal Miners

DEAR ABBY: My husband works in the coal mines, and I just found out that they recently hired some women to work right alongside the men!

Abby, I don't want my husband working with women. I've talked to lots of other wives, and they feel the same way about it. We can see nothing but trouble ahead. What can we do about it?

CUMBERLAND, KY
DEAR CUMBERLAND: You may not dig your husband working with women, but it's highly unlikely that "his" and "her" coal mines will become a reality.

I personally dig equal opportunities for women — above or below ground.

DEAR ABBY: I am a 33-year-old male who has been seeing a psychologist about a stuttering and stammering problem I've had since puberty.

My therapist is a middle-aged woman who was recommended to me by my physician.

During our last session, my therapist suggested that a sexual relationship between us might be the answer to my problem. She knows that I am married, and although I have told her that my sex life at home is not ideal, I've also said it is not a serious problem to me. Anyway, I don't know how this could be related to my stuttering and stammering problem, do you?

Will you please ask your consultants what they think about this situation?

Hurry your reply as I told her I would think about it. Perhaps I should tell you that the therapist is also married.

WAITING TO HEAR

DEAR WAITING: I urge you (and any other patient whose therapist suggests that sex between them should be part of the "treatment") to refuse firmly, report the incident to the ethics board of the therapist's professional association and look for a new therapist. (P.S. The physician who recommended this therapist should also be informed.)

DEAR ABBY: I've been divorced for 12 years. Men and women tell me I am very attractive. I've had several love affairs, but I was looking for that certain man. Three years ago, I met him. When he asked me out I was on cloud nine. We dated nightly for six months. He told me he loved me. It was heaven.

Suddenly everything came to a screaming halt! I didn't hear from him for two weeks. I knew where he lived and had his phone number, but I'm not one to run after a man. He finally called, saying he'd be over that night. When he arrived he acted as though he'd seen me the night before. I didn't question him, but he tried to make me believe his job kept him too busy to contact me. I knew he was lying.

Shortly after that, some friends took me to dinner, and there he was — with another woman! He stopped by our table and made small talk. I was blind with hurt and jealousy.

Now, for two and a half years this man calls me and drops in to see me, and he thinks I should jump into bed with him because he wants me. I keep telling him to stay away from me, but he pays no attention. I've moved twice, but he finds me, and it starts over. He says he MUST see me.

I'm in my 50s and so is he. I still love him, but I don't want him on his terms. What is the solution?

VAYA CON DIOS

DEAR VAYA: There must be something about the way you tell him to stay away that lacks sincerity. And your behavior after he "finds" you confirms his suspicions that he's got the upper hand. He won't believe that you mean business when you tell him to get lost until you do.

For Abby's new booklet, "What Teen-agers Want to Know," send $1 to Abigail Van Buren, 132 Lasky Dr., Beverly Hills, Calif. 90212. Please enclose a long, self-addressed, stamped (20c) envelope.

Everyone has a problem. What's yours? For a personal reply, write to ABBY: Box No. 69700, L.A., Calif. 90069. Enclose stamped, self-addressed envelope, please.

DEAR ABBY: I've been divorced for 12 years. Men and women tell me I am very attractive. I've had several love affairs, but I was looking for that certain man. Three years ago, I met him. When he asked me out I was on cloud nine! We dated nightly for six months. He told me he loved me. It was heaven.

Suddenly everything came to a screeching halt! I didn't hear from him for two weeks. I knew where he lived and had his phone number, but I'm not one to run after a man. He finally called, saying he'd be over that night. When he arrived he acted as though he'd seen me the night before. I didn't question him, but he tried to make me believe his job kept him too busy to contact me. I knew he was lying.

Shortly after that, some friends took me to dinner, and there he was — with another woman! He stopped by our table and made small talk. I was blind with hurt and jealousy.

Now, for two and a half years this man calls me and drops in to see me, and he thinks I should jump into bed with him because he wants me. I keep telling him to stay away from me, but he pays no attention. I've moved twice, but he finds me, and it starts over. He says he MUST see me.

I'm in my 50s and so is he. I still love him, but I don't want him on his terms. What is the solution?

VAYA CON DIOS

DEAR VAYA: There must be something about the way you tell him to stay away that lacks sincerity. And your behavior after he "finds" you confirms his suspicions that he's got the upper hand. He won't believe that you mean business when you tell him to get lost until you do.

Farmers Plant More, But Less Is Expected

The nation's farmers have planted 2% more land to winter wheat this fall, but the crop they harvest next summer is likely to be 9% smaller than in 1975 because of poor growing conditions.

Winter wheat acreage planted this fall reached 57.2 million acres, 1.1 million acres more than last year and the largest since 1949 when farmers seeded a record 61.2 million acres.

Prospective production for the crop based on Dec. 1 conditions is 1,496 million bushels, 9% below the record 1975 crop.

Nebraska farmers seeded 6% more land to winter wheat for a total of 3,400,000 acres according to Jack Aschwege, state statistician of the State-Federal Division of Agriculture Statistics.

This is the largest Nebraska acreage since 1967. Short moisture supplies during the fall have caused uneven growth in many areas. Some of the crop germinated late, making it vulnerable to winter kill.

Based on Dec. 1 conditions, the 1976 production is forecast at 95.2 million bushels, 3% below the 1975 crop.

14% Increase Planned For Winter Farrowing

The farrowing intentions of Nebraska pork producers are up 14% for the winter quarter and 13% for the spring quarter.

A total of 305,000 farrowings are planned for the next six months: 125,000 during December-February and 180,000 during March-May. That total is 13% above a year ago. It is 16% below the number farrowed during that period in 1974.

Nebraska farmers had an estimated 2,700,000 hogs and pigs on hand Dec. 1, 1975, down 11% from a year ago, according to Jack Aschwege, state statistician of the State-Federal Division of Agriculture Statistics.

That was the lowest December inventory since 1967. Hogs and pigs kept for breeding totaled 405,000, which is 13% above last year. Market hogs were down 15% to 2,295,000.

Market hogs by weight group were as follows: under 60 pounds, 859,000 — down 13%; 60-119 pounds, 585,000 — down 15%; 120-179 pounds, 459,000 — down 15%; 180-219 pounds, 310,000 — down 18%; 220 and over, up 92,000 — down 15%.

A total of 145,000 sows farrowed during the fall quarter in Nebraska. This produced a pig crop of 1,066,000 which is a 5% decline from a year earlier and the smallest September-November pig crop since quarterly estimated were started in 1963.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE - Here's how to work it: AXYDLBAAXR is LONGFELLOW

One letter simply stands for another. In this sample A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's, etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Tuesday, December 23, 1975
Do you have a Sagittarian on your Christmas shopping list? If so, your problems are solved. Gift luggage - or books, or both. The Sagittarian reads and travels, has great curiosity about the world and people. Write him a "big package" and the Sagittarian will be delighted.

ARIES (March 21-April 19): Accent on change, job, health, ability to understand and accomplish special services. Tear down for purposes of reconstruction. Specifics are highlights - means you deal with tangible matters rather than abstract situations.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Relationship is intensified. Nothing is apt to be halfway - it is hot or cold, all or nothing. You get chance to analyze, to draw valid conclusions. Gemini, Virgo and Sagittarius persons figure in picture. Get property appraisals.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20): Build on base that is solid. Be aware of facts and figures. Eschew schemes that attempt to manipulate. Obtain hint from Taurus messages. Family member wants reassurance, affection. Know it and give of yourself.

CANCER (June 21-July 22): Emphasis on short journeys, dealings with neighbors and relatives. See people and places as they are, not merely the way you wish they could be. Pisces, Virgo persons could play key roles. Idea needs "development time."

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Money, organization, ability to present viewpoint in dynamic manner - these are emphasized. Protect possessions. You now are able to deal from position of strength. Capricorn is likely to be in picture. Enhance security by insisting on being granted your rights.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22): Lunar cycle high - take initiative. Set pace. Dance to your own tune. Spread influence. Enlarge horizons. Trust intuition, judgment. Timing is on target. You will finish important transaction, project. Aries is in picture.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): What occurs will be secret, discreet, filmed or taped rather than direct. A clandestine conference could be featured. Keep promise to one confined to home, hospital. Leo, Aquarius figure prominently. You have marvelous opportunity for greater self-expression.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on romantic interlude, creative project, fulfillment of desire and a meaningful compliment from friend you admire. Aquarian is likely to be in picture. Your "inner voice" is talking straight talk. You would be wise to listen.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis on achievement - you get better distribution, popularity increases. Gemini is in picture - and so is a "special communication." One in position to "pull strings" is very interested in your potential.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Moon aspect highlights journeys, messages, ability to express for long-range effect. You'll be asked to do some revising - this enables you to correct minor errors. Aquarius, Leo and Taurus could be involved.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Taxes, credits, legal affairs, money as it concerns business partner or mate - these areas are spotlighted. Dig beneath surface - make necessary changes. Be analytical. Gain show through written word. Look for hidden clause.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Lie low; play waiting game. Accent on opposition, on persons who might try to trip you up with legal technicalities. Be alert, observant, willing to listen and to let others reveal their plans. Be cautious, realizing that if your time is "on the way."

IF DEC. 23 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are inquisitive, attractive, fond of travel, passionate, capable of responding well during times of crisis. Gemini, Virgo persons play important roles in your life. You made domestic adjustment this month - upcoming is a period of solitude, when you build on base that holds and will help elevate your position.

Here is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add 3. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

ASTROLOGICAL FORECAST

By SIDNEY OMARR

Tuesday, December 23, 1975

Do you have a Sagittarius on your Christmas shopping list? If so, your problems are solved. Get luggage - or books, or both. The Sagittarian reads and travels. Has great fun out of the world and people. Wrap your gift in a dog package, and the Sagittarian will be delighted.

TAURUS (Apr. 20-May 20): Relationship is intensified. Nothing is set to be halfway - it is hot or cold. All or nothing. You get change to analyze and draw valid conclusions. Gemini, Virgo and Sagittarius persons figure in picture. Get property appraisals.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22): Money, organization, ability to present viewpoint in dynamic manner - these are emphasized. Protect possessions. You are able to deal from position of strength. Capricorn is likely to be in picture. Enhance security by insisting on being granted your rights.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22): What occurs will be secret, discreet, filmed or taped rather than direct. A clandestine conference could be featured. Keep promise to one confined to home. Hospital. Leo, Aquarius figure prominently. You have marvelous opportunity for greater self-expression.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 21): Accent on romantic interlude, creative project, fulfillment of desire and a meaningful compliment from friend you admire. Aquarian is likely to be in picture. Your inner voice is talking straight talk. You would be wise to listen.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22-Dec. 21): Emphasis on achievement - you get better distribution, popularity increases. Gemini is in picture - and so is a "special communication." One in position to "pull strings" is very interested in your potential.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19): Moon aspect highlights journeys, messages, ability to express for long-range effect. Gemini is in picture - and so is a "special communication." One in position to "pull strings" is very interested in your potential.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18): Taxes, credits, legal affairs, money, as if concerns business partner or mate - these areas are spotlighted. Dig beneath surface - make necessary changes. Be analytical. Gain shown through written word. Look for hidden clause.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20): Lie low, play safe - no game. Accent on opposition, on persons who might try to trip you up with legal technicalities. Be alert! Observers will try to listen and to let others reveal their plans. Be cautious, realizing that if your time is - or the way.

IF DEC 23 IS YOUR BIRTHDAY you are inquisitive, attractive, fond of travel, passionate, capable of responding well during times of crisis. Gemini, Virgo persons play important roles in your life. You made some adjustment in your month - upcoming is a period of solidly when you build on base that holds and will help elevate your position.

LEARN THE TRUTH ABOUT ASTROLOGY! Send 75 cents to Omarr Booklet, Lincoln Star, P.O. Box 171, Los Angeles, Ca. 90053. You'll open door to fascinating study and self-revelation!

This is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It's a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your future. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 1 or more, subtract 1. If the number is less than 6, add 2. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers, left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.
